FIRE'S AFTERMATH—Surveying the charred remains of the dining room of his home in Paradise Cay is W. G. Shackleton, 170 Trinidad Drive. The fire in the Shackleton home, one of two in Southern Marin during the night, destroyed five rooms and heavily damaged others, but no one was injured. In the other fire, in Sausalito, a month-old baby died.

Blaze Kills Infant; Grandmother Hurt

Fire Also Hits Home In Tiburon

Two fires, one killing a month-old baby, raced through Southern Marin homes last night.

Dead in his crib was Edward Lacey, infant son of Sally V. Lacey, who was away from home at the time.

His grandmother, Genevieve Anglim, 79, suffered severe burns in the fire at 210 Second Street, Sausalito, and was reported in poor condition today in the intensive care unit at Marin General Hospital with burns of the face, neck and hands.

TIBURON BLAZE

In Tiburon, fire destroyed one wing and damaged another in a $50,000 house in Paradise Cay. The fire at the home of W. G. Shackleton, 170 Trinidad Drive, threatened neighboring homes but was controlled within 15 minutes after firemen arrived at 10:25 p.m.

In Sausalito, neighbors reported the Lacey apartment "exploded" in flames at the rear of the building at 7:39 p.m. Police Patrolman Steven Willis arrived two minutes later and found Mrs. Anglim in the yard screaming "there's a baby in there." Willis tried to enter but was driven back by intense heat.

FIREMEN HURT

Two firemen were injured minutes later when they tried to rescue the baby through a window. Capt. Max Robertson cut tendons in his arm when he broke the window and Fireman Stephan Vogel cut his knee trying to crawl inside. Robertson was treated at Marin General Hospital.

The coroner's office did not list the cause of the infant's death pending autopsy. Funeral is pending at Russell and Gooch mortuary, Mill Valley.

Sausalito Fire Chief Charles E. Masten estimated damage at $2,500 to the apartment and $4,000 to contents. Masten said the fire started in the kitchen but the cause is still under investigation. The "explosion" reported by neighbors was heat blowing out a rear window, he said. Firemen were aided by

Alternate State Tax Plan Drafted

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post proposed today a statewide tax on business property, a state takeover of county welfare costs and major state aid to cities hit by heavy police and fire costs.

The report from the Legislature's fiscal adviser was the second big tax reform plan to hit the Capitol in two days. Monday, a governor's advisory commission proposed a $914 million package, with much of the money returning to local governments for general aid and tax reductions.

Post proposed:

A uniform statewide tax on business property. Proceeds would be placed in the present school fund, and then handed out in a manner that would help poorer districts.

Abolition of local government's share of the sales tax—one per cent—with the state assuming control over it. That would mean the entire sales tax would go into the state's coffers.

Post said proceeds from the one per cent portion would go to cities whose tax base will not support pressing police and fire needs.

As an example of a city that is pressed beyond its means, the report cited Oakland.

"Oakland and San Jose have approximatly the same level of assessed valuation, but Oakland's police department costs twice as much as San Jose's and Oakland's fire department was 60 per cent more expensive," Post said.

Post said Oakland's crime statistics were twice as high as San Jose's and its fire costs also were higher because of the needs of protecting its port.

Post said under his proposal the sales tax money would be distribted on the basis of need.

The analyst said if the state assumed the county's $237 million in welfare costs, counties hardest hit by welfare costs would be able to cut their tax rates.

Apollo, Cab Swim Through Jolt Test

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 9 space pilots jarred their ship twice with jolts of rocket power today for two basic reasons:

To see if the awkward moon cab locked to Apollo's nose would survive the shaking.

And to make the command ship easier to handle in any space rescue attempts that might be needed in risky maneuvers to come.

They talked more brightly after a good night's sleep.

Scott, asked by the ground whether he had much trouble handling the controls during the rocket burns, said he found it rather easy.

For one brief moment between tests, the astronauts kidded about the hoses that provide oxygen and take away used air from their space suits.

"Hey Smokey," McDivitt asked Stuart Roosa, ground communicator, "have you ever been attacked by a band of wild elephants? . . . You ought to see what it looks like in here with these six big black hoses."

Roosa laughed and Scott added, "Did you ever dream about octopuses?"

The second rocket burst of the day lasted nearly five minutes. It boosted the combined Apollo-moon cab structure to an orbit ranging from a high of about 315 miles to a low of 125 miles. It also improved the earth track of the spaceship and its angle to the sun's light for Thursday's planned spacewalk.

The first rocket firing was a two minute burst. It also boosted the orbit. But neither test shook up the nose-to-nose spacecraft as much as had been expected. It was a successful prove-out of one major unknown for the two ships that will carry Americans to the moon in July.

The two firings reduced the fuel load of the spaceship by almost 26,000 pounds, making it easier to control the ship with small jets should deft maneuvering be necessary for any rescue attempt in a space chase scheduled for Friday.

The heart rates of the astronauts gave the only betrayal of their excitement. McDivitt's had boosted to 115 a minute, Scott's to 108 a minute, and rookie spaceman Schweickart,

New Trouble For Guru Of Olompali

Donald J. McCoy, the hippie pontiff who says he is "society's problem child" has been arrested again — this time for allegedly trespassing and obstructing a business.

McCoy, whose rented Rancho Olompali north of Novato serves as a hippie sanctuary, was arrested yesterday with three others, including a 10-year-old boy, after a ruckus at a Novato restaurant.

Arrested with McCoy were James E. Bartee, 23; Sheila G. McKendrick, 36, and the juvenile. McCoy and the two adults were booked into Marin County Jail but were released on their own recognizance, whereupon McCoy stood on the courthouse steps singing Christmas carols until he was ordered to stop.

"I'm society's problem child and I don't know what they'll do with me," he said. He and the others were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Novato police said the fracas started about 7:35 a.m. when a cook at Denny's, a 24-hour restaurant, found McCoy asleep on a counter. He woke McCoy up, police said, but McCoy walked over to a corner, laid down and went to sleep again.

Later, presumably refreshed, McCoy and the others ordered breakfast. McCoy paid the $2.75 for his own meal but could not or would not pay for the others — whose bills totaled $4.83 — according to police.

After discussion with Gerald E. Meacham, manager of the restaurant on Highway 101 south of Grant Avenue, and police, it

State Campus Quiet, But Colorado Noisy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The four-month student strike at San Francisco State College entered a new phase today, with a companion teachers' strike at an end and with picketing restrictions greeted with quiet compliance.

Things went less well for the college's acting president S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, when he was jeered off the stage while trying to speak to students at Colorado State College in Boulder last night. (See related campus stories, page 2.)

Previous court orders have done little to halt the violence and arrests which have occurred at San Francisco State since the strike began Nov. 6. The latest one may prove no different.

But yesterday, when Sheriff Matt Carberry read the new court order limiting pickets to five at any entrance and specifying pickets stay at least five feet apart, some 200 pickets dispersed quietly.

In the meantime, around 300 striking union teachers had voted by a narrow margin to end the walkout they started Jan. 6 and were back at class.

Students Hit Political Acts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Two student leaders say that campus violence will end only when Gov. Ronald Reagan the Legislature and their own faculty show "real understanding" toward solving campus problems.

The chief problems, are equal campus opportunity for minority groups and student participation in campus decisions, the students told an Assembly subcommittee last night.

Earlier yesterday, Reagan urged legislators to approve four proposals he already has made to quell campus violence. They include expulsion or dismissal for students or faculty convicted in campus disturbances and a ban on using loudspeakers without permission.

But Steve Woodside, student body president at the University of California at Davis, said: "I believe much of the crisis has been perpetrate by political reaction . . . in the form of bills or public statements." He said violence on his campus has been

Car Strikes Boy Sitting In Street

A 5-year-old boy, sitting in the middle of the street near his home at 52 El Camino Avenue, San Rafael, according to police, was struck and run over by a car at 11:40 a.m, today.

The child, Daniel Llorens, son of Mrs. Joyce Llorens, was taken to Marin General Hospital with a severely cut head. The full extent of his injuries was not known.

Patrolman Charles Brobeck said the car traveling uphill on El Camino, was driven by Sandra Jolman of 24 El Camino, who did not see the youngster. Brobeck said preliminary investigation indicated that Daniel was struck and cut by the license plate, but that the car passed over him without otherwise touching him.

Wounded Sailor's Agonizing Surgery

CORONADO (UPI — North Korean prison officers put a wounded sailor from the USS Pueblo through agonizing major surgery without anaesthetia and then made him tell a news conference about his "humane treatment."

Engineman 2/C Steven E. Woelk, 20, of Grand Rapids, Mich., described his surgery today before a five-admiral court of inquiry into capture of the Pueblo and the conduct of her crew.

Wounded in the pelvis by shell fragments when the North Koreans fired on the Pueblo, Woelk couldn't walk when the ship docked at the port of Wonsan.

He was carried ashore on a stretcher, hit repeatedly and then dragged part of the way to a bus that took the Pueblo's crew to prison, he told the court. His operation three days later took place on a bare table in a prison room.

When he failed to rally after surgery, Woelk said, the North Koreans relented and sent him to a military hospital for 44 days. He said the treatment there was good.

The Koreans got all the propaganda mileage they could by making him write "Thank you" letters and give favorable statements before a news conference.

In Washington, Adm. Thomas J. Moorer testified today that the USS Pueblo's spy mission off the coast of North Korea was cleared in advance, probably as high up as the White House.

Moorer, chief of naval operations, testified at the opening of congressional hearings on the Pueblo incident.

The four-star admiral told a special House armed services subcommittee that "assessment of the risks involved" was subject to standard channels of review going to the Joint Chiefs of Staff "and ultimately to higher authority."

He said this would mean the Defense Department and the commander-in-chief (President.) In the case of the Pueblo, it would have meant President Lyndon B. Johnson.

As the House panel began its inquiry, Moorer submitted a copy of the Pueblo's sailing orders detailing electronic and visual surveillance operations to be carried out against Russian naval operations off the North Korean coast.

Under questioning, Moorer said he was "sure" the Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, was advised of contingency plans for assistance

Heart Switched By Texas Team

HOUSTON (UPI)—A 56-year-old retired Canadian businessman received the heart of an unidentified donor today in the first heart transplant at the Texas Heart Institute in almost four months.

Isaac Morris, of Calgary, Alberta, was in satisfactory condition at St. Luke's Hospital after the surgery by Dr. Denton A. Cooley's transplant team.

It was the 19th transplant for Cooley, who has done more than any other doctor, and the 118th in the world. Morris became the world's 38th survivor.

The unidentified donor was believed to be a Negro in his late twenties or early thirties.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Pearl Planner Warmly Welcomed

Genda

Gen. Minoru Genda, 65, appeared last night as a distinguished visitor at the invitation of the U.S. Naval Institute, a fraternal organization of American naval personnel.

When Genda's scheduled appearance was made public late last month, academy public relations and executive personnel were subjected to a minor flurry of protests from angry Americans.

Lt. Cdr. Jack White of the academy's information office, said: "We received about 50 letters, 100 telephone calls and a dozen telegrams — in round figures."

Several of Genda's remarks received applause, such as his comment that his nation should take a stronger role in the future defense of the Far East once the American presence there is reduced.

Mine Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has sent Congress a proposed bill to set up federal health and safety standards for coal mines and at the same time announced a new program of grants to help the states develop their own programs.

The legislation would provide heavy fines for companies violating the standards.

Nixon also announced a series of administrative orders increasing the number of mine inspectors substantially and expanding research into the "black lung" disease which results from inhaling coal dust, plus other mine hazards.

Backs Equality

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Winton M. Blount says he subscribes without reservation to Post Office Department programs of equal employment opportunity.

Blount, the only Deep South member of President Nixon's cabinet and the first member from Alabama in 75 years, urged postal workers in a policy statement to strive for total racial equality on the job and in their communities.

He spoke of "achieving equality as a never-ending crusade" and declared, "We cannot be satisfied with past achievements."

Villagers Win

LONDON (AP) — The villagers of northwest Essex have defeated Parliament and the government in a battle over location of the new London airport.

Parliament had approved the government's choice of Stansted, site of a U.S. air strip used during World War II. The residents of Stansted and Takely, which would have been razed by the plan, protested some of southern England's most picturesque villages and finest farmland would be taken.

A commission was named to look into the issue and today recommended four sites. Stansted was not among them.

Troop Forecast

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park said today he expects the day will come when American troops no longer are needed to help defend South Korea, but he does not know when that will be.

Speaking to a group of visiting American businessmen, the South Korean president said the United States should pressure Japan to renounce its lukewarm attitude toward a regional defense alliance.

Church Damaged

BRESCIA, Italy (AP) — The facade of the church in which Pope Paul VI was baptized in 1897 was damaged today by a homemade bomb.

The explosion occurred in the village of Cencesio, near Brescia, where the Pope was born and spent his boyhood.

Police began an investigation.

In 1964 two explosive devices damaged the house where Pope Paul was born.

Protests Attack

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Laotian government protested today to Britain and the Soviet Union against a Communist attack that wiped out one of its major outposts. It called on the two nations to get North Vietnamese troops out of Laos.

Britain and the Soviet Union were cochairman of the Geneva Conferences that produced an agreement in 1962 guaranteeing the independence and neutrality of Laos.

The Laotian government claimed more than 1,000 Communist troops, four-fifths of them North Vietnamese and the rest Pathet Laos, overran an outpost Sunday at Na Khang, 150 miles northeast of Vientiane. It also reported another attack at Souvanna Khili, in southern Laos.

No Traces Of Missing Scouts

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — Avalanche experts probed two snow mountain snowslides without success in the San Bernardino Mountains yesterday in the hunt for four Los Angeles Explorer Scouts and their adult leader.

The four boys, Bob Rittmayer, Albert Silverburg, Eddie Manz and Burton Ellsworth, were with Dr. Michael Pasternak on a skiing trip toward Green Valley when they vanished Feb. 22. Rattmayer, 16, is a former resident of Marin County.

Two 18-year-old Novato youths were arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for burglarizing Lu Sutton School in Novato early Saturday.

Michael R. Rundle and Phillip R. McFarren, both of 1308 Leafwood Drive, were given a one-day continuance in their case for obtaining counsel.

Michigan Students Arrested

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State police broke through two locked glass doors in the administration building to arrest more than 300 demonstrators holding a sit-in at Ferris State College in Big Rapids.

Acting on the orders of Gov. William Milliken, who said two weeks ago he would not tolerate student disorders, about 70 troopers forcibly dragged the first few demonstrators from the building last night.

The rest left without resistence. About 600 white students gathered outside as the predominantly Negro sit-ins were taken to buses under guard. A few of the onlookers chanted "White Power."

The demonstrators were driven to the Big Rapids National Guard Armory where they were arraigned on charges of trespasing.

The incident culminated a week of confrontations between Negroes and whites on the central Michigan campus. Of the 7,700 students, 360 are Negro. They seek some Negro faculty members and black studies.

At the University of Colorado in Boulder, about 30 screaming students forced San Francisco State College President S. I. Hayakawa to cut short a speech. (See story, page 1.)

Elsewhere there were these developments:

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA—A black banner flew for an hour over the Charlotte campus after Negro students raised it in place of the United States and state flags. Spokesmen said it was to dramatize demands including establishment of a black studies program.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN — Faculty members approved creation of a black studies department—one of the 13 demands submitted by Negro demonstrators.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA — Striking minority students at the Berkeley campus were joined on picket lines by teaching aides who gained sanction Sunday for their own strike.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY—Trustees voted to accept the president's recommendation that the university abandon its plan to build a gymnasium in Morningside Park. The proposed gym was one of the focal points in the student uprising last spring.

BARNARD COLLEGE—Negro students at the all-girl school, part of Columbia University, listed a request for "soul food" on the cafeteria menu as among their demands. President Martha Peterson said it would be considered.

COLGATE ROCHESTER DIVINITY SCHOOL—The president canceled classes until Thursday in the face of a sit-in by 20 Negro seminarians who took over the administration building.

MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY—A one-day boycott of research projects was set for today to protest MIT's "involvement with the military-industrial complex."

Park Offer To Be Rejected

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Board of Supervisors voted yesterday to reject a state offer of $2.1 million for 116 acres at Fort Funston.

City officials had protested there were too many strings to the state's offer and Supervisor Peter Tamaras said: "We don't want a trailer park down at the beach .... The state could tell us to install such a facility and we'd be stuck with it."

Red China, Russians Stage Mass Protests

HONG KONG (UPI)—Peking said "tens of millions" of its soldiers and civilians joined a second day of anti-Soviet demonstrations across Communist China today, 400,000 of them in front of the Soviet embassy in Peking.

China accused the Kremlin leadership of increasing "military pressures" along the 5,000-mile Sino-Soviet border in an attempt to "cause war." "If others attack us, we shall strike back," Peking radio said.

(From Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass said Russian workers held "mass meetings of protest" against the "armed provocation" of Chinese troops on the Sino-Soviet border Sunday.

(The meetings, in Blagoveshchensk and Khabarovsk near the scene of the Sunday border battle, "took pride in the endurance and courage of the Soviet frontier guards who gave a resolute rebuff to the Chinese provocateurs," Tass said.

"The government of the Chinese Peoples' Republic bears full responsibility for these actions," one worker was quoted as saying.)

For the first time, Peking brought President Nixon into the latest Sino-Soviet dispute, saying the Soviet leadership is "trying very hard to please the Nixon government and to make a deal" with the United States.

Peking Radio broadcast the reports from the Chinese capital. Moscow said yesterday that Chinese troops had staged "gangster raids" across the border.

The most serious Soviet-Chinese dispute since their ideological split 10 years ago began with both sides reporting their troops in battle Sunday at a border island in Far Eastern Russia.

The border battle Sunday ended with both sides reporting casualties and blaming each other for starting it. Communist China claims to own more than one million square miles of Russia's Far Eastern underbelly.

East Germans Shut Roads As Kiesinger Visits Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany, campaigning against a West German presidential election to be held in West Berlin tomorrow, closed the main autobahn link between this city and West Germany late today.

Travel was halted on the 110-mile-long superhighway about three hours after West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger flew in to take part in the election of a successor to President Heinrich Luebke.

It was not immediately clear how long the East Germans intended to keep the road closed.

Travelers said their cars were forced by East German police to pull over into rest areas along the superhighway.

Some reported observing heavy Soviet and East German troop convoys along the autobahn at the time—between about 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Warsaw Pact maneuvers are under way in the area.

The closing, the third in the last four days, came as Kiesinger was flying over East Germany aboard a U.S. Air Force Constellation for the election Wednesday by the Federal Assembly of a successor to President Heinrich Luebke. Like the asemblymen, the chancellor ignored a Russian warning that the Soviet Union would not guarantee the safety of such flights.

The silver and white plane touched down in the city's Tempelhof Airport shortly before 1 p.m. A U.S. Air Force spokesman said, "to our knowledge there were no incidents" during the chancellor's 300-mile flight from Bonn, partly over East German territory.

In his arrival statement, Kiesanger said the election is a "thoroughly peaceful occasion that does not disrupt, or threaten anyone or injure anyone's rights." It is a sign, he added, of West German legal rights in the city.

Of the Communist threats to West Berlin's air and ground access routes, the chancellor declared: "threats do not accomplish anything with us."

He reiterated his government's readiness to enter into future negotiations with the Communists for the benefit of the Berliners, but not at the expense of West Germany's avowed rights in the isolated city.

Guilty Plea To Theft Of Money

Jack R. Martin, 22, of Larkspur, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court Friday to a charge that he stole $924 from a San Anselmo service station Sept. 24.

Judge Harold J. Haley ordered him to return to court April 7 for sentencing.

Conditional Approval For Oil Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has given a reluctant and conditional go-ahead to what may be the biggest oil company merger of all time —the consolidation of Atlantic Richfield and Sinclair.

Stringent conditions imposed by the government would allow for future restoration of the two separate companies if court appeals opposing the merger are successful.

And the Justice Department maintained it still is opposed to Atlantic Richfield's acquisition of Sinclair's crude oil refineries and marketing system in the Midwest and Rocky Mountains.

The government and firms entered into a partial agreement yesterday with a stipulation and order which Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said will be filed sometime this week in U.S. District Court in New York City.

Officials made it clear they agreed to a partial settlement only after U.S. District court Judge Frank Van Pelt Ryan indicated he would dissolve a temporary injunction blocking the merger.

The main condition laid down by the government requires the merged corporation to sell all Sinclair retail outlets in the Northeast and Southeast to the British Petroleum Co.

The $400 million sale, the government said, will remove a marketing overlap between Atlantic Richfield and Sinclair on the Eastern Seaboard and in the Southeast.

Snow Cripples

TOKYO (AP) — A driving snowstorm stranded hundreds of thousands of Tokyo residents today, crippling rail, road and air transportation in the world's most populous city. The embarrassed weatherman had predicted fair skies.

More than seven inches of snow fell on the city, the worst March fall since World War II, and eight to 12 inches were reported in outlying hill areas. Snow and freezing temperatures covered central Japan, including Osaka, Nagoya and Kobe.

Patience Growing Thin Over Bombs

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration has served notice that continued indiscriminate shelling of South Vietnamese cities will bring both political and military consequences to North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said yesterday the "consequences of these attacks" are the enemy's responsibility, and State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey confirmed that the consequences could be "both political and military."

It was the first time the State Department had said specifically the series of enemy attacks might result in military action, although a halt to such bombardment was one of the points former President Johnson included in the "understanding" he announced at the same time he said the bombing of North Vietnam would end last Nov. 1.

As of yesterday, McCloskey said at his daily press briefing, "Everything is under review, all aspects of policy, military and political."

President Nixon has not yet stated what steps he will take if he determines that North Vietnam deliberately violated the understanding, but he likely will be asked about it tonight when he reports to the nation on his eight-day tour of European capitals.

American officials said the 30-minute session at Ky's residence was "routine."

Lodge and Ky discussed the effects of the Viet Cong attacks on South Vietnamese vopulation centers and the effects they will have on the stalled Paris Vietnam peace talks.

Tran Buu Kiem, the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front (NFL) foreign minister, spoke about President Nixon's visit to Paris at a meeting of French students last night.

"Mr. Nixon has shown us that he hopes to solve the Vietnamese problem by force," he said. "If he harbors such a delusion he will head straight for a major defeat."

U.S. Planes Halt Advance On Green Beret Outpost

SAIGON (UPI)—Divebombing U.S. warplanes turned back a column of at least 10 Communist tanks rumbling toward an isolated Green Beret camp near the Cambodian border today.

It was the second time in the war American headquarters has announced the use of tanks by the guerrillas. The first time was Feb. 7, 1968, when Red tanks overran another Green Beret camp at Lang Vei.

U.S. spokesmen said 30 American air strikes in the darkness just past midnight destroyed two Soviet-built PT76 tanks and two other armored vehicles within sight of the Allied camp at Ben Het.

Two U.S. soldiers were killed and South Vietnamese losses were "light" in the fighting, military spokesmen said.

Elsewhere, the communists opened the 10th day of their offensive, shelling 25 towns and bases, including the Newport Bridge three miles from downtown Saigon. South Vietnamese soldiers reported killing two guerrillas at another span seven miles south of the city.

ASTRONAUT'S CHILDREN OFF TO SCHOOL

After staying home to watch on television the launch of Apollo 9, three of the five children of lunar module command pilot Russell L. Schweikart head for school. From left in the family car are twins Randy and Rusty, 8, and Vicki, 9, who watched the launch at home yesterday near Houston, Tex. Mrs. Schweikart and astronauts' wives Ann Scott and Pat McDivitt later said they mostly intend to stay home and listen to the balance of the 10-day flight on special "squawk box" linkups that tune in the conversations between Apollo 9 and ground control. Former Prison Chief Tells Brutality Tale

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee studying conditions in the nation's prisons heard today a harrowing tale of brutality and atrocities from the former superintendent of the Arkansas State Penitentiary.

Thomas O. Murton told the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee, "Our prisons, in varying degrees are monster-producing factories."

"In varying degrees of sophistication," he added, "the degradations perpetrated upon the Arkansas convicts are happening today in every correctional system."

Murton called for a nationwide effort of prison reform and said, "It is time that we start to undo the harm that has been done for centuries."

Murton called the Arkansas penitentiary system "an ancient philosophy of retribution, exploitation, corruption, sadism and brutality."

He described his efforts to eliminate the worst excesses but said, "When I tried to overhaul the degenerate system at its very roots, the state failed to back me up. They did not want that much reform."

Murton was superintendent when nationwide attention was focused on the discovery of dead bodies of inmates. "I am convinced that what we uncovered on the Cummins Prison Farm were graves of inmates murdered by the trustees or the staff," he said.

A state police report said last May the pasture from which the skeletons were exhumed was an old prison cemetery until the 1940s and did not contain unmarked graves for murdered inmates.

Murton also said that on the Arkansas prison farms "a group of armed inmates, some of whom were vicious, violent and emotionally deranged felons, have life and death power over the other inmates."

Testifying in a hearing room decorated with examples of weapons found at Arkansas prisons and pictures of beaten prisoners, Murton gave the subcommittee these examples of conditions turned up by investigations, many of which he said still existed when he was prison chief:

"One of the more sadistic devices used to torture inmates was the 'tucker telephone,' a device that was used to run electrical current through two wires attached to genital parts of the body."

"A 19-year-old was beaten by five trusties with blackjacks, rubber hoses and brass knuckles and was finally told by the superintendent he would personally beat him to death if he got into trouble again."

"One of the former superintendents had a buzzer installed near his bed to summon his favorite inmate from the women's reformatory to perform unnatural sex acts with him . . . male trusties guarded the reformatory and both they and other selected trusties were allowed to have intercourse with the females."

"The Negro prisoners were segregated into even worse facilities than the whites. They ate only the scraps from the tables after the whites finished eating."

Poll Reports Public Favors Campus Curbs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The public favors a harder line with student and faculty demonstrators, the Marvin Field California Poll said today.

"There are signs that this toughening mood of the public is at the expense of its willingness to support traditional notions of academic freedom," the poll stated.

The poll also found a growing feeling for the expulsion of students who demonstrate.

Only a minority are in favor of giving undergraduates more voice in campus rules.

The poll said a majority of the public rejects the argument that having police on the campus to maintain order makes matters worse.

Both white and black members of the general public oppose admitting more black students who do not meet regular scholastic requirements, the poll added.

Fishing Boat Gets An Assist

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The disabled 35-foot fishing boat, Rebel, which started for Honolulu Sunday, was being towed back to San Francisco today.

The Coast Guard cutter Resolute took the Rebel in tow in eight-foot seas about 60 miles southwest of the Golden Gate.

Mother Draws School Sentence

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A mother accused of striking a teacher has been sentenced to schoolyard duty for 90 days

Maggie Fox, 36, mother of a grade school pupil, was instructed by Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Latrone to help maintain school yard discipline during recesses.

She was assigned to aid John C. Nord Jr., the teacher she was accused of striking. He teaches at Morris Elementary School.

"Children learn from the example set by their parents," said Judge Latrone yesterday. "Now you will have the opportunity to set an example."

Mrs. Fox said she slapped Nord because she thought he hit her son, Jeffrey, 10, while breaking up a schoolyard squabble last month.

Two Women Face Dope Charges

Two young women, arrested early Sunday morning after the father of one of them called sheriff's deputies following a party at his home, will appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Michelle Anne Sliney, 18, of 52 Oak Mountain Road, San Rafael, and Marsha Louise Mitchell, 19, of no fixed address, were booked on suspicion of possession of marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia.

Miss Sliney's father, Edgar Sliney, called deputies to his home about 2:25 a.m. because he suspected marijuana had been used at a party there.

Deputies said a search of Miss Sliney's bedroom turned up narcotics parapernalia and marijuana. They also found paraphernalia and marijuana in Miss Mitchell's purse, they said.

Both young women had fresh needle marks on their arms, according to deputies.

Both have been released from Marin County Jail after posting $625 bail.

Minister Denies Credential Count

SAN JOSE (UPI) — A genial illiterate, who claims to have "ordained" 20,000 ministers and chartered 1,500 churches from a converted garage, pleaded innocent yesterday to a charge of issuing phony minister's credentials.

Municipal Court Judge Paul R. Teilh set a jury trial for May 5 for the Rev. Dr. Kirby J. Hensley, founder of the Universal Life Church, Inc.

Hensley, a 57-year-old Modesto resident who claims he can neither read nor write, told newsmen recently "in five years we'll be bigger than the Roman Catholic Church."

He was charged specifically with issuing ministerial credentials through a non-accredited institute in violation of the California Education Code and released on $350 bail.

Black-White Crisis Termed As 'Mellow'

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"Mellow" is the manner in which a black minister from Los Angeles termed the current black and white revolution in the United States.

"Mellow," he said by dictionary definition, "means overly ripe and almost rotten."

Dr. James Hargett, militant minister of the Church of Christian Fellowship in Los Angeles, spoke yesterday to about 100 members of Larkspur-Corte Madera and Mill Valley Teachers Associations at San Clemente School, Corte Madera.

"The black people have no alternative. They will do it the way the Irish, Italians and Jews did it. We're going to take over city hall and try to get a piece of the mainstream action,'' Hargett said.

"The black is saying to America, 'if I can't have a piece of the action, then no one will have a piece of the action.' That's Samsonian."

He defined three other terms which he said the community uses but seldom closely examines:

"Colony — I refer to an aggregate of persons who exist solely for the exploitation of others. Ghetto — a ghetto is s sociological womb which shapes and molds its inhabitants telling them who they are and where they are going. Community — a community is a ghetto with an option."

He said Negroes do not live in a ghetto according to Dr. S. I. Hayakawa's classic use of the word. They live in a colony.

The term ghetto was coined in Venice, Italy, Hargett explained. "It was there that the Jews were contained for the first time in Europe."

Hargett described education as "a way a given society transmits its culture values from one generation to another.

"You can't survive in the 20th Century unless you have an education," he said.

The American black has gone through three periods — useful, when a slave; useable, as when he fought in World War II; and useless, which is where he is now. Hargett likened the black now to the time when American stopped using horses and sent them to the glue factory.

The minister said he lives in a black colony and drives his child to school in Brentwood. "In the other lane, cars are coming in bumper-to-bumper to exploit downtown L.A. economically. While they exploit L.A. economically, I exploit Brentwood educationally."

In questioning, Hargett answered: "I'm for busing Chinese, black, green, yellow, blue, all over the Bay Area."

He noted that Good Friday is the date of Martin Luther King's assassination this year. "That's either irony or providence," he said wryly.

Children Hurt; Car Into Tree

Two children were injured when the car they were riding in hit a tree in a Tamalpais Valley driveway Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Theresa Simonitch, 9, of 9 Winship Avenue, Ross, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a broken jaw and multiple cuts, and Richard Simonitch, 7, of the same address, was treated for a broken right leg and multiple bruises. The hospital said both were transferred to Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael. But Kaiser said it had no record of the children.

The highway patrol said their father, Jack T. Simonitch, 38, was driving down a driveway at 396 Morning Sun Avenue at 8 p.m. when the brakes failed on a sharp curve.

Nixon Gives Top Leaders Trip Notes

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Nixon gave congressional leaders a preview today of what he plans to tell the nation tonight about his European trip and concerns over Vietnam and Berlin.

Nixon met with the bipartisan group for more than an hour and then continued preparation of his statement to begin the hour-long, nationally broadcast news conference starting at 6 p.m. (PST.)

The White House said the news conference will be restricted solely to foreign policy matters with the President entertaining no questions about domestic issues.

Nixon's White House meeting this morning was with virtually the same group of congressmen and senators he briefed in advance of his departure Feb. 23 for Europe.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers and national security adviser Henry A. Kissinger, who accompanied Nixon abroad, joined in the meeting.

It is expected that such tensions as those in Vietnam, Berlin and the Middle East will come up in the question-and-answer session tonight. Before he left on his trip Nixon promised to give a full report to both congressional leaders and the nation and he was moving quickly to keep this pledge.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said that questions need not be confined to the European trip and they seemed likely to range the field of international affairs.

Nixon was certain to be asked whether the United States is considering any retaliatory action as a result of renewed rocket attacks on Saigon.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said in a statement yesterday "the consequences of these attacks are the responsibility of the other side and they clearly raise a question as to its true desire to work toward a peaceful settlement of the conflict."

$535 Burglary

The theft of two watches and three rings, valued at a total of more than $535, from his home at 154 Terrace Avenue, San Rafael, was reported yesterday by Harold K. Harroun, police siad. Harroun said the theft occurred during the day with entry gained by prying open a window.

Bay Front Park Held A Top Need

Marin County Board of Supervisors agreed today that a bay front park such as China Camp of McNear's area should get top priority in any county park expansion, but declined to commit any funds until after budget discussions.

Parks and recreation director Pierre W. Joske stressed the need for more county park facilities at a joint workshop session with the supervisors.

"Parks are no longer considered window dressing,'' declared Joske. "They are a necessity for the physical and mental well being of the community."

Under minimum national standards, the county should have 2,000 acres of regional parks, whereas it has only 428 acres of which 264 is usable, said Joske. He noted that bay frontage parks are particularly lacking. Marin has only 900 feet of public bay frontage, mostly at Paradise Beach Park, out of 40 miles of bay shoreline.

Supervisors agreed that bay access is the most critical park need, but until budget discussions, no extra money can be allocated.

"I suppose we can say we have a Mexican standoff until budget time," observed Lothar Salin, chairman of the county parks and recreation commission.

Salin made a plea for "seed money" to help youth start new programs such as coffee houses.

Supervisor Michael Wornum moved to approve the use of $2,500 unallocated reserve in the park budget for that purpose.

However, Chairman John F. McInnis wanted a report from the county auditor on the status of county funds before any action is taken. Supervisor Louis H. Baar said he would not consider such a program for this fiscal year.

Wornum then moved to put the "seed money" idea over to next Tuesday's agenda. This was seconded by Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and approved unamimously.

William A. Gnoss served noticed he would vote for the "seed money" next week. "I've been for youth and I'll be for youth next Tuesday." said Gnoss.

Store Worker Denies Taking Deposit Cash

Dennis Norman Clark, 26, of 163 Elm Street, Larkspur, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of grand theft, and a preliminary hearing was set for April 8.

Clark is accused of taking about $500 from his employer, Sportsland Corp., which has a concession in the Larkspur Disco store. Store representatives said that Clark took the money from funds to be deposited in a bank sometime between November and February.

Group Favors New Units In Lucas Valley

Directors of the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association last night urged members to vote in favor of two new units joining the association.

President William Reiner said that 90 new homes in the units 7 and 9 will be started by Peninsula Master Builders in April, and a package deal offered by the builder would be of advantage to the community. The new homes will be on the north side of Lucas Valley Road to the east and west of Mount Shasta Drive.

The association's 440 homeowners will decide on March 31 whether or not to increase the membership by 90 by admitting the units.

Peninsula Master Builders had agreed to deed three lots worth $27,000 when the first home is sold. Two tennis courts will be installed on the lots, one to be paid by the developer at a cost of $8,000. When the second unit is started, the developers will donate $27,000 to build a new swimming pool.

Theft Of Ukelele, Radio Are Reported

Felix F. Ruggiero reported to Larkspur police yesterday that someone broke into his home at 21 College Park and stole a transistor radio valued at $15 and a ukelele worth $28.

The burglary occurred between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., yesterday. Entry was made by prying open a bedroom window, police said.

It was the third fire death in Sausalito this year. Two women died in fires in their homes Jan. 9 and Jan. 31.

In Tiburon, Fire Capt. Edward Parnell said the Shackleton home had burned for some time before neighbors saw flames break through the windows.

The kitchen, pantry, laundry room, living room and dining-family room were destroyed, and the bedroom wing received heavy damage from smoke and heat, Parnell said.

"We were pretty well crowded today to get all those things in," one of them said just before turning in for their first nine-hour sleep period. "And we sort of missed lunch."

"Roger," Mission Control replied. "I could tell you were really humping up there."

was decided someone from the ranch would bring money to pay the bill.

By this time, police said, it was about 9:30 a.m. McCoy's little band then allegedly refused to leave the restaurant and blocked the doorway, so Meacham called police again.

The four were taken into custody on Meacham's complaint at 10:16 a.m. The juvenile was taken to Juvenile Hall while the others went to the jail to be booked.

McCoy, who reportedly has spent large amounts of an inherited fortune to provide a home for hippies at Rancho Olompali, was arrested in January 8 on charges of marijuana possession. He is to appear in Marin Municipal Court for a preliminary bearing March 21.

The ranchhouse, since destroyed by fire, has been the target for two major raids by narcotics officers.

Several of hippies, including several children, are still at the ranch, living in outbuildings that were not damaged by the Feb. 2 fire.

Bogus Collection; Teen-Agers Cited

Two 16-year-old San Rafael youths were issued juvenile citiations Sunday in connection with the fraudulent use of an Independent-Journal receipt book beionging to Michael Charles Schram, 12, of 211 Canal Street, San Rafael, police said.

Schram discovered the book, which he said was taken from his bike about a week ago, was being used by someone else when he went to collect from a subscriber. The subscriber said he had just paid someone else.

One youth was found at a nearby market and he claimed he had gotten the book from another boy, whom the police found at home.

Police said the youth had apparently made $4.50 worth of collections before he was stopped.

IT'S NO MORE CUSTARD PIES

CHURCH BRAMPTON, England (AP) — Judy Carne, the sock-it-to-me girl on the Rowan and Martin "Laugh-In" show is back home in her native village preparing for marriage.

Judy, 29, said she'll marry 24-year-old Dean Goodhill, a photographer who met her while she was on the receiving end of a custard pie.

"I was his assignment," said Judy. "He was so nice."

Judy said she expects him here for the wedding in a few days.

Bay Region Referendum Condemned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A proposed public vote on the creation of a San Francisco Bay Area regional government is attacked by two governmental experts as "ill advised, undemocratic, prohibitively expensive, time-consuming and an abdication of legislative responsibility."

Such a vote is proposed in a bill introduced yesterday by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond.

The vote would be in the June 1970 primary election if Knox's bill is approved by the legislature and signed by Gov. Reagan.

The strong opposition to a referendum was expressed by Stanley Scott and Harriet Nathan of the Institute of Governmental Studies at the University of California, Berkeley.

They maintain a referendum allows political manipulation, abandons the values of the legislative function and forces on the voters a responsibility for which they are unprepared.

It also "offers the appearance but not the reality of majority control and could aggravate racial tensions," they claim.

THE CAR DID LOOK FAMILIAR

LANSDOWNE, Pa. (AP) — Patrolman Ted Basquill, directing traffic, waved a car through an intersection — and thought he recognized it.

He did. It was his own, which he had parked near the police station.

Basquill alerted fellow officers, who captured Richard E. Childs, 22, of New Philadelphia, after a short chase yesterday. Childs was charged with larceny of an auto.

The junior varsity team, tying for third place with Encina High School of Sacramento, included Dianne Lamb, Linda Lampert, Janet Wiggins, Kathy Mitchell and Heidi Walberg.

A 24-year-old Forest Knolls woman who allegedly shot at the San Geronimo Valley home of another woman early Saturday morning will appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Bobbi Ross, of 33 Forest Avenue, was arrested about 2:50 a.m. after allegedly shooting at the front of the duplex apartment of Rose Marie Porteous at 555 San Geronimo Valley Drive.

A .22 caliber pistol allegedly was used in the shooting, in which no one was injured, deputies said. A small hole was made in the front of the apartment.

Miss Ross was freed from Marin County Jail after posting $3,125 bail.

Jones said the delay in reporting was because he had no telephone and had had vehicle problems.

eration of Teachers said his 290 members were not happy and probably would post informational pickets.

Hawkins said the vote to go back to class was due to the college's threat to fire the teachers, and he said they got little of what they had demanded.

"The greatest portion of the struggle has yet to be waged," he said.

At Boulder, cursing, screaming students forced Hayakawa to cut short his speech last night at the University of Colorado.

An estimated 30 students, some members of the Students for a Democratic Society, yelled obscenities at Hayakawa before his speech and the shouting match erupted into a chair-throwing, fist-swinging melee. Chairs and pop bottles were thrown at the stage where Hayakawa stood but no one was seriously injured.

Campus security police stood by and restrained some students but arrested no one. A university administrator succeeded in calming the students.

Hayakawa, who at a news conference earlier in the day likened the SDS to Nazi storm troopers, spoke for about 45 minutes and said "mindless activism" was the cause of much of the unrest on the nation's college campuses.

"Democracy demands individuality," he said, "and one cannot let a mob take over."

Ater students became noisy again, Hayakawa finally gave up and left the podium.

"What is going on here," he shouted, demonstrates more effectively than any speech I can give the problems higher education confronts today."

The San Francisco State students went on strike last Nov. 6 for an autonomous black studies department, easier admission for minority students and reinstatement of George Mason Murray, the Black Panther education minister who was a part time instructor suspended for allegedly urging students to carry guns on the campus.

Murray is currently in jail for six months after pleading no contest to a charge of beating a student editor in 1967. His plea for release on a writ of habeas corpus was rejected yesterday by a San Francisco judge.

Ethnic Studies Discussion Set

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—The Academic Senate of the University of California today planned to discuss a proposal by 80 faculty members to develop an experimental department "sufficiently flexible to allow evolution into a College of Ethnic Studies."

The proposal urges immediate establishment of a Department of Ethnic Studies. The chairman would report directly to the chancellor's office.

It asks that the department "reflect the diverse needs and interests of ethnic groups presently constituting the Third World Liberation Front." The front is the coalition of groups which is leading the strike by militant students now moving into its sixth week.

Burton Seeking Demo Leadership

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblyman John L. Burton of San Francisco announced his candidacy today for president of the California Democratic Council, a liberal volunteer organization.

Burton, 36, told a news conference it is important to have "a strong, active grass roots organization" in 1970 when Democrats try to capture the governorship and the U.S. Senate seat held by George Murphy.

Gerald Hill, a San Francisco attorney, announced earlier he is retiring as CDC head to run for secretary of state.

A bench warrant with bail set at $500 was issued yesterday by Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court for Jeffrey Lynn Evans, 20, of San Anselmo, who failed to appear in court.

Evans faces a charge of selling marijuana Oct. 1 in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Meir Is Leading Race To Become Premier

JERUSALEM (AP) — Mrs. Golda Meir, the Milwaukee schoolteacher who became Israel's leading woman politician, looked today like a shoo-in for interim prime minister of the Jewish nation.

The 70-year-old grandmother won overwhelming endorsement from the ruling Labor Party's leadership bureau yesterday, and reliable sources said she was virtually certain to accept the post.

Mrs. Meir had been reported reluctant to take the job because of her health, but she told an interviewer from the Milwaukee Journal Sunday: "I feel strong enough . . . It's just the prime minister's job is horrible, especially at a time like this when the country is in a state of continuing hostility with the Arabs."

No Trace Found Of Casino Plane

HAWTHORNE, Nev. (AP) — Snow up to six feet deep covers the mountains and valleys near the California-Nevada border where a DC3 airliner with 35 aboard disappeared Feb. 18.

Searchers—constantly hampered by harsh weather—haven't found a trace.

The Mineral County Airlines plane, with a crew of three, carried 32 passengers from Southern California who paid for a round trip to Barney's El Capitan Casino, 120 miles south of Reno.

STUDENTS

"Violence will cease — or begin to cease — when those who are most concerned see evidence of real understanding and a definite desire to redress the problems," said Dick Minor, president of the San Jose State College students' association.

Woodside and Minor, who both said they opposed campus violence, testified before a hearing by the Assembly subcommittee on educational environment.

"Fifty to 75 per cent of the faculty are more in need of education than the students they are teaching," Minor said.

He said higher education lacked relevance for whites as well as blacks. "In the main, it's an artificial obstacle course which everyone runs . . ." he said.

Patrick Dowd of Sacramento State College, vice chairman of Young Americans for Freedom, told the committee the "silent majority" is a "chicken majority" for not actively opposing violence. He recommended that the legislature ask the colleges to set up hearing boards composed of faculty, administrators and state budget officials to hear student proposals.

Dowd also urged the Legislature to back campus administrators in opposing violence or seek their dismissal.

Bruce Angell of the Committee for an Academic Environment at San Francisco State College also strongly opposed actions by student demonstrators. But he also said the college administration has caused frustration by its failure to serve student needs.

Charles R. Brown, chairman of the Afro-American Students Union at U.C. Berkeley, said the university has lost sight of its goal to produce well-educated students. He said his group sought for 10 months to deal with U.C. administration before the current campus strike.

Also on Friday Mark Altman of 68 Corte Amada, Greenbrae, told deputies that someone had broken into his car while it was parked in a lot at the College of Marin and stole a portable radio from the glove compartment.

Snow Rivals Depths In '52

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Snow depth survey crews have confirmed what long-time Sierra residents already know — that this winter rivals the big one of 1952.

Pacific Gas and Electric helicopters had some clear flying weather for a change yesterday and found 203 inches of snow at the 8,100-foot level in the Lower Relief Valley near the Stanislaus River headqaters. That compared with 160 inches on March 29, 1952.

PUEBLO

should the ship be threatened by hostile forces.

But these plans contained no provision for standby air or naval forces in case of need, Moorer said. "There were no what one might call dedicated forces—standing on alert," he said.

In his statement, Moorer said the Pueblo was not large enough to carry any heavier armament than her .50-caliber machine guns and that it was never intended that she be able to conduct a "pitched battle" at sea. It was not believed bigger guns were needed anyway Moorer said, because "piracy on the high seas was considered unlikely."

Sanitary Board Changes Salary

Tiburon Sanitary District board last night voted to establish directors' salaries at $40 per month rather than $20 a meeting, secretary Robert A. Sterling reported.

Sterling said the change in salary allocations was made to save the district money since directors anticipate several meetings each month for the next several months while the board reviews the district's 1969-70 budget.

Directors also accepted a low bid of $23,520 from E. C. Cooley Co., of San Francisco for equipment for the district's new sewage treatment plant in Paradise Cove.

Sterling said work will start on the new plant as soon as weather permits and will be completed within 90 days of starting.

Denial Made To Sewage Charge

Edwin S. Long, secretary of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, denied yesterday that the utility had by-passed raw sewage into Richardson Bay.

The denial was made in a letter to County Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht. Dr. Albrecht had advised local residents last week that shellfish taken from the bay had shown signs of "gross sewage contamination." She said heavy rainfalls had caused Sausalito-Marin City district and several others to by-pass the sewage directly into the bay.

Long said his district had not had to resort to by-passing this winter for the first time despite the heavy rains. He added that the district had been working to solve this problem for some time.

Rugs Stolen

Barbara Alice Burnett of 201 D Street, San Rafael, reported yesterday that six throw rugs valued at about $100 were taken from the laundry room of her apartment house sometime Sunday night, police said.

MOTHER LEAVES COURT — Held by her youngest son, Munir, Mrs. Mary Sirhan leaves after testifying in the trial of her son Sirhan, on charges he slew Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. (AP Wirephoto)

Sirhan Smiles, Tells Jurors Of Youth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Sirhan, who began his own defense by admitting he assassinated Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, told in smiling and relaxed fashion today of his early years in the United States after his family fled Palestine.

"I didn't want to leave. I wanted to say in my own country," the young Jordanian told the jury in his second day on the witness stand. "I thought that things would subside."

Sirhan, charged with murder and on trial for his life, answered every question with "sir" and seemed eager to reply.

RECALLS BATTLES

He began his story yesterday by telling of scenes of war in his childhood days in Jerusalem, torn by fighting between Arabs and Zionists. He continued today by speaking of an incident in which the French consulate in the old city of Jerusalem was ransacked by Arabs. He said that later one of his teachers in Jerusalem spoke of it.

"He said this is the wrong way of going about it—there should be negotiations," Sirhan said.

"Did you believe that?" asked defense counsel Grant B. Cooper.

"Yes sir, I did. He was very mad about it—angry that Arabs did the same the Zionists did."

The defense contends that the shooting of Kennedy was occasioned by the New York senator's support of Israel and that the trauma of a wartime childhood diminished Sirhan's mental capacity to plan the assassination.

BROUGHT TO U.S.

The Sirhan family was brought to this country by a United Nations relief organization and moved to nearby Pasadena.

Sirhan was asked if he found it difficult to adjust to school in America.

A. No sir. I was very anxious to attend.

Q. Did you work hard at school?

A. I tried my best.

He said his father remained in Pasadena only about six or eight months, then returned to the Middle East.

Q. How long did he remain away?

A. Ever since.

Sirhan's tone was almost casual yesterday when he admitted he took Kennedy's life.

The 24-year-old Jordanian had admitted before that he was the senator's assassin, but that was in stormy sessions out of the hearing of the jury. By contrast he was composed and polite yesterday as he faced the eight men and four women who could sentence him to death.

Pair Back In Custody As Tiburon Burglary Suspects

Two young men, already facing burglary charges in Marin Municipal Court, were arrested yesterday after Tiburon sheriff's deputies found in their car items allegedly stolen from a plush Tiburon home only minutes before.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary were Gordon K. Jennings, 21, of 25 Sierra Vista, Novato, and Andrew M. Gillespie III, 19, of 808 A Street, San Rafael.

A third companion, Michael Overstreet, 20, of 320 C Street, San Rafael, was also arrested but released when the district attorney's office did not file a complaint against him.

Deputies said they received an anonymous telephone call at 11:30 a.m. yesterday that the Raymond Groo residence at 150 Round Hill Road had just been entered by unknown youths.

Responding officers saw the youths in a car driving in front of the house and stopped them. Some of the jewelry and money taken from the Groo residence was in the car, deputies said.

Jennings and Gillespie were arrested Feb. 21 in San Rafael in connection with burglaries which police say ran into thousands of dollars worth of merchandise.

They were arraigned yesterday in Municipal Court on the new charges and the case was continued until today.

Both are free on $3,125 bail.

Dumping Spoils In Alcatraz Area Asked

Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce directors yesterday urged the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission to allow the City of Mill Valley to dump its dredging spoils from the Saucelito Canal into deep water near Alcatraz Island.

In a letter to the BCDC, the board said the dredging of the canal was necessary for the city to develop its small craft harbor, secretary Carol Healy reported.

Parent Upset Over Track Haircut Rules

A Corte Madera man last night objected to rigid haircut rules of the Redwood High School track coach.

Gordon Pusser, who has a son on the track team, told the Tamalpais High School District board that 55 out of 56 track athletes have signed a petition objecting to track coach Gary Shaw's ruling.

His son will be a test case, said Pusser, and he requested the board to do something about hair rules until he can get an injunction against the school to see that boys are not dropped from the team.

Pusser told trustees that the athletic department has ruled that anyone whose hair does not meet the coach's standards of "reasonable length" be dismissed today from the team.

Trustees were sympathetic to Pusser's complaint but said they could do nothing until they receive a report from school principal Donald Kreps, Edward J. Neumeier, administrative assistant, reported.

Kreps, not at last night's meeting, today told the Independent-Journal that he sees no problem. He explained that no one has been dropped from the track team and the team will hold its first intersquad meet today.

The whole subject was introduced last Thursday by a student body representative, Kreps reported, and both athletes and all coaches agreed to rules and regulations. They cover grooming, smoking, drinking, reasonable hours and grades.

Hair must be cut a "reasonable length," Kreps said. Asked what "reasonable" means, he replied, "Just what it says," but no specific number of inches for hair length is spelled out.

Pusser complained last October to the board about discrimination at Redwood against long-haired athletes, saying the rule denied many boys from participating in sports. At that time the board left the matter up to the coaches' discretion.

Highway Death Rate Decreases

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's highway death rate fell by an estimated 4 per cent during 1968, Transportation Secretary Gordon C. Luce said today.

Luce said 4,853 persons were killed on California's 163,000 miles of state highways, city streets and county roads, or about 4.4 deaths for each 100 million miles of vehicle travel. The 1967 toll was 4,883.

Motorists drove more than 110 billion miles on California roads last year, Luce estimated.

He said the opening of about 200 miles of new freeway and improvement of other roads contributed to the improved safety record.

On-Campus Housing Draws Fire

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved a resolution asking the state to give more study to the need for on-campus housing at Sonoma State College.

The council objected to plans for a 600-unit dormitory, saying that housing needs are being met by private developers in off-campus apartment buildings. Copies of the resolution will be sent to state legislators, the state College Board of Trustees and college officials.

Councilman Jimmie W. Rogers had charged that on-campus housing would empty apartments and bring financial havoc upon owners. Students are paying an average of $240 per month for a two bedroom apartment often shared by four students at $60 per month.

Ambrose R. Nichols Jr., Sonoma state president, had requested the board of trustees delay consideration of the dormitory until later this month.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

Novato Teens Give Panel Center Plans

The teen-agers of Novato want a teen center and last night about 30 of them presented their request to the Novato Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission.

The teen-agers want a center of approximately 5,500 square feet which could be used for dancing, the commission was told by Gary Collings who represented the teen-agers who call themselves the Teen Action Committee.

Th teen-agers feel that they can support their use if such a center by charging a $2 membership fee and then having other recreation activities in the same building. These would be paid for by the city which would help maintain the center, according to Shirley Lane, secretary.

The group did not mention any specific site which they might want, she said.

The commission took the request under advisement for further study by the staff.

Novato Parks And Recreation Commission

Petaluman Is Held In Jail On Drug Probe

A Petaluma man was arraigned in Central Municipal Court in Santa Rosa yesterday on charges of possession of marijuana and possession of marijuana for sale.

Ervin Hailton Sutley Jr., 24, of 490 Penngrove Avenue, was held in lieu of $1,875 bail to appear at 8:45 a.m. tomorrow for a probation report. A preliminary hearing was set for March 10.

Sutley was arrested by Cotati police yesterday at 2:35 a.m. after a high speed chase that began in Cotati and ended in a secluded spot on Presley Road, east of Rohnert Park.

Police said Sutley fled when they attempted to stop his car on old Redwood Highway, Cotati. They said a large quantity of marijuana was found in his car.

Science Center Drawings Studied

The board is expected to give approval and put the job out for bids in about a month, reported Dale A. Fleming, director of planning.

Construction on the center, estimated to cost $2,100,000, is planned to start this summer with completion set for January 1971.

COULD GET RICH

West thought he was going to get rich against four hearts, but the gold actually flowed in the other direction. West's void in his partner's diamond suit was far from an asset; West would have been far better off if he could have given East a trump in exchange for a small diamond.

South won the first trick in dummy with the ace of spades and ruffed a spade. He then cashed the top clubs and ruffed a club in dummy.

East's failure to overruff confirmed South's impression that the high trumps were stacked behind him. South ruffed another spade, ruffed another club in dummy and then ruffed dummy's last spade.

HITS DEFENDERS

When South led his last club West ruffed with the eight of hearts. By this time South had taken eight tricks, and West was demoralized. West could have held South to 10 tricks by returning a trump, but West actually led his last spade.

South ruffed with the ten of hearts and led his diamond. West had to ruff and then had to lead trumps, giving South a free finesse with the A-Q of hearts.

South scored 990 points for the doubled game, rubber and overtrick. If West had not doubled South would have scored 650 points at most and might even have found a way to go down by leading a trump from dummy or some such idiocy.

COULD SAVE

Losing the rubber on a hand like this is bad enough, but there is no need to give the opponents an additional 340 points — together with a warning that the trumps are stacked.

A Bold Jump Slated Next For Theater

By LARRY D. HATFIELD
(Second of two articles)

"Now I am a tin whistle
Through which God blows,
And I wish to God I were a trumpet,
And why, God only knows."

That wistful little quatrain by the English parodist J. C. Squire not only provides the title to Festival Theater's next attraction, a bold jump into experimental theater, it also, intentionally or not, provides a prologue for a completely new chapter in the popular theater group's history.

Not that the theater group has even considered itself a "tin whistle," but it has decided to become more of a trumpet in the avant-garde of American theater.

Festival Theater, is, as the title of the four-line Squire poem suggests, dawning on "A Fresh Morning." Led by its founder and present director Elizabeth Berryhill, Festival has decided it will depart from its history of traditional and, in the last two years, children's theater, to a frankly experimental operation aimed at coping in a revolutionary world.

The vehicle Festival chose to launch its new direction is a "mixed media" musical play called "I Wish I Were a Trumpet," with a book by Miss Berryhill, music by New York composer Mark Bucci and lyrics by both.

The premiere of "Trumpet" will be held for the theater's backers at Festival Theater at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo on May 2. Jack M. Atkin, administrative director of Festival, said all performances for the first six weeks of "Trumpet" will be presold to groups and organizations and to individuals on the theater's mailing list. The theater will be dark the rest of June, reopen in July and play through Labor Day.

The so-called mixed media concept, in its infancy in American theater, utilizes a wide range of communications media, live and electronic; actors who act, mime, sing and dance; live and electronic music and noise and both still and motion pictures.

The musical satire has been characterized by Henry May, chairman of the University of California drama department who saw a preview, as a "real breakthrough in musical theater." He called the show "most unusual . . . refreshing and original."

The theme of "Trumpet" is "games people play." Miss Berryhill describes those games as "the pretend-games children play when they put on their elders' clothes and try to find out what life is really like; the phony games adults play when they're trying to pretend life isn't what they know it really is; the theater games actors play on stage when, like children, they try to discover the nature of reality; and the simulation games people play these days with their computers in order to predict, make 'surprise-free' and thus control the future."

The idea of the "simulation games" requires that a giant computer be a member of the cast. In the play, the computer, calling itself "The Thinker," prints out its dialogue and becomes deeply involved with and dominating of the humans in the play.

The compelling presence of the computer as a serio-comic stimulus in the play allows a wide degree of latitude for experimenting with the mixed media concept. So, too, does the fact that the hero, a struggling young playwright, is in love with the theater and its abstractions and a very human girl and her very human reality.

Atkin said Festival will take "Trumpet" on a western states university tour this fall and is negotiating a network television performance of it.

Festival will continue to experiment with mixed media in its future efforts, Atkin said, aimed at involving the audience more and more in the theater experience.

Sonoma Board Eyes Offer Of Voting Machines Trial

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Petaluma may become the first city in Sonoma County to install automatic voting machines if the board of supervisors accepts the offer of the Automatic Voting Machine Co. of Jamestown, N.Y.

County Clerk Eugene D. Williams told the board yesterday that he had received an offer from the company to furnish 25 machines at no cost for the June 10 municipal election and board of education election.

M. O. Doolittle Jr., executive vice president, said the company would supply the machines and conduct training programs for precinct workers in the operation of the machines. He said the company would also pay costs for programming the equipment and would assist the city and county in preparing the necessary printed material used by the machines.

Williams said that according to Doolittle's letter, the county could later lease or purchase the machines, but would not be under any obligation to do so. The clerk also noted that the machines would cut the number of necessary precincts approximately in half.

The supervisors took the offer under consideration.

The Sonoma County Supervisors Also:

PARK — Held a public hearing on the purchase of 208 acres north of Kenwood for the proposed county park at Mount Hood. The largest portion of the 900-acre park was purchased at $2.50 per acre as surplus property of the federal government. The supervisors said the cost for the purchase of the private land would be more than $93,000. At no cost to the county, the funds would be provided by state park bonds and a federal grant.

AGENDA — Rejected the continuing complaint from George Orr of the Irate Taxpayers Association of Sonoma County, that board agendas be prepared at least a week in advance so that weekly newspapers might publish items of interest to the public. Agendas for the Monday and Tuesday meetings are now ready for distribution on Fridays at 3 p.m.

PAY INCREASE — Received report from Dist. Atty. Kiernan Hyland that the 1968 grand jury recommended his salary be increased from $21,500 to $24,000 per year. A resoultion to that effect will be ocnsidered next week.

SALARIES — Received request from Rolland C. Webb, clerk of the Petaluma Municipal Court, Southern Judicial District, that salaries for the three court employees be reclassified by the state Legislature. The board will consider requesting a bill to make the new salaries permanent. The court employees receive similar increases as county employees, but must be approved by the Legislature.

Underground Help Sought From County

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A $275,500 plan to assist Sonoma County cities in the undergrounding of utility lines was presented yesterday to the board of supervisors.

Neal D. Smith, recently retired county administrator, told the board the $158,100 the cities now have for undergrounding is insufficient to do individual projects of any magnitude and proposed that county funds be used on a matching basis.

In Southern Sonoma County, the balance left for undergrounding to the cities is — Petaluma, $51,400; Cotati, $2,500; and Rohnert Park, $8,500. The funds were allocated by the State Public Utilities Commission in 1968 and 1969 and will be lost if not used, he said.

Under Smith's plan, the smaller cities such as Cotati and Rohnert Park could receive a maximum of $15,000 and larger cities like Petaluma and Santa Rosa would receive maximums of $25,000.

If the proposed maximum were alloted to each city, the county would be providing $117,400 out of its total allotment of $298,926. Smith said this would still leave $181,526 for projects in the unincorporated areas.

"It appears that since the greatest congestion of traffic and the concentration of people is in the cities, that it is reasonable to allocate at least some of the county money to projects within the cities," Smith said.

The supervisors took the plan under consideration and set a public hearing for Monday at 11:15 a.m.

To Display Collages

Collages by Marin artist Gwen Stone will be on display from tomorrow through March 31 at the Walnut Creek Library Gallery. Gallery hours are from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

To Narrate Film

Jackson Winter will narrate his travel adventure film, "Jordan—the Land of Lawrence," at 8:15 p.m., March 13, at Olney Hall, College of Marin. The feature length color movie is one in the Concert-Lecture Series.

DRAMA REVIEW

Royal Shakespeare's 'Much Ado' Pleases

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — The Royal Shakespeare Company opened a week's engagement at the Curran Theater last night with a rollicking production of "Much Ado About Nothing."

The company, one of the most distinguished troupes in the theater today, was given an enthuastic reception. It was a memorable evening for lovers of the Bard. While "Much Ado" had all "musts" of a true Shakespearean production, it also had the flavor of some of today's modern theater.

Shakespeare was one playwright who said hang the length. Thanks to the distinguished cast led by Alan Howard as Benedick and Janet Suzman as Beatrice, the scenes moved along in kaleidoscopic fashion intertwining bright costumes, subtle lighting, excellent use of strolling musicians and a spartan stage.

"Much Ado" is basically two love stories of Claudio and Hero and the confirmed "bachelors," Benedick and Beatrice.

Where one couple is ready for blissful life (Claudio and Hero), the others must be "coaxed" to the altar. Here lies the success of the play, the comedy element. The RSC was superb in fashioning this off and on again romance.

Howard's Benedick is a marvel. Without uttering a word, he can convey with facial expression the intent of the spoken word.

Miss Suzman performs her role in equally expert fashion. When she casts her eye on Benedick, he's a fallen man.

Bernhard Lloyd as the youthful and handsome Claudio and Helen Mirren as Hero were charming as well as well-versed in delivery of the sometimes complicated dialogue.

Without the help of Norman Rodway's cunning Don Pedro, and the authoritive command of Sebastian Shaw as Leonato, the father of Hero and uncle of Beatrice, the production could have sagged. Herein lies the strength of such a company — each actor is accomplished in many given roles. Terrance Hardiman as the villan John, and his accomplice Borachio by Patrick Stewart, proved this also.

Adding comedy relief was the delightful David Waller as Dogberry, a constable who is not above taking a coin or two for his judgment, and Verges, his assistant, expertly played by Clifford Rome.

For this reviewer the setting up of Benedick for the romantic "kill" was the highpoint of the evening. It was rare comic interchange carried off in most satrical fashion.

"Much Ado" continues today and tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. with a matinee at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow. "Dr. Faustus" will open on Thursday, continuing through Sunday.

Marin Folk Dancers Will Join Festival

A delegation of Marin folk dancers will participate in the annual Camellia Pageant and Festival Saturday and Sunday in Sacramento.

A total of 40 members of Marin folk dance clubs, the Hardly Ables, the Whirlaways, the Step-Togethers and the Kopachka will perform with the California Folk Dance Federation festival.

"SAFEGUARDING YOUR TEEN-AGER AGAINST DRUGS"

What can you do if your son or daughter has a "drug problem"? Or if you suspect your youngster is mixed up with "mind expanding drugs" or tempted by them? Are drug-takers "cool" or simply naive?

One positive step is to read this series in the I-J, starting Monday, March 10, by the prize-winning science writer, Alton Blakeslee. This is the first time, as far as we know, that there has been a thorough roundup of information in this area. It has been endorsed by medical and law enforcement authorities. Dr. Dan L. Farnsworth of Harvard says Blakeslee's work represents a new high in responsible reporting of all aspects of the current drug problem in the United States. Blakeslee's research is painstaking, authoritative, and of impressive depth and breadth. The series is "must" reading for everyone concerned with the problem posed by drugs today.

900 ACRE CAMPSITE FOR SCOUTS

More than 900 acres of campsite property eight miles southwest of Ukiah has been given to the Marin Council, Boy Scouts of America, by Ralph H. Ruppert, owner of San Francisco Materials Co. in San Francisco, according to James E. Egger, council president.

The camp will bear Ruppert's name and will be maintained as a wilderness camp.

The new camp gives the Marin Council a total of more than 2,000 acres of camp property. Already in use are Tamarancho near Fairfax with more than 840 acres and Marin Sierra Camp near Immigrant Gap, Nevada County, about 260 acres.

High-Rise Development To Bay Panel

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two major projects proposed in Richardson Bay — a $25 million high-rise development on 15 acres and the dredging of the Saucelito Canal — will be heard by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission at 2 p.m. Thursday in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

The high-rise development, proposed by Sausalito Associates, had its first hearing before the BCDC in October, but the applicants requested a postponement of further discussion so they could prepare answers to questions raised about their proposal. Conservationists strongly opposed it in the commission hearing.

16-STORY HOTEL

The developers' master plan envisioned an 850-room hotel about 16 stories high, a 130-room motel of about 10 stories, a "boatel-motel facility" with shops up to four stories high, restaurant, gas station, shoreline parkway, eight-acre lagoon and "transportation center" for boats and helicopters.

The application had been amended, however, to reduce the fill, formerly almost 17 acres, by 1.5 acres, and to reduce the number of rooms in the hotel from 850 to 550, the BCDC staff reported. "One vertical structure" would have 400 to 450 rooms, according to the amended application, and the rest of the rooms would be "in two and three-story structures at the water's edge."

MUD PROBLEM

The dredging of the Saucelito Canal for 2.5 miles from the Army Corps of Engineers turning basin to the proposed Mill Valley small craft harbor would raise the problem of what to do with some 700,000 cubic yards of mud. The application by the county proposed that the mud be dumped near Alcatraz.

The cost of the project will be about $1 million, according to the application from the county, and would be shared by the Corps of Engineers, the City of Mill Valley and owners of property along the canal, which is not navigable at low tide.

The dredged channel bottom would be 150 feet wide between the turning basin and the Richardson Bay Bridge, and 100 feet wide from the bridge to the Mill Valley harbor. It would be eight feet deep at mean lower low water.

New Oil Slick Now 18 Miles In Length

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — An unpredictable offshore oil leak, its flow diminished but still steady, today fed an 18-mile long slick off the southern California coast. Favorable winds kept the mess away from shore.

The Coast Guard reported an aerial survey showed the slick was in the shape of a fishhook, with the point at the Union Oil Co. drilling platform 5.5 miles from the coast and its head curving to within a mile of already contaminated beaches.

You Can Buy Belvedere's City Code For $35 A Copy

Belvedere's city code — a publication which never made anybody's best seller list — got a hefty $35 per copy price tag last night.

Belvedere's city councilmen last night set the figure as the price of the 221-page publication which contains all of the city's ordinances.

Copies of the code will be made available to anyone wishing one and copies of all new ordinances or amendments to old ones will automatically be mailed to anyone with a code.

By law, a city may charge for a copy of its codes as long as the price does not exceed the amount the city had to pay to have the code printed, city manager William L. Cavalli told the council.

It would cost the city of Belvedere $35 per copy on a 100-copy order, Cavalli said.

Persons wanting only a particular section of the code may buy copies at 25 cents per page, the council also decided.

The Belvedere City Council Also:

Granted part-time clerk Mrs. Angelia MacKinnon a raise from $2.50 to $2.75 per hour and authorized a representative of the city's police department to attend the Homicide Investigation Institute later this month at California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo.

Computer In Use On False Alarms

BOSTON (AP) — Fire Commissioner James H. Kelly is using a computer to predict false alarms.

The date, time of day, weather conditions, fire alarm box number and other data for every false alarm received in 1968 were run through a computer, which correlated the information—in effect predicting the time and place of false alarms this year.

False alarm patrols concentrate their efforts in areas where the computer predicts a false alarm is likely to be sounded. About one every 12 minutes was sounded in Boston last year.

'Oakland 7' Defense Plays Upon Activities By Police

OAKLAND (AP) — The defense in the trial of seven men arrested during the 1967 Stop the Draft Week demonstrations is stressing police actions near the Oakland Military Induction Center.

Attorney Charles Garry, without an opening statement, put witnesses on the stand yesterday who recalled that police either clubbed or Maced persons outside the center while demonstrators were trying to prevent the entry of recruits.

The seven men are charged with conspiring to commit misdemeanor acts in obstructing police and trespassing.

Those who testified included Stephen J. Lindstedt, a San Francisco housepainter who was once a Berkeley policeman' the Rev. Claire Nesmith of San Francisco's Park Presidio Methodist Church; Marie Johnson, a vocational nurse' and Franklin S. Kimball Jr. an Alameda County deputy probation officer.

Biafrans Cut Off Nigerian Troops

LAGOS, Nigeria (London Express) — A Marine commando battalion of the Federal Nigerian forces was trying yesterday to break free after being cut off by a rebel pincer movement at Owerri, on the southern front.

The surrounded troops have had to be supplied by airdrop after Biafrans cut off main supply routes into the town, an important communications center. Nigeria's defense ministry said transport aircraft were used to drop supplies of food and ammunitiion to 2,000 men of the 16th Battalion of the Third Division.

For several days there has been no news from this front and government officials back in Lagos have been waiting for a progress report. But yesterday an international observer team visiting the battle area was prevented from going towards Owerri after rebels jubilantly claimed success and said there was fighting in the streets.

Symington Lashes Cost Of Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, third-ranking Democrat on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said today an antiballistic missile system thick enough to foil a Soviet attack could cost $400 billion—more than the national debt.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate, the Missourian said he based his prediction on a study made by the Brookings Institution, a Washington-based research organization.

He said the study was "cited a few weeks ago by the Department of Defense itself in its logical defense of the relatively small additional cost incident to the production of the C5A transport plane."

ESTIMATES CITED

It said in part, "During the 1950s, virtually all large military contracts reflected acceptance by the military agencies of contractor estimates which proved highly optimistic. Such contracts ultimately involved costs in excess of original contractual estimates of from 300 to 700 per cent."

Symington said the cost of the "thick Soviet system could be over $400 billion. Let us note in passing—especially to those prone to accept without question all new weapons systems—that this latter figure is more than the current national debt."

He asked, "How can the American people now be asked to bear such a gigantic additional burden in order to finance the production and development of a system whose operational capability its strongest proponents admit may not be adequate to do the job it is designed to do?"

The national debt is approaching its legal limit of $365 billion but President Nixon has asked Congress to increase it so the government can pay its bills before income tax payments begin to flood in.

ANTIMISSILE STAND

Symington has opposed deployment of an antiballistic missile system, but says he does not oppose research into the feasibility of one.

The Johnson administration was committed to installing the Sentinel system, a "thin" system ostensibly designed to defend against any nuclear missile attack Communist China might be able to launch in the 1970s. But the Nixon administration has halted work for a review of the program.

(Among sites proposed for the Sentinel system are the Wolfback Ridge area above Sausalito and Angel Island in Marin County. Before the review began, the Army had begun feasibility tests on Wolfback Ridge.)

Symington said estimated cost of the "thin" system already has jumped from an original 1967 estimate of $3.5 billion to $5 billion in 1968, and is now closer to $10 billion.

Critics charge that the "thin" system would be a foot in the door for development of a larger one aimed at defending against an attack by the Soviet Union, which they contend would accelerate the arms race.

$8.65 Million Suit Dismissed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three suits seeking $8.65 million from chairman Charles B. Thornton of Litton Industries Inc., and other defendants have been dismissed because the plaintiff's attorney refused to proceed with the case.

Attorney Harold Rhoden said yesterday he was convinced Superior Court Judge Rhone was biased against him.

Rhoden tried unsuccessfully a year ago to disqualify Judge Rhone after the judge set aside a $6,125,000 verdict returned by a jury in a libel suit brought against Thornton and others.

The lawyer said the present case should have been assigned to a judge other than Rhone. He said he would appeal.

$822,738 For Two County School Budgets Get Swift Panel Nod

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

The Marin County Board of Education last night gave swift approval to two school budgets totaling $822,738 proposed by the county schools office.

Accepting with almost no discussion a recommendation by three of its committees which met last week, the board approved a budget of $396,288 as the county's share of the 1969-70 schools budget. The requests were $71,253 higher than the estimated expenditures this school year.

The board, taking only seven minutes to complete action on it, also approved requests totaling $426,450 for the county school service fund, up $17,576 from this year.

Money in the service fund comes from state and federal aid while the other funds come from the county and must be approved by the board of supervisors.

Before the board approved the budgets, Byron Mauzy, business service director of the schools office, repeated his warning of last week that the schools are facing a "potential disaster" in getting paychecks to the county's 11,000 teachers and other school personnel.

Mauzy again urged a drastic overhaul of the school' payroll system, which is now handled by the county's data processing unit at the Civic Center.

Maintaining that the system is outmoded and overburdened, Mauzy told the board, "We're not going to get the checks out someday and then we're all going to be in hot water."

The schools office asked for $25,000 to put into operation a computerized system like those already operating in such counties as Contra Costa and Alameda or contracting with a private data processing firm to handle the school payroll.

Insisting the schools cannot wait for proposed modernization of the Civic Center data processing operation, Mauzy said the payroll system must be improved "as quickly as possible, meaning right now."

The data processing request was the largest single increase sought in the budget which also asked for more funds for Juvenile Hall for expanded counseling services and for the County Committee on School District Organization to pay for the expected election on a proposal splitting the Tamalpais High School District into three districts.

The only "no" vote cast was by Patrick Pollock who objected to the budget being lumped together for action with a variety of other items, including the hiring of a new $17,000-a-year official.

The board approved the hiring of Hollis Howard Moore, a 26-year-old doctoral candidate at Stanford, as director of the schools' new program to train and increase the use of teacher aides.

Pollock said he would like more time to talk to the other members about the "propriety of hiring someone at $17,000 a year without any experience."

Board member James A. Carroll also expressed reservations about approving Moore's hiring without further consideration but did not vote against it. Marilyn Crowell and board vice president Arnold Dolcini Jr. also objected to lumping the budget with other items for approval but their objections came after the vote was already taken on the whole package.

Moore will start his new job, which will involve the San Anselmo, Tamalpais and special education schools, immediately, schools officials said.

Although budget consideration took less than a half hour altogether, the board had an unusually long three-and-a-half hour meeting, the last hour of which was in closed session to discuss the board's strategy for contract negotiations with teachers.

The meeting also was lengthened by two old and very familiar topics — school district unification and "fiscal responsibility" by the board.

Mary Ann Cowperthwaite, of San Anselmo, told the board she represented a group which felt the plan to split the Tam district into three districts was "financially and fiscally unsound."

The committee on school district organization has called public hearings on the proposal later this month with an eye towards a possible October election.

Mrs. Cowperthwaite urged the board to back election procedures which would make the election districtwide. Either of the other two choices — allowing each district to "decide its own destiny" or requiring that each district approve before the split could be made — would be "unfair" and "undemocratic," she said.

Virgil S. Hollis, county schools superintendent, told the board he became more convinced "every day in every way" that the board rather than the supervisors should have the budget authority for schools.

But he told the board he would not make a plea to the supervisors for such autonomy unless board members indicated they want it.

The Marin County Board of Education Also:

DEAFNESS — Authorized the county office to enter an agreement with the Kentfield district to ensure that the county will pay the required 50 per cent of all costs of a four-classroom unit for the deaf at the Adaline E. Kent School. Kentfield trustees had expressed fears that the deaf program might be abandoned and it would be stuck with the cost of the building.

APHASICS — Approved establishment of a county special day program for aphasics. Six school districts have requested the program which could affect 20 school children in the county.

GIFT — Accepted a gift from the Marin Parents of Hearing Handicapped Children which will provide up to $1,000 the remainder of the school year to pay for a teacher aide for kindergarten deaf children.

CALENDAR — Approved proposed school calendars for this year's summer program and for the 1969-70 school year.

Sugar cane provides about 58 per cent of the world's sugar supply.

Patrolman Gets Reprimand For Mace Spraying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police Chief Thomas Cahill says a patrolman has been reprimanded and taken off the tactical squad for bad judgment —spraying Mace on a woman prisoner.

Cahill said yesterday that after reviewing a 527-page report made by three department captains, he was disposing of the case with "an official reprimand to Tactical Squad Officer James G. Aligo."

Hazel Fuller and her daughters, Wayzel and Winifred, were arrested Feb. 7 after a car driven by Charmaine Chatham, 24, struck their parked vehicle.

Police, who later dropped the charges at the request of Mayor Joseph Alioto, said the three had refused to leave the scene of an accident and had resisted arrest.

Aligo, 30, said he sprayed Mace on Wayzel Fuller after she tried to kick him.

Symposium On Atheism Slated

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Vatican secretariat is cooperating with the University of California at Berkeley in sponsoring a symposium on atheism.

The symposium, titled "The Culture of Unbelief," is to be held March 22-27 at a Rome hotel.

The sponsors were named as the Vatican Secretariat for nonbelievers, the sociology department at Berkeley and the Agnelli Foundation, related to the Fiat automakers. The foundation is financing the symposium.

Designing Is Her Big Thing

By JOAN LISETOR

"All I really miss in England are my parents and the pubs -- in that order," says a pretty young English girl.

The expatriate, Mrs. Stephen Hall, has lived in Sausalito for five years and thinks it's super.

"SUPER" IS a favorite word for the young mother, wife, model, actress, designer, who leads a whirlwind life enjoying everything she does.

"I ran away from home at 17," Jan Hall says. "Well, I really didn't run away, but I went to work in London. In England girls are younger when they get out in the world. Actually many parents live on the coast just 75 miles from London, so my mother could still keep an eye on me."

She ran away to an advertising agency.

A traveling Sausalito native, Steve Hall, had been touring Europe with a friend for a couple of years, landed in London and decided to take a job with an advertising agency.

AS LUCK would have it, it was the firm Jan has been working for for the past two or three years. The two met, fell in love were married and after a year or so in England he brought her back to his native Sausalito, where she promptly fell in love again — with the city.

"This is it. I'd never want to live anywhere else," she says. "I love to wander into downtown Sausalito. It has such a European feeling and such a cross section of people."

The Halls have a five-year-old daughter, Nicola, who is Jan's favorite model when she is designing children's clothes.

"I almost went into business designing and manufacturing children's clothes and even went so far as to have a fashion show with some of my designs and some of a friend, Joanne Rossman, who lives in Mill Valley," she says.

"I think children's clothes are so dull, so we used far out fabrics that were very impractical and lots of vivid colors. The fashion show was a success, but Joanne and I decided we really didn't want to go into business."

BOREDOM LED to a professional modeling career for the versatile Britisher.

"A friend suggested I sign with Collier's agency and when they went out of business I went over to Brebner Casting Agency. I've modeled and done some television commercials with them," she says.

"I worked in the tea party scene in 'Bullitt.' It was fun because I had many friends there, but what we did mostly was stand around from 7 in the morning until 5 o'clock at night, and then when I went to see the movie I couldn't find myself."

Jan says she is too entrenched in designing now for any more acting or more than occasional modeling.

"DESIGNING IS my big thing now," she declares.

"Designing for them is fun because you can go wild," says Jan.

A little more serious, but still on the fun side according to Jan, is designing she has been doing for a restaurant chain for the past two years.

"Manning has been opening restaurants with a variety of themes including old English and Swedish, and they have me look at the decor of the new restaurant and then submit a design for the waitresses uniforms.

"I MAKE a sample, take it to a board meeting, where we hash it around, and when it is accepted I find the right manufacturer. Then with the manufacturer I hash around production problems and finding the right fabric, one that is soil and fade resistant, and oh, it's a lot of work," she says, explaining these experiences are probably what discouraged her from going into business for herself.

"I'm never not sewing," says Jan. "I don't know when I started. I never studied designing and the only sewing lessons I ever took were the ones forced in school. My mother doesn't sew, but I've just always sewed."

Jan's husband is a free-lance artist. His specialties are package design and posters with a special semi-psychedelic touch. Steve's eye-catching designs grace the San Francisco Symphony Association posters this season. His special design for the Symphony Association's Black and White Ball has black and white psychedelic flowers with an old fashioned dancing couple bursting forth from the bottom.

Mr. Hall's paintings highlight the couple's interesting home.

"I LOVE things of the past," Jan says. "Nothing modern — I spend half my life in antique shops."

An old roll-top desk in the living room has been in the Hall family for many years.

"We are just taking care of that for Steve's parents," Jan explains, "but the rest I've found here and there."

The rest includes an old victrola the couple brought back from England when they visited Jan's parents during the Christmas holidays.

An artistic couple, the Halls enjoy each others work.

"Living with Steve, his sense of color has rubbed off on me," says Jan. "He is a large influence on my designing. When I am in doubt I ask him what color I should use or whether braid or lace would look better, and he just knows. His ideas are super."

FIVE-YEAR-OLD Nicola Hall thinks its fun to have a mommy who makes such pretty clothes. Her mommy, Mrs. Stephen Hall, is pinning the hem on a new dress with a quilted skirt in a very chic style for the young set. Jan Hall designs clothes for a rock group, a restaurant chain and her family in the work room of her Sausalito home.

LOSING WEIGHT

Group Hypnotism May Work When Other Methods Don't

First of a three part series on current facts and methods of weight loss.

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Go to almost any kind of social gathering where women have an opportunity to chat informally, and what is sure to be discussed? Losing weight — especially lately, since many have had phenomenal success with a quick weight loss system and with a popular group method. Group hypnosis is still another method used with good results.

What does a top authority in the field have to say on the latest scientific information?

Such an authority is Dr. Rudolf E. Noble, director of the obesity clinic at the Cathedral Hill Medical Center in San Francisco and clinical instructor in medicine at the University of California.

He holds a B. S. degree from the University of California and Ph. D. from the University of Colorado in organic chemistry, and an M.D. from Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. He served a medical internship at the University of California hospital and a medical residency at Stanford hospital.

In between his training, over a period of about 10 years he has held research fellowships, including one as a Fulbright post-doctoral research fellow at the University of Heidelberg in Heidelberg, Germany. Research in leukemia is one of his specialties.

The doctor says that he is so much interested in weight control that it is also his hobby.

First I attended one of his group hypnotism sessions at the Obesity Clinic and then spoke with him at his office.

"GROUP HYPNOTISM can be used with anyone after full explanation of what to expect, especially that it is not supernatural," he said, "but I use it largely as an anciallary tool with people who have not responded to other methods.

"The group approach is very good, too, because of the rapport established through exchange of ideas and the encouragement individual members get from seeing others with the same problems.

"The group sessions are also good reinforcement for people who have become good subjects through repeated private sessions, and the cost is less in the group."

Dr. Noble's group sessions are held Mondays and Thursdays from 8:30 to 10 p.m. at the Cathedral Hill Medical Center.

A group of about a dozen women with weight problems ranging from moderate to very serious sit on the carpeted floor of the doctor's office, making themselves comfortable with a pillow each has brought.

For the benefit of new members, each is asked to write a list of some 25 low calorie foods she enjoys on one slip of paper, and on another slip whatever individual suggestions she wants to have made concerning not only weight but any other problems. Each reads her list of foods, and the doctor approves or disapproves of each item.

Then longtime group members are asked to report on their progress since the last session, sometimes with amusing results. One woman reported she had been eating like mad because of jealousy over her sister's having purchased a $40,000 house. Another quipped, "just remember the payments she's making!"

THEN COMES the actual hypnosis. With light turned low the doctor, in a smooth, monotonous voice, directs everyone to visualize herself as slim and attractive (a most important preliminary, he says) in contrast to someone, preferably loved or hated. Their imagination is aided by a tape recording he had made himself of instructions in story-like form directing them to attend a high school class reunion in which each woman sees herself as her ideal while noting what has happened, both good and bad, to former classmates.

The session concludes with the doctor giving to each woman the individual suggestions she had written on her slip of paper, followed by general suggestions of well being for everyone before the group is awakened — or at least those who are hypnotized. Some are not.

DR. RUDOLF E. NOBLE

LATER DR. NOBLE explained that he may take the difficult patients, who are not showing progress through standard group suggestibility techniques, through age regression in a private session to discover what subconscious resistances are interfering and what food means to them.

This was dramatically illustrated when he narrated a taped recording of the age regression of a young English woman who, he said, "would drive through a brick wall to get candy if necessary."

While re-living devastatingly emotional and other experiences she had gone through as a child in bombed London during World War II, she revealed that candy had been rationed, and she had developed an insatiable craving and sense of deprivation in connection with it.

Reconciliation Might Be Better Than Trying To Return Gifts

DEAR HELEN:

When a couple has been married only five months and they separate with intentions of getting a divorce, is it correct to return wedding gifts? — NEEDING ADVICE

DEAR NEEDING:

If you have used the gifts, they can't be returned. They should be divided according to which side of the family — or whose friends — presented them.

A reconciliation would solve this problem — and others. Have you tried? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a playboy, or at least considered so by some people. I am out for a good time and have no intention of getting serious. But I do have pride. I never force anything. I only take what is offered.

Now, after taking this "gift" from a girl, she is charging me with rape. What should I do? — PLAYBOY IN TROUBLE

DEAR PLAYBOY:

If she is under age, and you aren't, you're in trouble! Beware of minors bearing "gifts." They might be gold-diggers, who know all about statutory rape.

Whether this girl wants money, or her parents want revenge, you'd better see a lawyer. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Maybe you can help me. I seem to remember reading years ago that the man who plays Superman on Television killed himself. But people say I'm crazy because they see him every day. Am I right or wrong? — BONNIE

DEAR BONNIE:

You're right. It was a little over 10 years ago that Television's Superman killed himself. His name was George Reeves. Your friends are seeing him on old re-runs. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Why is it that when a guy takes a girl out, he thinks it's his duty to park and make-out?

None of the guys around here even plan their dates. Do you think they would take a girl to a show, horse-back riding, to a carnival or game, to the beach, to dinner, skating, bowling or to a dance? Even a good walk to a museum or an invitation to help him wash his car would be appreciated.

There are lots of things that don't cost much money, and they're a lot more fun than sitting in a car for two or three hours glued to each other!

What can be done to get the point over to boys? — SICK AND TIRED OF IT

DEAR SATOI:

Polish up your "No Parking" button, and let the guys know the difference between a cheap date and a date that cheapens. So long as you accept submarine hunts you'll get nothing better. —H.

ques actually have to do with an individual's punishing herself by not allowing herself to become slimmer and more attractive, Dr. Noble said.

In one case a woman had been left as a small child to watch her sick father while her mother was away temporarily, and he had died during this time. She felt that it was her fault. The guilt made her feel she was not worthy of being attractive.

In some cases women fearing sexual involvements or competition with others for sexual attentions do not permit themselves to become attractive, he said.

Among other subconscious influences uncovered in hypnosis are oral satisfactions from breast feeding and patterns set in childhood when food is used as reward of comfort, the doctor explained.

On the value of learning self-hypnosis, Dr. Noble says, "First a person needs to get started with a hypnotist and learn the procedures, but the trouble is that most people will not take the time necessary to hypnotize themselves. An effective aid in working alone is listening to a tape made specifically for this purpose."

HYPNOTISM IS one system, but the basic fact about losing weight by any system is that it must involve diet or cutting down the intake of unneeded calories.

Opened Shoe In For Summer

The opened shoe is the shoe to have, starting right now, getting the jump on summer, says the National Footwear Institute. The style, tried last year, worked well in both Europe and America.

A city sandal to consider: A cross-cross of straps. Another is a shelter-toed shoe buckled off at the sides and opened at the back. Other interpretations: an oxford or spectator with everything possible pared away until what remains is a sandal.

Mother-to-be Should Eat More, Says Obstetrician

San Francisco (WMNS) — The pendulum may be swinging back to the old-fashioned notion that a pregnant woman should eat for two.

Dr. Howard Jacobson, University of California professor of obstetrics, believes that 10-15 pounds is far too little for a normal woman to gain in those crucial nine months, particularly since the components of pregnancy alone usually add up to more than 20 pounds — the baby, the uterus, increased blood volume, added breast tissue.

Citing studies that show that mothers who gain more deliver bigger babies and that bigger babies are almost always healthier babies, Dr. Jacobson recommends a minimum weight gain of 24 pounds, even if a woman is overweight to begin with, and a maximum of 30 pounds.

"A pregnant woman," he says, "has a natural and correct desire to eat more. She does more physical work, there are more emotional demands, and there is more metablolic work. We should ask to what extent a pregnant woman on a diet is depriving her baby."

Physical Softness Leads To Softness Of Character

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—To a famous athlete, when we get soft physically, we soften also mentally and spiritually.

And the parallel applies especially to the nation's young people—"They have so many things these days," says Bob Richards.

Richards, a minister as well as record-breaking athlete, believes that fitness must once again become the American way of life. It is for him and his family, he says. Then with a laugh he adds, "I want to live to be 100 and be shot by a jealous husband."

"I see a correlation between physical softness and softness of character," Richards said in a recent interview. "And, a relation between fitness and toughness of our people. Those who built America were physically and mentally strong. They had no softness on patriotism. Democracy is an activist theory of living.

"I'd like this trek to help give back our sense of toughness," he said. Richards referred to a three months jogging and cycling trip he will make coast to coast to dramatize the need for fitness. Richards' "crusade" will begin in Los Angeles June 1, with the 43-year-old athlete crossing through deserts, over mountains and along secondary roads some 3,300 miles before reaching New York in early August.

Richards says his participation in athletics since childhood has taught him how much regular exercise under proper medical supervision can do to help a person keep fit for life.

Richards and his wife, Mary, have two sons, both following in dad's footsteps in athletics, and a married daughter.

Both sons are promising pole vaulters. The older, Bob Jr., a freshman at Mt. San Antonio Junior College, has been mentioned by sports writers as a prospect for the 1972 Olympics team.

Richards won two Olympic gold medals in pole vaulting. He was a three-time U.S. decathlon winner during his active sports career.

He is an ordained minister of the Church of the Brethren and now serves also as director of the Wheaties Sports Federation.

Puerto Suello Hill Frontage Road System To Be Sought

San Rafael City councilmen, disturbed by recent major traffic tieups on Highway 101 originating at Puerto Suello Hill, agreed last night to push for frontage roads over the hill.

Councilman Harry A. Barbier said that traffic was snarled for five hours Saturday and backed up along Lincoln Avenue to downtown San Rafael.

A mudslide at the crest of the hill blocked a northbound lane of Highway 101 Saturday and traffic along the highway backed up to the San Quentin turnoff.

San Rafael streets feeding into northbound 101 were filled with bumper to bumper traffic.

Barbier said a bypass was needed and said the city should seek a roadway linking Lincoln Avenue with Merrydale Road.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini reported that state highway officials said they would have no funds for frontage roads until 1974.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said the city should ask the state immediately for right-of-way acquisition.

One of the largest traffic jams in Marin County history occurred Dec. 3 when water line construction blocked two northbound lanes on Highway 101 at Puerto Suello Hill.

Councilmen also agreed to ask the state to construct a new access road to Rice Lane, serving south Francisco Boulevard, after the current road is eliminated by construction of a new viaduct.

The current road provides access to the area from the southbound 101 onramp, off Second Street. Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles said the viaduct construction job is soon going to bid, and a new access road will be needed at a cost of $70,000.

"We should make every effort," said Mayor C. Paul Bettini. Lack of an access road would be disastrous to merchants in the south Francisco Boulevard area, he said.

Rawles also reported that the city wouldn't be able to get federal funds this fiscal year for revamping the sewer system in the older sector of the city, but might possibly qualify during the next fiscal year, starting July 1.

The city has been hoping to get federal funds toward a proposed $1.3 million sewer improvement program.

Montecillo Road Extension, Developing Park Win Nods

San Rafael City Council last night approved plans for extending Montecillo Road to Trellis Drive and developing an adjacent three-acre neighborhood park site.

Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles estimated that the job would cost $65,000 and noted there was $70,000 earmarked for it in the current parks and recreation budget.

As planned there would be a pedestrian underpass connecting the Don Timeteo School playground with the city park. Bids will be opened at the March 17 city council meeting.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

ZONING TEXT — Approved three technical changes in the zoning ordinance to bring it into uniformity with practice, clarify it and to eliminate automatic expiration of use permits.

SEAVIEW SUBDIVISION — Approved the final map of the planned 41-lot Seaview Subdivision by Galli Construction Co. of San Francisco at San Pedro Road and Main Drive, and accepted land from the company needed for the San Pedro Road widening project.

MAIN DRIVE — Accepted from the McNear Co. the northerly half of Main Drive in the city area for roadway purposes and requested Marin County to improve the county portion of Main Drive.

SEWER JOB — Granted Vukasin and Rigifion of Lafayette, Contra Costa County, a 6-day extension until April 30 to complete relocation of sewer lines in the vicinity of Clyde Avenue, Clinton Street and Tamalpais Avenue in connection with the Highway 101 widening project. Rawles explained more time was needed because delays caused by rains.

PAY RANGES — Adopted a resolution setting the pay range for city electrician at $739 to $899, for tree maintenance leaderman, $670 to $815, maintenance man III, $638 to $776, and secretary, $500 to 608.

PAY RAISES — Raised the pay of Modesto Lamperti, city electrician, to $899 a month; John Camelow, tree maintenance leaderman, $776; Silvio Salmoria, maintenance man III, $739; Larry Petretti and Curtis Grannis, both maintenance man III, $670; Ruth Shea, account clerk II, $551; Fern Vincent, stenographer clerk II, $579; Joan Henriksen, secretary, $500; and Rose Crader, account clerk, $500. Some raises resulted from the change in pay ranges and others from reclassification of employees.

ZONING HEARINGS — Set March 17 at 8 p.m. for public hearings on four technical changes in the zoning ordinance and a change which permit residential uses in administrative-professional districts by use permit.

JOB DESCRIPTIONS — Set March 17 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on a new set of job desciptions covering city employees.

CLAIM PAID — Authorized payment of $75 to Budget Rent-a-Car for damage to one of their cars Dec. 14 when it was damaged by a cable while firemen were working on a fire alarm circuit at Lincoln Avenue and Highway 101.

CLAIM DENIED — Denied a claim by David D. Whittemore of Napa for $1.50 damage to his car tire, allegedly caused Feb. 14 because of an open manhole at Fourth Street and West Crescent Drive.

APPEALS — Set April 21 at 8 p.m. to hear two appeals of ghe city planning commission's approval of a dog and cat kennel at 535 Jacoby Street. Stanley Goldberg, one of the applicants, appealed the five-year limit on the use permit, and attorney S. J. Hugh Allen, representing Quail Hill Inc. and Bonzani, Flocchini and Norwitt appealed the granting of the permit.

Injuries Minor In Auto Crash

A 74-year-old San Rafael woman suffered minor injuries in an auto accident in front of her home Sunday.

Mrs. Margaret Hess, of 49 Elizabeth Way, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut on her left knee and bruises on her chest.

San Rafael police said Mrs. Hess was turning her car into a driveway when she was struck from the rear by a car driven by James Garrett, of 119 Barbara Avenue, San Anselmo. The impact pushed Mrs. Hess' car into a third car, owned by Isabella Quentin, 51 Elizabeth Way, which was parked in the driveway, police said.

Elective Courses To Be Discussed

A report on elective program courses at Red Hill School will be given by Donald A. Shaw, principal, at a meeting of the San Anselmo School District board at 7:30 p.m., today, at Red Hill School.

The board will also hear progress reports on teacher and classified employee salary negotiations, Supt. Stephen L. Parodi reported.

Misdemeanor Charges Filed In Girl's Death

Misdemeanor charges were filed yesterday against three youths held in connection with the death of a 16-year-old girl who died early Saturday of a possible overdose of drugs.

Charged with being under the influence of narcotics were William John Helms, 20, of San Anselmo, Curtis Lynn Ross, 18, of San Quentin, and Stephen Carl Ellsworth, 20, of San Rafael.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Leonard Shaw said that no more serious charges would be filed pending further investigation of the death of Willeen Harper of San Francisco.

Shaw said that toxicology tests are being made to determine what killed the girl, who was found dead at the Meadowsweet Motel in Corte Madera. Police have said they suspected death was due to an overdose of morphine or methamphetamine or a combination of both.

Shaw said yesterday in Marin Municipal Court that numerous hypodermic syringes and an almost empty vial of morphine were found in the motel room which he said had been rented by Helms under a fictitious name.

Judge Hadden W. Roth refused to release the three young men on their own recognizance and set bail at $940 each.

Ellsworth, who was represented by the public defender, was told to return to court Thursday to enter a plea, and Helms and Ross were given a week's continuance to next Monday for plea entry. Helms and Ross were represented by private attorneys.

French Student Seeks U.S. Visa

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Daniel Cohn-Bendit, the leftist student leader barred from France last year for his role in student rioting, has applied for a visa to visit the United States.

A spokesman for the U.S. Consulate said today the application has been sent to Washington for consideration because Cohn-Bendit, known also as "Danny the Red," "has had some legal difficulties both in France and Germany."

Greenbrae Firm Apparently Low On Road Project

E. A. Forde Co. of Greenbrae appears to be low bidder on the project to widen to four lanes and improve the Lucas Valley Road entrance to Marin County Juvenile Hall.

Robert Pedroncelli, associate civic engineer for the department of public works, opened five bids yesterday at the Civic Center and reported that Forde submitted the lowest bid of $8,662. The four other bids ranged to a high of $9,531. Pedroncelli emphasized that the figures must be checked for accuracy and if they are found to be in order, the bids would go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors today for a decision.

All five bids came in lower than the engineer's estimate of $10,150.

Pro-Hess Austrian Woman Is Expelled

PARIS (AP) — Gerlind Haberl, a young Austrian woman who tried to hand President Nixon a petition for the release of Hitler's deputy Rudolf Hess, was ordered expelled from France today.

Miss Haberl ran toward Nixon and President Charles de Gaulle Sunday as the two were walking toward Nixon's plane. Police intercepted her. She had been kept at the airport ever since.

A NEW LOOK FOR NOVATO POLICE

KQED Family Life Film Voted Down

The Novato Unified School District board voted 5-0 last night to exclude the KQED "Time of Your Life" series from the family life education program in the district.

The action came on the recommendation of a special study committee formed in 1967.

OTHER FILM

Instead of "Time of Your Life," the committee recommended use of the McGraw-Hill Book Co. film on human reproduction and outlined a suggested course of study for junior and senior high school students.

The 5-0 vote came with trustees Gordon M. Leathers and Marett Boissevain absent.

Last night's meeting was punctuated by repeated objections to sex education in schools and by a charge by one parent that a daybed had been brought into one classroom for use in song and play about drugs.

"How about the classroom in the Lome Verde School where they moved the desks aside to put in a day bed? Maybe that fits in with your sex education program," said John C. Anderson of 270 Fairway Drive.

When questioned about this, Anderson said that the student in Roger Gilbert's fifth grade room sat on the couch singing: "Marijuana, marijuana, LSD, Mister Mouille makes it, so why can't we?" (Joseph Mouille is principal of the Loma Verde School.)

District Supt. James G. Bunker promised an investigation. He said he would have a report from Mouille at a meeting which Anderson could attend.

PARENTS, TOO

Russell G. Japp of 729 Del Mar said parents who want their children to get sex education from the schools could attend night classes with the students.

Mrs. Carolyn Crabtree, a candidate for one of three positions on the board at the April 15 election, said that Kentfield schools had a night study program which was working out well.

George F. Caldwell Jr., another candidate for the school board, asked what controls the district was making in selecting teachers for the program.

Paul C. Mobley, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction, said 40 teachers were receiving instruction in teaching the course.

Bunker said family life education would be an elective subject and promised more study before the suggestions of the committee were put into the classrooms next September.

Sausalito School Critics Hear Report On Problems

A nine-part reply to critics of the Sausalito School District board was issued by a board subcommittee last night, but one critic restoked the fire by making a new charge that racial hatred was spouted at a school-backed program Feb. 21.

Delta Christ of Sausalito charged that two women from outside the district were invited to a martyrs day program and then agitated for burning white history books and hating white people.

The women were not invited, trustee David E. Freedheim replied, but attended an open meeting. He said students at the program did a "magnificient job of repudiating their racist ideas. School board policy opposes any promulgation of race hate or violence, Freedheim said.

The incident happened at a discussion after the program honoring recently-assassinated American leaders President John F. Kennedy, Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Medgar Evers, Malcolm X and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

At an open meeting, Supt. Philip W. Schneider said, there was "no way we could have denied their right to speak.

Mrs. Christ insisted she felt the women were invited to speak because the program was delayed, then started a moment after they arrived.

Several other speakers in the packed office repeated complaints of two weeks ago, although much of the sting was removed by the committee report.

The report by Freedheim and Nathaniel Johnson hit on nine areas.

Main sources of complaints were student field trips to Black Panther headquarters in San Francisco and use of the term "pig," referring to policemen, in a class display.

The committee supported field trips, but recommended that parents sign permission slips for individual trips rather than sign a blanket permission at the start of the year. Parents could veto trips they disapproved for their children.

On the vocabulary question, Freedheim said it is "unrealistic to believe children are not aware . . . of what's going on today." Use of slang words should be continued, he said, but with careful explanation of the fallacy of using such terms to derogate groups.

The committee rejected a request to fire Schneider and recommended the board restate its full support of the administration. Two weeks ago Rev. Fred Small of Marin City called for Schneider's firing.

The committee also recommended the staff at Sonoma State College make an objective study of the communications problem in the district, working with a group to be named by the Sausalito Parents Club and representing Sausalito, Marin City and the forts. The district would pay any costs for the study.

The committee report also discussed:

DISCIPLINE — Admitting discipline problems at Martin Luther King School, the committee asked for more help from parents, saying discipline is a dual responsibility of school and home.

REPORT CARDS — Said A-B-C-D-F grading should be eliminated in favor of parent-teacher conferences.

HOMEWORK — Said homework is part of good study habits, and recommended parents dissatisfied with their children's homework load should talk with the teacher, principal, superintendent and the board if necessary.

SCHOOL VISITS — Urged parents to visit their children's classes, and to tell the staff their reactions.

TESTING — Johnson said testing should be for diagnosis, not achievement, to show the teacher what the pupil needs to be taught. The committee recommended asking Stanford University to discuss setting up tests comparing district pupils with other Bay Area districts.

The district won some praise along with repeats of the previous criticisms. Sausalito is "one of the few places we've got something good going," William K. Broder of Sausalito said. He charged that each election time "the same people come forward and attack."

He challenged the discipline concept where "people think they stand the kids in a row, stand them at attention, order them to learn and they learn."

The board asked for a written version of the report for discussion and possible action at the March 17 meeting.

The Sausalito School District board also:

MEXICO — Agreed to provide a bus, truck and driver and pay running costs in the United States for the Mazatlan, Mexico, trip by the Spanish Club at Martin Luther King School this summer. Schneider was told to bring in depreciation figures to show what the real cost of the support will be.

SALARIES — Named Assistant Supt. Joseph Amato as negotiator with the classified salary committee.

INSTITUTE — Set a staff institute and planning day for Friday. Classes will be excused.

PROJECTS — Heard that Amato has prepared five projects for federal aid under the National Defense Education Act, for a science class, science consultant, social studies project, social studies consultant and a guidance project.

Living Quarters Permit Denied

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night denied an application for a use permit to allow the use of the rear portion of an antique shop at 1 Saunders Avenue as living quarters.

The board said it had received three letters from residents of the neighborhood opposing the rezoning request of Bartlett C. Tucker.

The board granted a use permit application by Lucien N. Remy for a furniture crafts shop at 1606 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Reaction Mixed To Center Location

By JOANNE GRANT

A site described as centralized, easily acquired and having enough space for police and fire departments and an administration building met with mixed reactions and counter proposals last night when it was officially presented to the Fairfax City Council.

The plan, presented by Harold S. Lezzini in the absence of Harold G. Skaggs, chairman of the site selection committee, called for building the facilities at the corner of Bolinas Avenue and Park Road, the site of the existing city offices.

Lezzini reported the only land acquisition would be a duplex and a single family dwelling located between the tin shed which houses city vehicles and the Andy Peri playground.

Thirty feet of the playground are included in the site selection committee's plan.

Eventually, said Lezzini, the surrounding residential area could be taken for parking and Park Road could be widened to four lanes.

The plan also calls for keeping the existing corporation yard at the rear of the property and building a concrete platform across a creek on the site, to be used initially for parking and later as the base of a new administration building, Lezzini said.

Councilman Adelaide P. Wilson noted the owner of the two pieces of property necessary to the plan has reported he has had the parcels appraised at $67,000. No one had the figures on the assessed value of the land.

Herman Hein, owner of a site at the corner of Bolinas and Sherman avenues, offered it to the city as a possible site for a firehouse.

Hein, who said he didn't think site acquisition and the building should exceed $100,000, described his property as having "beautiful access" to downtown and to the Cascades.

He promised the city "attractive" terms but did not mention a price for the property.

His offer was opposed by Fire Chief Charles S. Thornton, asserting the site was not large enough. However, Mayor Robert R. Souza asked Thornton and City Administrator Francis R. Lestanguet to look into the offer.

Planning Commission chairman Albert E. Gately protested the site selection committee's proposal, speaking against almost every aspect of it. He was especially concerned about the possibility of further encroachment on the park if needed for future expansion.

The planning commission last week refused to accept the proposed site and the parks and recreation commission at its last meeting gave "cautious" approval to it.

The planning commission also asked for plans on three additional sites.

Mayor Souza pointed out that the last site selection committee, whose recommendations led to a $550,000 bond issue which was defeated, had investigated 11 sites.

He said the council would not make a decision last night because two of its members and the site selection committee did not have all the facts and figures on all 11 sites.

Councilmen Cornelis Van Vliet and Francis J. O'Connell spoke in favor of the plan and Mrs. Wilson said, "I don't object to the site, but I have grave reservations about a building (fire house) that large on Park Road," a residential area.

Councilman Frank J. Egger opposed the plan, commenting, "We're talking in the neighborhood of $400,000."

Egger said, "This park has been 30-footed to death" and predicted residents would vote against it because of fear of further encroachment on the park.

Noting the county has a library branch "in the back of its mind" for Fairfax, Egger suggested going in with the county and buying the old Buon Gusto property on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Mrs. Wilson reported the Fairfax School board is considering selling Central School and that property might be available to the city.

The mayor directed Mrs. Lestanguet to investigate that site also.

Mayor Souza, long a proponent of building as the site selection committee recommended, did not comment last night.

The council scheduled another meeting with the site selection committee for 8 p.m. March 24 at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Plans For Library Are Rejected

The Novato Beautification Committee does not like the plans for the new Novato branch of the Marin County Library and last night voted to reject them, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

The committee's opinion is only advisory, however, since the county will construct the library.

"The committee felt that the site beside Novato Creek was suited to a more outdoor type of architecture to blend with the setting," Brown said.

At the Feb. 11 city council meeting, County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema presented the preliminary sketches, showing the library as a hollow square constructed around a court. The library is proposed for Novato Boulevard, west of Seventh Street.

"The committee felt that the design should be open out onto the creek," Brown said.

Sub-committee chairmen for the April 12-May 4 cleanup campaign were named by chairman William Olsen. Richard Burgi was named to head the streets and highways cleanup and disposal of rubbish. Marjorie Mowat and Ernestine Barnwell were named to head the school poster capaign and Lorene Bunker, the planting campaign.

Suspect Booked For Petty Theft

Fairfax police last night arrested John Stephen Larralde of Gate 6, near Sausalito, on suspicion of petty theft.

Police said he was arrested for taking lumber from a construction site on Glen Drive near the White Hill School.

Clausen Reported Pushing For Novato School Funds

Hope was offered the Novato School District board last night that $800,000 in federal funds would be granted next year to the district under program of aid to the districts serving military bases.

Supt. James G. Bunker reported that Sen. Alan Cranston and Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, were supporting legislation before Congress to continue the program, which was cut back last year under President Johnson's effort at cross-the-board 10 per cent reduction in federal spending.

Bunker told the board that about 3,500 students from Hamilton Air Force Base attend Novato schools, 1,500 of them living off base. The cutback would eliminate aid covering the offbase residents. The legislation proposed would restore this money.

The board accepted Bunker's report, with Trustees Gordon M. Leathers and Marett Boissevain absent.

Novato Unified School District Board Also:

NEGOTIATIONS — Went into a closed meeting at 10:15 p.m. to discuss negotiations with the teachers who are asking for 8.5 per cent increase. The board received a preliminary estimate on expenses for fiscal 1970 which was $8,480,864 which was $321,248 more than the current budget of $8,159,616. The board adjourned at 11:35 p.m. without taking any formal action after the closed meeting.

Homeowners Back Merger In Loma Verde

The Loma Verde Homeowners Association last night voted to endorse the merger of the North Marin County Water District with the Novato Sanitary District, according to secretary James King.

The membership felt that this would help solve problems of polution such as at Bel Marin Keys, he said. The merger will be on the April 15 ballot.

Arnold Baptiste, president of the North Marin Federation, told the group that the federation was against the zone change for the area south of Gnoss Field from commercial to recreational zone for fear of pollution from houseboats.

President Bruce B. Robinson reported that the Loma Verde association is working to get a connection between Alameda de la Loma and the new apartments proposed for south of Loma Verde so that the traffic would not increase too much for Alameda del Prado to handle, he said.

Plea Due Today On Marijuana

Charles Champion, 32, of Richmond, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge that he possessed marijuana in Sausalito Saturday. He was to return to court to enter a plea today.

Champion was arrested about 8:30 p.m., when officers found him in his car hung up on a curb near the Spinnaker restaurant. Officers said he was booked on traffic warrants from Alameda County, but found to have four marijuana cigarettes in his possession.

He was held in Marin County Jail with bail set at $625.

$258 In Clothing, Jewels Are Stolen

The theft of approximately $258 worth of clothing and jewelry was reported yesterday to San Rafael police by Mario L. Cortesi of 1 Laurel Place, San Rafael.

Police are looking for two men said to have attended a party at Cortesi's home Sunday night. Cortessi reported the theft of a suit, six shirts, a pair of shoes and a wristwatch.

Head Cut In Scuffle With Police

A 54-year-old Fairfax man received a severe head cut in a shoving match with a Fairfax policeman yesterday which resulted in the man's arrest for assault and battery, resisting arrest and delaying a police officer.

Booked into Marin County Jail after receiving five stitches for the cut over his left eye was Perce Eugene Williams II, 54, accused of assaulting officer John Johnson.

Johnson said Williams at first refused to let them into the house, but when they finally entered he struggled with his wife and shoved Johnson. Johnson reported he shoved Williams back and the man fell against the edge of a door, cutting his head.

Williams' bail was set at $625 and he was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Novato Planners Cancel Meeting

Last night's meeting of the Novato Planning Commission was canceled because of the absence of Brian W. Mattson, planning director, due to the death of his father, George W. Mattson.

The commission was scheduled to discuss the new Bahia Master Plan, housing for the elderly and amendments to the zoning ordinance. These items will be placed on the agenda for the meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the community house, according to secretary Juanita Gibson.

More Father Hesburghs Needed In Our Schools

Coast-to-coast "confrontations" on campuses this year have produced a sorry spectacle of yielding by administrators to violence or threats of violence. They have even seen the board of trustees of the California State Colleges agree in effect to condone law violations in the hope of settling a strike by a faculty minority.

So-called educational leaders have revealed themselves as lacking both in principle and in courage. It is no wonder that the militant student and faculty leaders hold them in contempt.

FROM AMONG THEM, however, has emerged a handful who prove that courage, integrity, and dedication to genuine academic freedom still exist. Foremost among these must be put Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of University of Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind.

Father Hesburgh's statement of the rules that will be followed at Notre Dame has received approving comment from the White House. It could well be adopted at every school.

Declared the Notre Dame president:

"ANYONE OR ANY GROUP that substitutes force for rational persuasion . . . will be given 15 minutes of meditation to cease and desist. They will be told that they are, by their actions, going counter to the overwhelming conviction of this community as to what is proper here. If they do not within the time period cease and desist, they will be asked for their identity cards.

"Those who produce these will be suspended from this community as not understanding what this community is. Those who do not have or will not produce identity cards will be assumed not to be members of the community and will be charged with trespassing and disturbing the peace on private property and treated according to law . . .

"After notification of suspension, or trespass in the case of non-community members, if there is not then within five minutes a movement to cease and desist, students will be notified of expulsion from this community and the law will deal with them as non-students."

GIVING HIS REASONS for this well-thought-out, straightforward and simple method of dealing with disorders, Father Hesburgh commented in a letter to the Wall Street Journal that "there seems to be a current myth that university members are not responsible to the law."

On the contrary, he wrote, all are responsible to laws of the university and all laws of the land, for: "There is no other guarantee of civilization versus the jungle or mob rule, here or elsewhere."

He concluded: "We rule ourselves or others rule us, in a way that destroys the university as we have known and loved it."

HERE IS A MAN to whom integrity is of first importance, to whom education is a sacred trust, to whom academic freedom is real and important and not a mindless slogan to be chanted like the "two legs bad, four legs good" of the sheep in George Orwell's "Animal Farm."

We need more Father Hesburghs in our educational community.

If This Stuff Makes You Sick, Careful Where You Buy Bicarb!

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

California consumers who buy strawberry and artichoke plants have to pay a sales tax, but none for a tomato or pepper plant.

Wheat germ is tax-exempt, but oil of wheat germ is taxable.

Gelatine and health foods are tax exempt but dietary supplements are taxable.

Bicarbonate of soda sold by grocery stores is exempt from sales tax because it is expected to be used as an ingredient of food products, but the same item in a drug store is taxable because it is presumed to be intended for medical purposes.

A peanut with salt on it is tax exempt, but taxable if it has sugar on it.

Confused?

WELL, SIMILAR examples of arbitrary taxing by the state Board of Equalization abound among the 6,000 or more items found in a supermarket.

To do something about it, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, has introduced legislation to make a start at eliminating some of the inequities in sales taxes. The legislation grew out of a report by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, chaired by Bagley.

The spirit of Bagley's legislation was in the report's declaration that the state Board of Equalization, which administers the sales tax, "should refrain from the temptation to squeeze the last penny from the food products consumer."

AS LONG as the GOP has the United Republicans of California, it won't have to fear for its starboard wing. It's alive and flapping.

The leaders of the band met recently in Sacramento and agreed that what is wrong with the nation could be set right if only Congress would "investigate the kind of un-common law being practiced by the U.S. Supreme Court to force socialistic law on a constitutional republic."

Also needed, UROC's board of governors declared in a series of resolutions, was a return of the citizen's right to buy and own gold so government cannot "rob them of the fruits of their labors by arbitrary and willful manipulation of the value of the currency."

TURNING TO regional government, UROC observed that "the cancer of centralization or regionalism is irreversible and eventually destroys the vigorous independence and autonomy of local entities." It was silent on the contention that pressure for regional government has grown because local government are anything but "vigorous" in meeting regional problems.

England was accused of selling "colonies for spoils, socialism and perhaps the communism that rings its nostrils."

Majority rule in Rhodesia would bring "certain economic and social chaos," according to another resolution, which commended Rhodesia as "a bulwark against communism."

The lessons of paternalism ought to be unlearned and the better lesson taught that while the people should patriotically and cheerfully support their government, its functions do not include the support of the people. — Grover Cleveland.

Catch Phrases Mark Propaganda

In answer to Alvah Bessie's letter of Feb. 22 in the Independent-Journal:

After reading about communism and listening to their diatribes and propaganda "ad nauseum," certain cliches and "catch" phrases stand out through constant repetition, such as "military industrial complex," "police brutality," "imperialism," "fascist," etc. etc. You sound like you have been drinking out of the same bottle.

For your information our military seems to be pretty well controlled by our civilian government. You will of course remember how President Truman handled General MacArthur in the Korean War and how our civilian government tells our military, in the Vietnam War which targets they may hit, what weapons they may use etc. . . . I suggest you spend some time living in a communist country there I am sure you will find ample opportunity to vent your spleen on their military and police force with some justification.

As for your outcries against our police — you won't find any law abiding people complaining of their so called "brutality." However you may find many trouble makers, agitators, subversives and their ilk complain bitterly . . .

Water Bond Series Does Real Service

I would like to express my appreciation and offer my congratulations to you, and particularly to Joanne Grant, the reporter, who wrote the series of articles on the future water supply for the (Marin Muncipal Water) District.

These articles were well prepared and I fell they did a real service to the community. It serves not only to keep the public advised, but also to alert them to the problems being faced by the water district in maintaining an adequate supply for the increasing population of Marin County.

School Decision Appears Vindictive

The San Rafael School Board agreed during last night's (Feb. 25) meeting to put the middle school concept in effect this September. This will put Davidson on double sessions and leave some empty classrooms in the elementary schools.

This sounds like retribution for the defeat of the bond issue. . . . If the bond issue had passed, it would have taken a year to build the Glenwood Middle School and there had not been any mention of double sessions.

I think it is the duty of the board and the administration to provide the best classroom distribution possible. To remove the portables . . . which have been good enough all these years and start double sessions at one school does not seem to be in the best interest of the community. . . .

I believe a policy of this type should be further considered and no decision should be made during the first meeting after defeat of the bond issue, which smacks of vindictiveness.

Let Dog Owners Pay For Control

The recent I-J story (by Alan Jones) concerning the continuing problems of rancher George Gianecchini with stock killing dogs offers a timely opportunity for others to vent their feelings on dogs — if not their masters.

When I first moved here I recall telling visiting friends that "Mill Valley" was really an old Miwok Indian expression meaning "valley of a thousand barking dogs." My friends believed it! They had only to count after being awakened at 3 a.m. One pointed out that there had obviously been a marked increase in dog population here since old Indian times.

I am well aware that dog fanciers will quickly claim any complaints raised about their dogs are ill-founded, overrated, prejudiced — perhaps even un-American. After all we all know who is a man's best friend, and how no boy should grow up without his dog, etc., etc., ad absurdum; which is just what the whole thing is — absurd! . . .

What is really pertinent is whether or not I am less disturbed by incessant barking of a neighbor's neurotic (or vice versa) dog than by his hi fi turned to the limit . . .

Why should dogless residents not only be subjected to such continued annoyances and nuisances but be asked as well to help foot the bill for what obviously is an inadequate control and an ineffectual program? Dogs and problems attributable to them are not the responsibility of the community as a whole; they are the responsibility of those who insist on having a dog in the first place.

Wouldn't a realistic licensing fee of say $25 a year, or more if need be, provide funds for adequate enforcing of local ordinances? And wouldn't such a fee help serve at the same time to thin the dog population to a point where, for some of us at least, it would become something less than a dog's world?

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

There's a famous men's wear establishment in New York that's been selling the same model suit to five generations of affluent and conservative merchants. In fact, scoffers claim there isn't a single mirror in the store — nor is one needed. They simply prop up one customer facing another customer.

Young Dr. Poople hung out his shingle for the first time on a Tuesday, but nary a patient showed up until Friday morning. When one came into his office, Dr. Poople hoped to impress him. He picked up his phone and barked into it, "I can't help how serious that brain operation is. There are so many patients waiting here for me now that I can't come over to the hospital to perform it until six this evening."

He banged down the receiver and turned to his visitor with a disarming smile. "What seems to be paining you, my good man?" he asked. "Nothing is paining me," explained the visitor with an impish smile. "I've just come to hook up your telephone, sir."

Pacifist Japan Finds Fault With U.S. Posture Toward Asia

TOKYO — As traveling trouble-shooter, President Nixon should have Japan high on his tour itinerary. For this country, with its astonishing recovery from the depths of defeat and destruction, is the pivot of Asia, and any realistic American policy in this part of the world must be based on collaboration with the Japanese.

But before ne can even think of coming, before Premier Eisaku Sato could risk an invitation, the President will have to take strong, decisive steps to resolve the deep divisions between the two nations. The measures he must take will not be easy, since they will go counter to powerful elements, notably the American military, bent on keeping everything just as it is.

The Japanese-American security treaty expires in 1970, and no one has forgotten that the conclusion of that treaty in 1960 brought perhaps the most furious upheaval in postwar Japan. President Eisenhower set out to visit Tokyo to give his blessing to the treaty. So riotous were the protesting mobs that he stayed in Manila while the question of his safety was weighed. Finally, after a humiliating wait of a week, he returned to Washington.

TODAY observers here believe that feeling runs even deeper beneath the prosperous, busy surface of Japanese life. The Vietnam war and the United States' persistent effort to isolate China — the lengthening shadow of a posture in Asia that has often seemed deliberately designed for disaster — complicate the relationship with the Asian power ranking third in the world in production.

The first step needed involves reversion to Japan of control over the Okinawan population.

Okinawa is a festering sore. The resentment and concern have been accentuated by the Vietnam war.

Initially it was understood that Okinawa would not be a base for bombers attacking Vietnam. Then came the Pueblo incident and the alarm of a greatly widened war in Korea. B-52s were sent to Okinawan bases and today those B-52s regularly bomb targets below the 17th parallel.

OPINION here is rooted in a pacifism embedded in a constitution renouncing any armed force and the resort to war.

Japan has a self-defense force of 275,000 — ground, air and navy. Even this force, so minuscule in contemporary terms for a nation of 100 million, is the source of bitter political dispute.

The fact that probably less than half of one per cent of Japan's gross national product goes into defense costs is one reason for the flourishing state of Japan's economy. The industrialists are quite content that it should be so. Any suggestions from Washington that Japan's forces should be enlarged would be ill-received by almost every element.

IT IS AN open secret that nuclear weapons are stored at American bases on Okinawa. That is one source of the continuing agitation on the left, not merely to see the administration of the Okinawans in Japanese hands but to force the Americans out of a base the American military regards as vital to security in the Pacific.

Some scaling down of the American military presence in Japan proper may be essential. Twenty-five years after the end of the war there are 32,000 Americans in Army, Navy and Air Force units. With civilian employees and dependents it adds up to 46,000, which, with the bases they occupy in these crowded islands, is a lot.

On China, Nixon has been saying the right things from the Japanese viewpoint — try to break down the barriers raised high for two decades. But change is coming so swiftly, with Italy, Canada and possibly Belgium preparing to recognize Peking, that Japan, holding off in deference to the American position, may be caught in a difficult squeeze. The dead weight of the long China tragedy hangs heavy over the decisions just ahead.

Power Struggle In Israel Little Comfort To Arabs

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Israelis now will keep one wary eye on the Arabs and another on the in-fighting among their own top politicians.

The death of Premier Levi Eshkol in the midst of the Arab-Israeli crisis pits three ambitious men against each other in the race to replace him, plus a Woman, Mrs. Golda Meir, onetime Milwaukee school teacher and the most powerful woman in Israeli politics.

Mrs. Meir, former Israeli minister to Moscow, minister of labor and security and foreign minister, will be 71 in May, which makes her age against her and any appointment, if she wins it, a temporary expedient.

THE MEN are acting Premier Yigal Allon, 50, who previously had served under Eshkol as deputy premier; Moshe Dayan, 53-year-old defense minister and hero of the 1956 and 1967 wars against the Arabs, and Minister without Portfolio Pinhas Sapir, 63.

On his mother's side, Allon traces his history in Palestine back to medieval times. Born in lower Galilee, he is the author of the Allon plan for settling the occupied west bank of the River Jordan. He acted as Eshkol's spokesman during the latter's final illness.

He also is a military hero, dating back to the Israeli war for independence in 1948.

He sees the Jordan River as Israel's natural line of defense and would set up a string of para-military settlements along the Jordan River cease-fire line for security purposes while returning the remainder of the west bank and its 600,000 Arab inhabitants to Jordanian rule.

He is regarded as a man of great talent, but without Dayan's popular appeal.

DAYAN, easily identified by his eye patch, is classified as a hawk and a believer in tough talk to the Arabs. He foresees a long occupation but believes this is Israel's real chance to prove that Israelis and Palestine Arabs can live together.

Within security limitations, he would let the Arabs in the occupied areas run their own affairs and would count upon gradual economic integration with Israel even though eventually they would go back to Arab rule.

He brought his Rafi party into union with the ruling Mapai party with the specific purpose of ousting Eshkol.

SAPIR, born in Poland in 1906, arrived as a farm laborer in Palestine in 1930 and is a part of the establishment which has ruled Israel for 20 years. He is politically the most powerful of the three and disagrees sharply with Dayan on integration of the Arabs.

"We did not," he says, "come back to the land of Israel in order to work and shed our blood for a bi-national state."

He says he is a dove in dealings with the Arabs, but obviously he is a tough one.

No one of the three will give much comfort to the Arabs.

No body politic is ever healthy until it itches. — Heywood Broun.

God help us stand for something, lest we fall for anything. — Rev. Peter Marshall.

Many Students Want Dormitories, Though Realty Groups Object

Sonoma State College students are seeking on-campus housing not only to reduce housing costs, but to enjoy the opportunity of campus living.

A proposed 600-unit dormitory has been deferred at the request of President Ambrose R. Nichols Jr., who will meet with Rohnert Park developers who object to the plan on an economic basis. They claim that on-campus housing would nearly empty existing apartments and bring financial disaster for them.

The students living in the off-campus apartments are paying top dollar for rentals by Sonoma County standards. A two-bedroom apartment normally brings $240 per month in rent which is usually shared by four students at an individual cost of $60 per month. Comparable apartments in nearby Petaluma would bring no more than $125 per month in rent.

While it's true that many students prefer living off-campus because it allows greater freedom, there are many more who would take advantage of lower-cost dormitories.

STUDENTS talking over coffee in the College Commons often say they would stop the commuting grind from Marin or other parts of Sonoma if inexpensive housing were available. While relatively inexpensive accomodations can be found around Cotati, the students say they wouldn't consider them "decent pads."

The commuting students say they often feel left out of things. Attending classes is only a small part of a college education, they maintain. While the students may not be "joiners," it would give them the opportunity to participate in extra-curricular activities and to attend after-hour events such as concerts, movies and sports.

Student Body President Terry Brennan said he didn't think occupancy would be a problem for a dormitory. "If they design a good looking building that's not just concrete block, they'll have no trouble finding residents," he said.

IN PETALUMA residents are wondering about the future of the classic Victorian Sorensen Funeral Home. Prime objective of most is to save the venerable building from destruction. The land has been sold to Union Oil Co. for a new service station.

Although most residents would like to keep the home in Petaluma, where they say it rightfully belongs, they would rather see it used in Tiburon as a city hall than to have it destroyed.

John B. Clark of Tiburon last week offered to incur all expenses of moving and relocation, including purchase of site, if his city would be interested in leasing the building.

Clark's plan to barge the building to Tiburon via the Petaluma River has boggled most minds. The thought of the massive building floating down the river is difficult to comprehend, although entirely feasible.

Adriene Lipman, wife of Petaluma City Councilman Robert S. Lipman, may be leading a group of protesters if the home is ultimately razed. She said feeling is running high in the community and she would have no trouble organizing a sit-in of women and children to prevent its destruction.

Hotelman Will Seek 22-Acre Annexation

San Francisco hotelman Melvin M. Swig will seek annexation Thursday of 22 acres on Lucas Valley Road to the Upper Lucas Valley County Service Area and to Marin Municipal Water District.

The annexation proposal will come before the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission at 8 p.m. in the board of supervisors chambers at Civic Center.

The Swig property is on the south side of Lucas Valley Road opposite Mount Shasta Drive. Swig is the son of Benjamin Swig, who operates the Fairmont and several other hotels, and is associated with his father.

Other annexation requests on tap that evening are:

Joseph Arrighi wants one and one-half acres of land in Lomita Park, San Rafael, annexed to the City of San Rafael. His property is on Auburn Street near Woodland Avenue, next to the California Park overpass.

Corte Madera Sanitary District wants to annex a quarter-acre lot owned by Ralph Moon at 90 Edison Avenue.

Novato Sanitary District seeks the annexation of 16.5 acres on the east side of Sutro Avenue, south of Dominic Drive, a quarter-acre lot on Center Road near Eucalyptus Avenue, a quarter-acre lot south of Virginia Avenue near Simmons Lane, and a half-acre lot at the intersection of Vineyard Road, Trumbull Avenue and Sun Lane.

The University of Santo Domingo, founded in what is now the Dominican Republic in 1538, was the first institution of higher learning in the Americans.

Five Marinites To Deans' List

Five Marin students at Claremont Men's College, Claremont, Los Angeles County, have been named to the dean's list for the fall semester.

They are Joseph Coker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray A. Coker of 121 W. Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley; James McNab III, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McNab of Camino Buero Drive, Ross.

Douglas Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace L. Campbell, 450 Cedar Hill Drive, San Rafael, Scott Hansen, son of Mrs. Jean C. Hansen of 18 Bretano Way, and Ken Keigwin, son of Thomas H. Keigwin of 2 Almenar Drive, Greenbrae.

'Year Of The Rooster' Looks Like A Bad One For Mothers

WASHINGTON — Nineteen sixty-nine, according to the Chinese calendar, is the "year of the rooster." In the United States it could become the "year of the mother." It may be too early to predict, but I think this is going to be a bad year for mothers. "Portnoy's Complaint," the Philip Roth book, does the most devasting job on a mother in modern literature; and while it's true that she's a Jewish mother, it is a known fact that most American mothers are really Jewish mothers at heart.

My aunt Sophie in Brooklyn is very disturbed over this turn of events.

"I knew they'd get around to us sooner or later," Aunt Sophie said.

"WHAT DO YOU mean, Aunt Sophie?"

"First they blamed the government for all the trouble in the country, then they blamed the Vietnamese war, then they blamed the schools, and finally they've gotten down to the nitty-gritty and they're blaming us. If it wasn't for mothers, they're saying, the world would be a better place to live in."

"You shouldn't take this personally, Aunt Sophie. It's true that Philip Roth's fictional mother is very tough on her son, but that doesn't mean that every mother is like her."

"Then why is it a best-seller? You think the people read the book because the hero is such a schmo? They read it because the mother is such a horrible woman and they can identify with her."

"THAT'S JUST your interpretation, Aunt Sophie. Americans revere their mothers. Dont you remember we fought World War II just so we could get a hunk of Mom's apple pie?"

"Big deal! That was World War II. Now we're the guilt makers of the world. Every time you pick up the paper you read about some horrible crime, and the psychiatrist says the one who did it had a lousy mother.

"The kids riot at the colleges, and the sociologists say they're not revolting against the school. They're really revolting against their mothers. How do you think that makes us feel?"

"Terrible, I should think," I told my Aunt Sophie. "And it is true that there is a campaign on against mothers, but I would attribute it to the confused society we're living in: People have to blame somebody for their anxieties."

"WHY DON'T they blame John Lindsay?"

"They do, Aunt Sophie, but he gets blamed for so many things that people are getting tired of it. Do you think your son Leo blames you for all his troubles?"

"What troubles?" Aunt Sophie asked sharply.

"I didn't mean troubles. I meant the fact that Leo still isn't married."

"I've never stood in Leo's way. As a matter of fact, I'm as interested in him getting married as he is. Every night at dinner I say to him 'When are you getting married?' Does that sound like I'm standing in his way?"

"It certainly doesn't."

"Can I help it if he's never been able to find someone who can cook as well as I can? The girl who gets my Leo gets gold."

"WHAT DID Leo say about Philip Roth's mother?"

"I wouldn't let him read such garbage," Aunt Sophie said. "Mark my word, mothers are in for a bad period. There are going to be a lot of other books written about mothers, and none of them are going to look like Whistler's"

"You may have a point, Aunt Sophie. But I want to assure you that I will never make fun of mothers. They're the salt of the earth."

"As far as I know, you and Leo are the only ones who feel that way."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Peculiar Deformity Of Hand Still Has Discoverer's Name

VAN DELLEN

In 1832, the French surgeon, Baron Guillaume Dupuytren, described a peculiar deformity, in which "the patient feels a little stiffness in the palm of the hand, and a difficulty in extending the fingers which . . . are drawn into the palm."

The contracture still bears Dupuytren's name and is so prevalent that even medical students recognize the condition.

NINE TIMES MORE common in men than women, the disorder usually strikes during late middle life.

The problem centers about a tought sheath of tissue (palmar fascia) that reinforces and strengthens the heavy skin in the hollow of the hand. The fascia extends over the entire palm and into the base of the fingers so far as the second joint.

For reasons unknown, the padding degenerates and thickens. Scars form leading, in time, to shortening of the fascia.

IT IS THE SHORTENING or contracture of the fascial slips extending into the digits that causes the little and ring fingers to curl up. But this is a late manifestation of the disease.

Dupuytren's begins with the development of one or more small, painless lumps in or beneath the skin of the palm, usually near the long crease. In time the thickening increases, forming the bands or cords that extend over the metacarpal bones and into the base of the fingers.

These changes may go on for years without causing trouble or tenderness. Ultimately, the fingers contract and cannot be extended.

ONLY SURGERY HELPS, and best results are obtained when the procedure is done early. Although not fatal, the contracture interferes with work and may lead to embarrassment when shaking hands. It is not caused by manual labor, but injury accentuates symptoms.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

HEADACHE AND POSTURE

T. D. writes: When I get a headache I can't lie flat in bed but have to prop myself up with pillows. Is my trouble due to the sinuses?

REPLY

This is a possibility, if the sinuses drain when the head is propped up. On the other hand, head pains arising from the ligaments, muscles, and fibrous tissues of the neck are affected by postural changes. Hypertension headaches also may be affected by posture. You ought to have an examination.

VETS AND ZOONOSES

T. V. writes: What occupational hazards do veterinarians face?

REPLY

Other than being kicked, bitten, and scratched, the major hazard is zoonoses (so-ON)osees). More than 86 diseases are transmitted to man by animals but veterinarians have been trained to take the proper precautions.

COCKTAIL NEURITIS

R. W. writes: If a man has neuritis in the right arm, between the shoulder and elbow, would it be harmful to have an occasional cocktail?

REPLY

No, provided the neuritis is not of alcoholic origin. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on alcoholic neuritis.

FOODS TO INCREASE MILK

Mrs. M. P. writes: I'm pregnant and want to nurse my baby. Are there any special foods to encourage the production of milk?

REPLY

No. On the other hand, your unborn child is developing and needs the essential elements provided by a well balanced diet.

Sapphire Thief Arrested Again

Kuhn, 32, and his wife Susan, 21, were arrested Friday night after police recovered jewelry, money orders and a collection of Kennedy half-dollars taken from a North Hollywood home.

Murphy and Jack Griffith, 31, a karate expert, were convicted Saturday in Fort Lauderdale, Fa., in the slaying of a secretary who worked for a Los Angeles brokerage.

Rare Coins Among Items In Burglary

A silver locket with a heavy silver chain, a leather pouch containing some rare old coins and an AM-FM portable radio were stolen last week from the home of Aaron J. Ungersma of 36 Vineyard Avenue, San Anselmo police reported yesterday.

Ungersma said his wife noticed her locket missing on Friday but thought she had misplaced it. Saturday Ungersma looked for his radio and found it gone, too. He then discovered the pouch missing from a dresser drawer and found pry marks on doors and windows. Value of the items was not given, police said.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Bouquets, Brickbats On Tax Idea

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A special commission's suggestion for a massive tax reshuffle—at a cost in added taxes at $510 million to $914 million, drew mixed reaction today. Its future, however, seemed dim.

"I think it stinks," said Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, his party's floor leader in the upper chamber.

"The goals of more support for local government, property tax relief and an efficient withholding system of tax collection are totally acceptable," responded Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, Revenue and Taxation Committee chairman.

The commission headed by Controller Houston I. Flournoy turned its 60-page report over to Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday and made it public for newsmen.

It recommended a statewide property tax, a sales tax on utilities and payroll withholding of the state income tax as key elements of a reshuffling of state and local taxes.

The immediate result, if it were adopted, would be a boost in state and local taxes of $915 million for the first year and of $510 million a year in subsequent years.

But Flournoy said the plan also would steer $539.1 million directly back to the property taxpayer in potential relief—without mandating counties to actually pass it along.

Reagan said he did not like the withholding tax feature. But fellow Republican Bagley found that one of the best parts of the plan.

"The prospects for a real tax reform package to be put together and passed this year are excellent," Bagley said. "Three reasons for this prospect come to mind.

"First, this is not an election year; second, a cooperative bipartisan atmosphere exists in the Assembly, and third, the state's fiscal affairs are in good order, providing the needed fiscal flexibility for passage."

Moscone, however, differed.

"I think it stinks because it extends the sales tax to amusement, to recreation which I assume would be high school games," he said "Who pays for that except the people who can least afford it?"

ROAD TAX DELAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan and top legislative leaders today kept a weather eye open and crossed their fingers they made the right decision not to increase the gasoline tax to pay for flood damage repairs.

They agreed a temporary 1-cent increase in the gasoline tax was not required at the present time because there were enough resources available to repair an estimated $66.1 million storm damage to roads. But the group left the door open for a temporary boost if the road damage estimate should prove higher when final figures are available in about three weeks.

Reagan met yesterday with Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, Senate leader Hugh M. Burns and about a dozen other legislators on the flood damage problem.

He said the state had $21 million available for repair of state highways and to distribute to local governments for road rebuilding. The state expects to get another $17 million in federal funds. Cities and counties will be expected to provide some funds themselves.

COLLEGE HELP

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislators have worked out a compromise $900,000 emergency allocation to help state colleges handle heavier-than-expected spring enrollment. Only ratification by the two houses and Gov. Ronald Reagan's signature remains.

A Senate-Assembly conference committee reached agreement on the figure yesterday. The Senate had passed a bill for $575,000 while the assemblymen passed one for $2 million, and a conference was forced.

A clause was added to the compromise providing admission for "as many qualified students as feasible." Estimates were that 3,875 students might be able to be enrolled with the money, which goes to pay the faculty needed to teach them.

NEW WATER BOND

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Californians may be asked to approve another bond issue to complete the state's massive water project, Water Resources Director William R. Gianelli said yesterday.

Gianelli told the Joint Legislative Water Committee that additional financing may be needed to finish the $2 billion project. He repeated remarks made last month that present project financing may be insufficient.

Voters approved a $1.75 billion bond issue in 1960 to pay for the project diverting northern California water to arid southern California.

Meanwhile, Sen. Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, told Norman B. Livermore, state resources agencies administrator, in a letter that the $400 million Dos Rios dam proposed for the middle fork of the Eel River in Mendocino County is "a major project of dubious economic value," and should be reviewed.

SEXUAL FREEDOM

The San Francisco Democrat, who claims his district has more homosexuals than any other in California, said the bill introduced yesterday would legalize certain homosexual acts between consenting adults in private. Such acts now are prohibited in public and private.

Brown said the bill is similar to a Model Penal Code provision in Illinois, identical to a law recently adopted in England, and under study by the California Criminal Law Review Commission.

"What I'm attempting to do is knock out the blackmail and the public condemnation, and free the cops from being peeping toms in restrooms sa they can go out and do some honest criminal investigation," he said.

ECONOMY REPORT

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Another year of steady growth is expected for California's economy, Gov. Ronald Reagan reports, but finding a job still will be tough for young people and minority group members.

In his annual economic report to legislators yesterday, the governor said his experts tell him "another year of strong growth is anticipated" for the state.

Personal income will be up 7 per cent from 1968, giving Californians an average of $4,050. That would be 12.6 per cent above the national average.

Personal income was up 8.4 per cent last year, but Reagan noted the federal income tax surcharge and inflation cut sharply into disposable income.

For businessmen, he had this word: "Business activity in California last year far exceeded expectations."

Although the jobless rate dropped to 4.1 per cent late in 1968, the governor said, it appears the percentage will rise back to 4.8 per cent this year.

That is about 399,000 persons out of a civilian labor force of 8.33 million.

Reagan also reported that the population increase last year was the lowest in 18 years, continuing a downswing first noted in 1963.

The 1968 rise was 304,000 residents.

ABORTION TEST

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's abortion control law faced a major constitutional test in the State Supreme Court today.

The court gathered in Sacramento to hear arguments on the appeal of Dr. Leon Belous of Beverly Hills, convicted in 1966 and fined $5,000 on a charge of conspiring to commit abortion. The conviction later was upheld by the District Court of Appeal.

The state's century-old law was liberalized in 1967. However, attorneys who filed written arguments on behalf of a group of doctors and medical school officials said that only made the statute more confusing and ambigous.

One hundred seventy-seven physicians and health officials joined in the brief as "friends of the court."

PRAISE DENIED

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A routine resolution commending former Veteran Affairs director James E. Johnson was rejected by the Assembly yesterday in an action unprecedented in the memory of veteran legislators.

Johnson resigned from the Reagan Administration post to accept an appointment to the U.S. Civil Service commission.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, charged "actions taken primarily by Mr. Johnson" had "broken faith with millions of California veterans."

The resolution by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, was defeated on a 28-2 vote with 41 votes required for adoption. No Democrats voted in favor of the measure. Their position was decided in a caucus last week.

Citizens Condemn Old Rec Center Moving

Parks and Recreation Commissioner Richard J. Young, outspoken foe of the city's proposal to move the existing community recreation center to a new, but temporary, location, said a new building would cost the city only $64,500. City staff has estimated moving the old building will cost $45,000.

He noted the new building, approximately 3,600 square feet, could be built in modules so it can be easily moved if Young's proposed site at the end of Sycamore Avenue on the edge of the future yacht harbor is deemed inappropriate in future years.

The council voted last month to move the existing recreation center from its present location in Project 17 to a site adjacent to the Southern Marin Horseman's Association horse ring on East Blithedale Avenue.

The council directed city staff to study Young's cost figures and to report back at its March 17 meeting.

In a related action, the council approved the terms of a proposed five-year lease agreement with the school district for the horse ring site, adding the stipulation that school district must give six months notice to the city to move the building after the initial five years has expired.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

MONEY — Heard the city has an unallocated reserve of $71,966 as of yesterday.

BILLS — Supported proposed state legislation to: Control the sale of pornographic material to minors; define citys' rights when ordinances have been preempted by state legislation; permit cities to spend cigarette taxes and motor vehicle license revenues on local projects; and provide for reimbursement by the state to cities which have provided police to control disorders on campuses.

TITLE SEARCH — Adopted a policy requiring a title search whenever a fee title or easement is given to the city by a property owner and requiring the property owner to pay for the title search if the gift of land to the city will benefit him.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Charles P. Guichard from the Mill Valley Human Rights Commission. Guichard resigned because of the press of business.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS — Approved resolutions appointing special bond counsels and authorizing staff to proceed with special assessment proceedings for construction of a sewer on Una Way.

Bottle Drive Set

The San Geronimo Valley 4-H Club will hold a valley-wide bottle drive Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m. Proceeds will be used for club projects and uniforms.

Injuries Are Minor As Car Hits Creek

Geoffrey C. Jones, 20, of 73 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley, was treated for a scraped forehead today at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital after his car overturned in a shallow creek at 12:05 a.m. on Bel Marin Keys Drive, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Jones told the highway ptarol he had a coughing attack and lost control of the car as it reached a curve.

Council Kills Candidate's District Ideas

The Petaluma City Council last night refused to consider as an ordinance council candidate Donald P. Petro's proposal that councilmen, now chosen at large, be elected by district.

City Clerk Lillian Nomsen had notified the council of Petro's plans to circulate a petition to place a charter amendment on the June 10 ballot.

Petro told the council he could gather 1,234 signatures of voters who cast ballots in the previous general election. Hoping the council would agree with his plan to divide the city into six council districts, Petro asked that it consider the measure as an ordinance to by-pass the petitioning.

Councilman Phillip L. Joerger, who is seeking re-election, joined other councilmen in refusing his request. "This is for the people to decide if it should be on the ballot," he said.

Petro told the council that the districting would bring the government closer to the people and is badly needed in the fast-growing city.

The seventh council seat, that of mayor, would continue to be filled on an at-large basis.

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert, in a memorandum to the council, called the proposed amendment "seriously defective" and said, "it may well present more problems than it solves."

"Under the one-man, one-vote principle, I would predict the city would have problems with the districting as proposed for the reason that the population in these districts will not remain static," Robert said.

Noting the amendment makes no allowances for future annexations, the attorney said, "As the city grows it would be faced with a series of charter elections to equalize the population."

"It's entirely possible that litigation would be necessary if the amendment passes to determine the full force, meaning and effect of the amendment," Robert said.

Bedroom Tax Delayed For Parks Study

The proposed Petaluma "bedroom tax" to provide funds for park development will require a more thorough review of park plans before its enactment, the council decided last night.

The proposed ordinance would charge builders a maximum of $80 for each three-bedroom home, or allow developers to dedicate portions of subdivisions for neighborhood parks instead.

"What we're really talking about is a pay-as-you-go neighborhood park system which seems realistic, but maybe we should consider charging $200 or $300 or $400 per home — it might be worth it to the homeowner," Councilman Robert S. Lipman said. He said the increased tax might provide funds for larger and more improved parks.

The council agreed with Mayor Helen Putnam that more time would be needed to study a larger park plan and set a study session for tomorrow at 4:30 p.m.

The Petaluma City Council also:

BRIDGE — Heard a report from engineer David Young that the council must award a bid for construction of the new Washington Street Bridge by March 20. Mayor Putnam said she visited Rep. Donald H. Clausen, R-First District, in Washington, D.C., last week and sought assistance from him in speeding Coast Guard approval for the bridge. The Coast Guard must agree to halt navigation on the Petaluma River at the bridge.

IMPROVEMENTS — Approved a resolution saying the council is giving consideration to a capital improvement program for the June 10 ballot.

TRAILERS — Adopted an ordinance to allow temporary use of trailers as offices for subdivisions.

INCREASE — Refused request for increased payment to Dames and Moore for engineering fees for design of an access road and the Petaluma boat launching facility, south of the city near Petrolaum Avenue. The company had requested more than the contracted price because of increased costs in personnel.

Probation Is Given For Drug Possession

Catherine Ann Nesbitt, 27, of s Sausalito, has been placed on one-year probation and given a suspended 30-day jail sentence for possession of marijuana. Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court also reduced the charge to a misdemeanor .

Miss Nesbitt pleaded guilty to having a bag of marijuana in her purse March 22 in Sausalito.

LIKE FATHER HE GREW A MUSTACHE

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — For two weeks David Stark Jr. has missed his classes at Palmer Junior High School because school officials insist that he shave a sprouting mustache.

The school principal, Dr. Leslie Carnine, says the 15-year-old boy "defied the standard philosophy at the school by not going along with the regulations," which ban growth of facial hair ornaments.

"Another freedom down the drain," said the boy's father, 31, who has worn a mustache himself since he was 16.

Mill Valley Council Kills College Plea

A resolution calling on the State College Board of Trustees, San Francisco State College administrators and the Third World Liberation Front to negotiate their differences was narrowly defeated last night by the Mill Valley City Council.

Fate of the seemingly noncontroversial resolution was undetermined during the 45-minute debate with Mayor Dean N. Meyer and Councilman Roderic L. Robinson supporting the measure and Councilman George Wickham and Robert H. Andresen opposing it.

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke, silent during the long discussion, cast the deciding no vote, saying he believed a vote for the resolution would be a "Vote of no confidence" in S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of the strike-torn college.

The resolution, submitted to the council by the city's human rights commission and amended slightly by Robinson, simply said the council urges the college board, the administration and striking Third World Liberation Front students "to hold discussions and resolve their differences over the 15 demands at issue at San Francisco State College."

The council did not debate its authority to take a position but instead whether the proposed resolution would be interpreted as an affront to Hayakawa.

Andresen said he refused to urge negotiations "in the present climate of violence." He also said he "migh be willing to vote" for the resolution under different circumstances but not when the administration has been "blackmailed into it (negotiations) by violence."

"I refuse to play the part of a Monday night quarterback to Hayakawa," Andresen said. "The man has a difficult enough problem without us entering into it. This resolution is inappropriate and unnecessary."

Robinson argued that the resolution couldn't be considered an affront to anyone involved in the strike or an act of taking sides since it merely asked everyone involved to negotiate, something the administration has said previously it is will to do.

Prison Staffer Sent To Prison

SAN LUIS OBISPO (AP) — A woman psychiatric technician at Atascadero State Hospital has been sentenced to 1 to 5 years in prison for her role in the escape of three male inmates.

Virginia J. Vose, 49, was sentenced yesterday after she pleaded guilty to a charge of harboring one of the escapees.

A grand jury indicted Mrs. Vose last November on five counts of aiding and abetting the escape, including smuggling a gun to the prisoners, but the other counts were dismissed.

The escapees were captured within a month. They are Robert Higuera, 26, George Quinlan, 24, and Robert Gallant, 24, all of the Los Angeles area.

Standard Oil's Workers Return

RICHMOND (AP) — Some 1,300 oil workers returned to their jobs at the Standard Oil Co. refinery today, ending a two-month strike after overwhelming approval of a new two-year contract.

Members of Local 1561 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCAW) voted approval of the new pact yesterday, ending the strike which began Jan. 4.

National OCAW headquarters in Denver also approved the new contract, which provides for an immediate 6 per cent pay raise and an additional 4.5 per cent next Jan. 1.

Foundation Seeking $30,000 For Loans

The College of Marin Foundation seeks $30,000 in its current drive for funds to provide student loans and scholarships, campaign manager J. Galen Foster said today.

Of the $30,000, there is $10,000 slated for emergency loans which are limited to $50 each. Last year the fund supplied about 2,000 such loans, the smallest about $10, the highest $50.

The rest of the $30,000 would be divided $15,000 for scholarships and $5,000 to match the National Defense Student loan of $35,000.

Last year the foundation aided 24 students who were awarded $8,000 in scholarships, the largest $800.

Short term loans are for necessitites such as books, supplies, transportation, rent and food. Such loans must be paid back at the end of the semester in which they are borrowed.

The $35,000 received from the federal government is used for long-term loans. These loans are up to $1,000 a year and must be repaid one year after the student is no longer a full-time student. About 50 such loans were made last year.

National Defense Student loan funds are now either exhausted or committed, according to Foster, so the present account is empty. The current fund drive is for the 1969-70 school year.

How does one know if the scholarships go to deserving students?

All College of Marin students are eligible to apply for loans or scholarships. But some scholarships stipulate that they must be given on the basis of need, grade, major, sex or race.

Foster, of San Rafael, said that the applications are carefully screened by two committees.

The student first fills out a long form which is reviewed by the college committee including the college president, the dean of students, some faculty members and Charles F. Herndon, college financial aid officer.

Such facts are determined as parents' income, number of brothers and sisters, and the student's scholastic achievement. The student does not need a certain grade point average but his grades are checked to see how well he is doing in his major.

Applicants are then interviewed by Herndon.

The college committee selects the most likely candidates and then the application goes before a lay committee of foundation members who make final approval. If this committee wishes, it may question the applicant.

There has been less than one per cent loss in loans in the five years of operation, Foster said.

The foundation raised $12,500 the year it began in 1964; it raised $16,000 in 1965-66; $24,000 in 1966-67; $13,000 in 1967-68.

Other Marin residents working on the campaign include Philip Merriman of Lucas Valley, special gifts committee; and Edwin Johnson and Don L. Johnson, business firm committee.

The drive ends March 15.

Students Face Bomb Charges

SAN MATEO (AP) — Two members of the Third World Liberation Front are charged today in connection with bombings and attempted bombings at the College of San Mateo.

Ralph Ruiz, 28, and Isidro Gali, 29, are charged with conspiracy to manufacture bombs and illegal transportation of explosives.

There were bombings and attempted bombings after a student rampage damaged the campus Dec. 13.

A federal court judge rejected Gali's appeal for an injunction to prevent the college from expelling him after the rampage.

Innocent Pleas To Kidnapping

Daniel Thomas Stathos and Kenneth Lee Kenneth Lee Kenneth Lee Harnal, both 22, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of robbing and kidnaping restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella.

Stathos also pleaded innocent to robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in Larkspur on Oct. 28.

Attorneys for the two men indicated they will ask that the two be tried separately. Stathos' attorney did not give a reason today for wanting a severance, but said he would file a motion.

A third defendant in the Sabella case, Walter John Hoefler, 26, pleased guilty to lesser charges and was sentenced to a state prison term to run concurrently with one received from a robbery conviction in Sonoma County.

The preliminary hearing for Stathos and Harnal in Marin Municipal Court was closed to the public, and Judge Haley today ordered that the transcript of the hearing remain sealed until March 24.

$1.5 Million Suits Filed In Airliner Crash

CHICAGO (AP) — Two $1.5-million damage suits have been filed against United Air Lines on behalf of families of two persons killed in the Jan. 18 crash of a United jetliner into the Pacific Ocean near Los Angele.

The Boeing 727 crashed minutes after taking off from Los Angeles International Airport, killing all 38 aboard. Both suits contend United was negligent in operating the airliner, alleging a generator in one engine was known to be defective before takeoff.

One of the suits filed Monday was for Patricia Ann Wilhelm and her two children, asking damages for the death of her husband, John, 27, a University of Denver law student. The other suit seeks damages for the widow and child of George Dolinski, 47, a Milwaukee engineer.

Curtis President Resigns, To Keep His Directorship

NEW YORK (AP) — Directors of Curtis Publishing Co. have accepted the resignation of company president Martin S. Ackerman, who made the decision to stop publishing the Saturday Evening Post.

Ackerman, 36, attended the meeting yesterday as the board accepted his withdrawal from the unsalaried post with "reluctance and regret."

The board rejected Ackerman's resignation last week. Ackerman, who held the presidency since last April 22, will remain as company director.

G. B. McCombs, 60, Curtis executive vice president associated with the company for 39 years, was elected president and chief executive officer.

The directors praised Ackerman for "an outstanding job" and expressed understanding for "his personal reason for desiring to have the company managed by someone who would have the support of the Curtis trustees."

Ackerman has been charged in three separate lawsuits by trustees of the Cyrus H.K. Curtis estate with alleged mismanagement of Curtis funds.

After the board meeting, Ackerman said he would move to accelerate the trustees' suits against him in order to clear his name.

Corte Madera Worries Over Traffic Proposal

Traffic on Corte Madera Avenue in Corte Madera would increase to more than 350 cars per hour if Mill Valley's Northridge plan is approved.

This warning was given the Corte Madera Town Council last night in a letter from J. Fred Walker, Corte Madera Avenue Homeowners Association president.

Another board member, Sheldon Schwebel, termed the proposed funneling of traffic a "tremendous burden" on the avenue.

Schwebel said proposed roads along Corte Madera and Warner Ridges could permit cars to exit into Corte Madera from Madrone Woodlands, Kent Woodlands and Mill Valley's West Blithedale Avenue.

No action was taken by the council but property owners were invited to take a field trip Saturday with the town planning commission over the proposed route, now a fire trail. Commissioners will meet at 9:30 a.m. at the O'Connor Road fire trail, Mayor Edward W. Colthurst announced.

The planning commission will also meet on the subject next Tuesday at 8 p.m. with Mill Valley planning commissioners in the Mill Valley City Hall.

"This (the proposed road plan) is like Terra Linda is to Sleepy Hollow," commented Councilman Harold Wagstaff, "but nobody is going to make that move."

"Mill Valley ran into a lot of static," the mayor said. "So they looked up and said, 'we've got an existing road and let's run the trains into that shed'."

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

EUCALYPTUS TREES — Discussed removal or topping of five eucalyptus trees on the town's Sausalito Street right-of-way, then assigned the problem to Councilmen H. S. Norville and Robert P. Simmons, the Public Works Committee, for a report.

SOLICITORS ORDINANCE — Decided to examine Marin County's solicitor's permit and the Larkspur solicitor's ordinance before creating one for the town. Corte Madera now uses the county's permit plus a police chief clearance.

AUTO SERVICE — Adopted an ordinance amending the zoning ordinance to make auto service stations a conditional use in all commercial zones.

SANITARY COMMISSION — Adopted an ordinance establishing a sanitary commission for Corte Madera Sanitary District, a subsidiary district of the town and approved the concept of an agreement to use the engineering services of Brown and Caldwell, San Francisco, for the Sanitary Commission.

SIGNAL LIGHT STUDY — Noted a letter from Ian K. McDougall, 39 Alta Way, objecting to paying $2,000 for traffic light consultation when the Corte Madera has a town engineer and director of public works.

FOURTH OF JULY — Authorized $750 to support the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July Celebration.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Wendell R. Wilkin from the park and recreation commission, Wilkin saying he has taken a teaching position at the University of California which will conflict with meeting dates.

SAN CLEMENTE DRIVE — Voted 4-1, Councilman Simmons voting "no," to award a $76,740 contract to low bidder Bresnan-Dalecio Co. of San Rafael to pave San Clemente Drive and install a guard rail along the road.

CITY-COUNTY — Acknowledged receipt of a "City-County Services Inequity" report from the City of Mill Valley, Mayor Colthurst saying, "we'll follow through on presentation to the necessary parties."

FIRE CHIEF — Authorized $113 for Fire Chief Frank L. Nelson to attend the California Fire Chief's Association Conference, May 20-23 in Arcade, Los Angeles County.

ANNUAL MEETING — Set March 20 for the annual dinner meeting with the town's commissions and boards. Place and time were not set.

SPRING PICK-UP — Heard that the Mill Valley Refuse Service will make its annual pick-up service April 21-28.

Colleges Merger Is Seen By '70

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — President Nathan M. Pusey of Harvard said yesterday he hopes Harvard and Radcliffe can be merged by 1970.

Radcliffe now is separately administered, but its girl students attend classes conducted by the Harvard faculty.

Pusey, in a letter to Mary I. Bunting, president of Radcliffe, said the Harvard Corp. met yesterday and discussed the proposed merger at length.

Pusey mentioned as problems the extra costs Harvard will incur, legal restrictions governing ownership, administration and use of existing university funds and property, and the integration of admissions programs and procedures.

Sentencing Date Set For Burglary

Sentencing for two young soldiers from the Presidio of San Francisco, who have pleaded guilty to a burglary in the Panoramic Highway area, has been set for March 31 in Marin Superior Court.

David Ross Taylor, 20, and Donald Lee Ferrell, 18, also pleaded guilty to a charge of joyriding. They were arrested Feb. 17 after an intensive stakeout of the Panoramic Highway area by sheriff's officers.

Dick Hart Calls Redwood His 'Best Team Ever'

By GARY TISCHLER

This is a team with all the creditentials, all the class, all the potential.

This is Redwood High School's championship basketball team, young, brawling, fast and polished, a team that after a shocking season-opening setback, swept to the Marin County Athletic League title through a whirlwind 13-game win streak.

This is Marin's 1969 entry in the tournament that separates the glitter from the class — the 1969 Tournament of Champions, to be held in the Oakland Coliseum Thursday through Saturday.

Redwood 1969 may be the league's best ever entry but to do any good the Giants will have to knock off the tournament favorite in the first round and that will take nothing but class.

The Giants face Castlemont of Oakland Athletic League in the first round at 6 p.m., the champions of a league that has almost called the TOC its own prized possession.

The Giants certainly have the credentials and the statistics — a 23-4 record, best ever since the founding of the MCAL; 13 straight wins; a 74-point scoring average in league play, tops in its history; 46 per cent shooting accuracy from the floor; reasonable height, and flagrant competitiveness.

But statistics aren't enough in this tournament, where some pretty good reputations have been built and blasted under the toughest competition around.

"This is the best team I've ever had here," Redwood coach Dick Hart said. "They're better than the other two TOC teams I've had in 1961 and 1965. It may be the best team the league has had."

The Giants have a strong bench, which they may well need.

Here's a look at the top nine players.

Jerry Piro, 6-foot 3-inch forward, only a junior, one of the top players to come out of this league. Good shooter, solid and fierce, a leader and team player, 19-point league scoring average, shooting 51 per cent in league play, top rebounder on the club, can play anywhere, hungry competitor, honor roll student, the boy whom many rival coaches have put on their "I wish I had him" list.

John Boro, No. 2 scorer on the club, a streak shooter, who, when's he's on, can tear a game apart, 12 point avaerage in league, only a junior, vastly improved from "B" play where he was only part-time starter, gutsy defensive player.

Skip Corsini, 5-9, a senior and the team's floor leader, fiery competitor, scores little, but in timely spots, good shooter, excellent ball-handler, leads team in assists.

Jim Peters, 6-3 senior, called Hondo by teammates, the club's money player, not a basketball natural, but a natural athlete, likes it rough underneath, draws best tall opponent on defense, can shoot when he needs to, 11-point average, second-best rebounder, tough in clutch.

Roger Smith, sixth man on the club, carries 11-point scoring average, excellent shooter, missed several games due to injuries, brother of ex-Redwood star Russ Smith.

Bill Challender and Pete Webb, alternate in pivot, both 6-6, Challender an exceptionally smooth sophomore, strong, built solid, needs more experience; Webb, a senior transfer who joined club midway through league season, tough under boards, 90 rebounds in seven games, fouls often but makes up for it in aggressiveness.

Art Carewe, spot sub, quickest gun on the team, shoots fast and accurately, can come off bench with timely bucket from long range, smallish but fast, a senior.

Hart, whose teams were walloped four times in two previous TOC trips against good teams, has reason to feel he can do better.

"By rights, they'll be underdogs in this one," Hart said. "We know we're playing the favorite. But just maybe everybody will think they'll lose but them. That's the way it's been all along."

Giddings Makes His Writing Debut Today

JIM SHORTS:

After you finish devouring the goodies on this sheet you are directed to page 31 for an extra special dessert.

It is Al Giddings' debut as the I-J's fish and game columnist. Yes, it is the very same Alfred F. Giddings of Woodacre, the veteran warden for the Department of Fish and Game and the only warden I know who can wear a press card in his Smokey the Bear hat. His litterary efforts will appear on these pages at least twice a week.

Well, since you obviously can't wait, please come back after you've finished Al's first column. Thank you.

SINCE THE NEW Sears Point International Raceway will have only portable anny-cays for the first couple of events this month, that little gas station-lunch counter directly across from the Sonoma County track on Highway 121 can expect land office business. And, with water rates what they are, the roadside place could be flushed right out of business.

Half Of Great Football Act

SPEAKING OF the Sears Point racing complex, the track superintendent if Pat Flagerman of San Anselmo, one half of the Flagerman Brothers who starred in football at Tam High and Marin Junior College nearly three decades ago. After their J.C. days, Pat's brudder Jack went on to star at St. Mary's College and later played for the Los Angeles Dons of the defunct All-America Conference.

It's good to see Pat's name back in local sports and how appropriate for an auto race track superintendent to be named Flagerman, checkered or otherwise.

JIM WILHELM, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Wilhelm of Kentfield, just completed an outstanding basketball season at Bellarmine High in San Jose, highlighted by his selection on the All-West Catholic Athletic League team.

A graduate of Ross Grammar School and Little League and Babe Ruth baseball programs in the Kentfield area, Jim had the sharpest eye in the WCAL, leading in field goal percentages with .573 (47 for 82), was fourth leading scorer with 136 points in 10 games, sixth leading rebounder with 85 and sixth most accurate foul shooter with a .689 per cent.

And He's Also An A Student

Jim also plays first base for the Bells baseballers and is a pretty fair country hitter in the Gray Matter League where he's batting "A."

DISC JOCKEY Johnny Holliday of Tiburon, who directs the Radio KYA Oneders basketball team that plays charity games for high schools throughout Northern California, reports: "So far this year we have raised $34,300 for 30 schools. We would like to have a rematch with the Redwood High School faculty for a real worthwhile Marin County charity. We may challenge Redwood if they'll promise to use only their own faculty members this time."

He was referring to the December game in which Redwood, using a couple of red-hot ringers, handed KYA its only loss this season.

S.F. Rookies To Play In Exhibition Opener

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP)—Manager Clyde King of San Francisco announced today the pitchers who will head his all-rookie team for the Giants' opening Cactus League game against the Chicago Cubs Friday at Scottsdale.

They are righthanders Hal Jjeffcoat and Joe Costello, with southpaw Mike Davison slated for the middle three innings.

Meantime, Vice President Chub Feeney expected to discuss contract terms with slugging first baseman Willie McCovey, and looked forward to greeting unsigned pitching star Juan Marichal tomorrow.

Marichal was 26-9 last year.

McCovey expects a pay hike from $60,000 to perhaps $75,000 after having led the National League last year in homers with 36 and runs batted in, 105.

McCovey arrived yesterday, a trim 215 pounds, and socked the ball over the 410-foot centerfield fence his first time at bat.

Lacrosse Teams May Be Formed

The possibility of forming lacrosse teams under the joint sponsorship of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department and the Marin Lacrosse Club will be discussed at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the city recreation center, Second and Brooks streets.

The meeting, for junior and senior high school age boys, will include a description and films on lacrosse.

$424,000 IN ONE DAY

Cards Restore Harmony

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The St. Louis Cardinals restored harmony in their player ranks yesterday at the highest one-day price in baseball history—a cool $424,000.

The price, give or take cigarette money, enabled the Cardinals to sign pitchers Bob Gibson, Nelson Briles and Ray Washburn, outfielders Curt Flood and Lou Brock and third baseman Mike Shannon and left Dal Maxvill and Julian Javier as the only unsigned members of the National League champions.

CLUB RECORD

Gibson, the N.L.'s Most Valuable Player in 1968 when he had a 22-9 record, 13 shutouts and a 1.12 earned run average, agreed to a club record $125,000. Gibson thus topped Hall of Famer Stan Musial, the man with whom he negotiated, as the highest-paid Cardinal in history.

The remaining $300,000 peace package was divided as follows: $88,000 for Flood, $87,000 for Brock, $52,000 for Shannon, $38,000 fr Briles and $35,000 for Washburn. Still remaining to be signed are Javier and Maxvill, with the former believed asking for $70,000 and the latter $65,000.

The world champion Detroit Tigers, meanwhile, were continuing to find that Willie Horton is as tough at negotiating a six-figure contract as he was in the clutch at the plate last season. Horton, who hit 36 homers and batted 285, is negotiating through an attorney and General Manager Jim Campbell said yesterday he was "unsure of the status of the talks."

Horton is the only member of the world champions who hasn't agreed to terms.

The Los Angeles Dodgers also continued to have contract problems despite the fact that Ted Savage signed and Bill Singer agreed to terms. Still unsigned are Don Drysdale, Claude Osteen, Paul Popovich, Ken Boyer, Ron Fairly and Len Gabrielson.

SATISFIED

On other fronts: Manager Ted Williams said he is satisfied with the attitude of the Washington Senators and commented, "I would expect that because they know they're being handled like men."...Four-time N.L. batting champion Roberto Clemente worked out with the Pittsburgh Pirates for the first time this spring and Matty Alou, the only Pirate not in camp, is scheduled to arrive at Bradenton, Fla., within a few days.

Making up the six-player first team were Tom Marker and Greg Pedlar of Redwood, Bill Donellan and Jack Stahl of Marin Catholic, Larry Maroney of Drake and Dan Meredith of San Rafael. Second team choices were Bob Piper and Terry Dorai of Redwood, Terry Cole and Sean Manion of Marin Catholic, and Steve Holshevnikoff of Novato.

Monday, Jackson Hold Out

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—Rick Monday where are you? The Oakland Athletics, particularly owner Charles O. Finley, would like to have a few words with you.

Monday, the one-time $104,000 bonus baby, was unaccounted for as the A's opened their first full week of spring training at this Arizona spa.

However, he isn't the only unsigned Oakland player. Reggie Jackson, Monday's teammate at Arizona State, also remained dissatisfied with the terms offered by owner Finley.

"I would like to sign but I don't think he (Finley) is going to come up any more," Jackson said yesterday from his Tempe home. "They've made their final offer and that's fine. I have my own opinion of what I'm worth."

Jackson said he might turn to teaching and selling real estate.

Alcindor Heads UPI List

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lew Alcindor, who has known defeat only one time during his collegiate career at UCLA, and Olympic hero Spencer Haywood of Detroit today were named to the United Press International All-America basketball team.

For Alcindor, the 7-foot, 1½-inch senior, the near-unanimous selection marked him as only the fourth player ever to gain first team recognition three consecutive years. Haywood, a sophomore, was virtually unknown on a national level until he led the United States team to victory in the Mexico City Olympics.

OLYMPIC CHAMPS

The UPI first team is completed by a trio of juniors—Pete Maravich of Louisiana State, Rick Mount of Purdue and Calvin Murphy of Niagara. Both Maravich and Murphy are repeaters on the honor team while Mount was a second-team selection last year.

Charlie Scott of North Carolina and Jo Jo White of Kansas, two of Haywood's teammates on the victorious Olympic team, were named to the second UPI team along with Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure, Mike Maloy of Davidson and Bud Ogden of Santa Clara.

Selected to the third team were Dan Issel of Kentucky, Neal Walk of Florida, Howard Porter of Villanova, Butch Beard of Louisville and Jim McMillian of Columbia.

PREP ALL-LEAGUE

Redwood, Novato Dominate Team

To the surprise of no one, champion Redwood High School and runnerup Novato High dominated the selections for the 1969 All-Marin County Athletic League basketball team, picked by league coaches last night.

Novato's dynamic scoring punch of seniors Steve McNally and Ed Herrnberger, Redwood's all-around sleek junior Jerry Piro, and Terra Linda standout Pat Purcell were unanimous choices for first team honors. Also selected for the first team was Redwood's Jim Peters.

BORO

Redwood's streak-shooting guard John Boro headed second-team selections, along with Marin Catholic's classy Mike Murray, high-scoring Clark Jamison of Drake, San Rafael pivot man Ray Taylor and Terra Linda's Mike Timmel.

Something of a surprise was the relegation to honorable mention of San Marin's one-man show Gary Howard, third-best scorer in league play.

THREE EACH

The selections gave Redwood and Novato four of the five first-team spots and another on the second team. Terra Linda, however, tied Redwood in number of players receiving some kind of honors, with three.

McNally, the only repeater from last year's first team, and Herrnberger, both seniors, finished one-two in the league' scoring statistics, with McNally on top with a 20.1 average. (Statistics on page 31.) The pair was the hub of Novato's highly explosive offense.

Purcell at one point led the league in scoring, and was Terra Linda's key man, scoring-wise.

Peters was second in rebounding on Redwood's title team, a valuable defensive man who still managed to average in double figures.

Goalie Kirk Gray and Greg Myers of Redwood were unanimous picks. Ken Levin of Redwood also landed on the first team, along with Bill Kuhn of Novato, Dave Newman and Kit Thomas of Terra Linda and Mike Gibson of Tamalpais.

O. J. Simpson Is Joining Football's Foreign Legion

They feted O. J. Simpson at the Friars Club the other day. He's going to join the Foreign Legion of Football.

Oh, I like Buffalo all right. I spent a summer there in 1941. It didn't snow much.

It's the one place in the East where you can sleep under covers all summer long. In fact, you better. In the summer, people peel clear down to their overcoats.

THEY DON'T have mudslides in Buffalo, just avalanches. I tried to go back in winter once but I couldn't find it. It's a tough town. The most popular sports are shuffleboard, bowling — and shivering. It's a town where God left the door open.

Of course, it's right close to Olean — and Machias and Franklinville and Bradford, Pa. And all the fleshpots of the Western world. If falling water is your idea of kicks, Niagara Falls is nearby. I must warn you, it looks just like the Shredded Wheat boxes.

ITS FOOTBALL team is just like it is — nothing fancy, it just breaks your bones for you. It outnosebleeds you but it doesn't outscore you. It plays its games in two feet of snow or three feet of mud. Nobody knows the names of the players, because, by the second play, you can't tell friend from foe.

Sticking O. J. Simpson in this setting is like putting the Kohinoor diamond on a charlady, putting orchids in a milk bottle, putting a tuxedo on an ape.

SUPPOSE YOU are a summa cum laude journalism student. And Dubuque drafts you? What if you are a brilliant automotive engineer? And a Juneau, Alaska, garage gets the rights to you? How about Rock Hudson restricted to a rural stock company?

It's a rule of thumb in professional sports that the athlete has to play, for best financial return, where the white heat of publicity glows the brightest. O. J. was fortunate in that he played the first act of his career in the second-best spotlight in America — Los Angeles. Now, he goes on the kerosene circuit.

A GALE SAYERS, for instance, played his collegiate career at Lawrence, Kans. As a result, his fame had spread clear to Topeka. He didn't sell many season tickets when he first came to Chicago.

O. J. Simpson, on the other hand, comes to Buffalo as Instant Success. His manager, Chuck Barnes, has sorted out 340 different requests for personal appearances currently at fees ranging up from $1,000. He is about to sign an exclusive tie-up with Chevrolet. He is, simply, the most famous football player in America, and one of the three or four most famous figures.

DOES HE now go to a monastery? Does he become just another cake of mud in the middle of Memorial Stadium in Buffalo?

Already, HE has upgraded Buffalo's image. Both the Rams and Colts have scheduled exhibition games with O. J. — pardon me, with the Buffalo Bills — next season. "The Rams could figure on, oh, maybe, 30,000 in an exhibition game with Buffalo without O. J. next year," points out Barnes. "With O. J., there could be upwards of 70,000.'

RALPH WILSON, the owner of the Buffalo Bills, who has enough money so he doesn't have to live in Buffalo, threatens to leave Buffalo with his franchise unless he gets a domed stadium. The city fathers aren't laughing any more.

At the Super Bowl, this past January, a group of Buffalo fans showed up with a sign "Buffalo: All the Way with O. J. in '69."

I ALWAYS come back to the great line in Villa-Lobos' operetta, "Magdalena," where the Parisian general in the court of Napoleon II has been banished to the banana forts of the South American interior, and attempts to persuade his mistress to leave the red-velvet luxury of France and accompany him, on the plaint they will be great lovers in the orchidaceous, moonlit jungle. "Oh, no," she says. "In Paris, great lovers. In the jungle, two monkeys!"

PLAYING IN New York, Los Angeles, Chicago has been estimated to be worth a half to three-quarter million dollars to the athlete, in outside or peripheral income. What do you endorse in Buffalo? A snow shovel? A ballbearing? An overshoe? Even if you get them a domed stadium, what does that get you? A confetti paragde down Delevan Avenue on a snowplow? A tour of the Otis Elevator Plant? Most of the country doesn't know O. J.'s right name. If he plays in Buffalo, they may forget his initials.

Doctors Rule Out Namath Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, quarterback of the world champion New York Jets, has been told that surgery on his left knee might jeopardize his American Football League career.

Dr. James A. Nicholas, the Jets' orthopedic specialist, examined Namath yesterday. He recommended that surgery was not advisable.

Namath already has had three operations on his knees, one on the left and two on the right. He has an inflamed tendon in his left knee and he has said several weeks ago another operation might be necessary.

Low Mound Hurts Giants Linzy, Perry

By JACK HANLEY

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. — Frank Linzy isn't sure yet what effect, if any, the lower pitching mound will have on his sinker ball.

"I'll find out when the exhibition games start," said the bullpen ace of the San Francisco Giants whose over-the-top fast ball has a natural sinking action. "I'm not trying to keep the ball reall low yet. After all, we are just pitching batting practice now."

Baseball's rules committee at its winter meeting lowered the pitching mound from 15 to 10 inches above the level of home plate. Five inches trims one-third of the height of the mound. An over-the-top sinker thrown from the lower height will have less action on it. And batters will be able to see the overhand pitche better now.

Larry Jansen, pitching coach of the Giants, believes the lower mound will be a handicap to over-the-top pitchers such as Gaylord Perry. When Juan Marichal uses his overhand serve he, too, will be handicapped. But the Dominican Dandy also comes out of the three-quarter and sidearm slots so he shouldn't be seriously handicapped by the rules change.

"Pitchers like Bobby Bolin who use the three-quarter delivery shouldn't be affected too much," said Jansen.

Naturally, Jansen is withholding judgment on just how much Linzy's sinker will be affected. Any opinion based on batting practice pitching is valueless. "It takes competitive conditions in actual games to give substance to any judgments," said Jansen.

Linzy is being extremely careful in these early days of spring training not to develop a sore back. "The lower mound height will tend to restrict my normal follow through and that could put undue strain on my back," said Linzy.

It would be ironical, indeed, if Linzy became a victim of the lower mound because a hign mound in San Diego almost ended his career in 1963. He wrenched his lower back and tore the hamstring muscle of his left leg in a fall off the mound.

When Linzy became the star of the Giants' bullpen in 1965, he still was suffering from the back damage caused by the accident. It wasn't until 1967 that he was entirely free of pain.

"I couldn't run without pain until the spring of 1967," Linzy recalled.

So it is no wonder that Linzy now is being very, very careful in adjusting his stride to the lower mound conditions.

Linzy's artistry is most important to the Giants for whom he has won 32 games and saved 50 others in relief roles during the last four seasons.

Linzy finished the 1968 season with a string of 10 scoreless innings in the final two weeks of September. During the last six weeks of the season he allowed only one run in 33 innings. Linzy's lifetime ERA for his four major league campaigns from 1965 through 1968 is 2.15.

Only twice in 57 relief roles last year did he give up more than one earned run in an appearance.

Riots Follow S.F. Prep Cage Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Emotion-charged fans engaged in fist fights and window-breaking violence yesterday after a championship high school basketball game at Kezar Pavilion.

The police Tactical Squad was summoned to quell the disturbance on the eastern fringes of Golden Gate Park and the Haight-Ashbury District following Sacred Heart's 61-52 thumping of Woodrow Wilson for the city title and a trip to the Tournament of Champions starting Thursday.

A dozen persons, including four adults and eight youths, were arrested and booked on charges of disturbing the peace, battery on a police officer and resisting arrest.

Tempers flared inside the pavilion and several fist fights erupted in the parking lot after the game. Teachers and a half dozen police officers tried unsuccessfully to separate the combatants.

While order was being restored, some youths dashed down nearby Haight and Waller streets, smashing store windows with rocks and bottles. Some looting was reported.

The manager of a drive-in restaurant across the street from the pavilion said youths shattered several large windows, grabbed food and even tried to make off with the cash register.

Seals Again Ship Hodge To Minors

OAKLAND (UPI) — For the second time in less than a month, the Oakland Seals have shipped goaltender Charlie Hodge to Vancouver of the Western Hockey League.

The latest move, which came about yesterday, leaves Oakland, second in the National Hockey League Western Division, with two goalies — Gary Smith and rookie Chris Worthy.

Hodge was drafted from Montreal in the expansion draft two years ago.

COLLEGE OF MARIN SPORTS

Riemcke To Head Clinic In Fresno Cage Tourney

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Although College of Marin's basketball team didn't make it to the state tournament at Fresno City College, Cal Riemcke, the Tars' veteran coach, is playing an important part in the affair.

Cal is president of the California Junior College Basketball Coaches Association and chairman of the playoffs committee. He'll be in Fresno all week. In addition to the tourney which starts Thursday, he is heading a clinic of J. C. coaches tomorrow.

It's bad enough Cal's team didn't get to the all-state tourney, there isn't even a representative from the Camino Norte Conference. Champ Contra Costa, which swept through the CNC without a loss, fell to City College of San Francisco in a playoff for a tournament berth, 68-56, last Saturday.

MARIN'S TENNIS team was to open its season today in Hayward against Chabot College. First Camino Norte match will be March 17 at Vallejo against Solano College.

It's a new team for Marin, with only Dan Matin back from last year's team. He was the No. 2 man for the Tar netters.

INEXPERIENCE is also the key word for the Marin golf team, with only one returnee off the 1968 squad. But he's a big one, Val Sabuco, No. 1 man last year. The Tars lost their first match of the season, 4-1 to Napa last month.

Marin golfers were to take on DeAnza Junior College today at Los Altos Golf Club in the first conference match of the season. Friday will be a big test, as the Tars will be taking on West Valley J. C. C. of Campbell on the San Geronimo National links. West Valley won the championship of the Coast Conference last year before the junior college realignement put them in the new Camino Norte Conference.

MARIN'S TRACK and field team is getting in some cross country practice just getting to the practice field. Without a field of its own, the team treks from its Kentfield campus to Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley. The Tars practice after Tam High finished up.

Bailey is high on sophomore George Stuart who has been clocked in 1:54.6 during an 880 leg of a distance relay. "He's one of the best middle distance runners in the conference," says Tony, adding he'll be used in half mile, mile, and even two mile events.

Other standouts for Marin should include soph John Rowe who put the shot 47 feet, 5 inches last year and is expected to pass 50 feet this season. There's also freshman Bill Beal from Campbell High who is the team's Mr. Versatile, including pole vault, 220, discus. Paul Vanderbilt from San Rafael High is another 13-foot vaulter for the Tars.

In speaking about the conference, Bailey says it's a tough one. Contra Costa, he reminds, won the Golden Gate Conference track title last year against San Jose and City College of S. F.

IT WAS a rough season for Sonoma State College's basketball team, but things should be different in baseball, say Sonoma State Cossack followers.

According to Ed Rudloff, sports publicity director at Sonoma State, the team "is by far the strongest in Cossack history."

Rick Barry Is Resting After Surgery On Knee

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rick Barry is recuperating from a knee operation in a UCLA Medical Center hospital bed today but he still leads the American Basketball Association in scoring.

Barry, superstar of the Oakland Oaks, underwent what was termed "uneventful" surgery yesterday on his left knee to remove cartiliage. The operation was performed by Dr. Martin E. Blazina, physician for many UCLA athletic teams.

In the latest statistics, Barry leads in the ABA scoring race with a 34.0 point per game average. Ironically, his nearest competitor is Connie Hawkins of the Minnesota Pipers, who also is out for the season with a knee injury. Hawkins had a 33.4 mark when he underwent an operation.

Barry joined the Oaks this season after sitting out last year to gain freedom from the National Basketball Association San Francisco Warriors.

Sausalito Salmon Fleet Hits Jackpot Of Limits

Though the new two-fish limit went into effect Saturday, nice weather and a good school of salmon that seemed to stretch from the Slide Ranch area to Duxbury Reef near Bolinas rewarded anxious fishermen with limits all around. Game wardens checking the anglers as they returned to Sausalito reported that 64 fishermen checked in with 64 limits!!

Most fish weighed from five to eight pounds, with a few larger ones reported lost, which is par for the course when listening to the tales of the big ones that always get away. Most of the boats were on the way home by 11 a.m. The ocean was reported calm and everyone was happy.

IF YOU like perch fishing, it looked like every kid in town had a string of perch tied up in the pier area of Sausalito over the weekend. The adults were in there pitching, too, especially at the Lime Point pier. Lots of perch and some flounders.

I CHECKED 50 persons digging for cockles at Duxbury Reef Saturday and found they averaged only eight cockles per person.

STRIPED BASS fishing in Tomales Bay is fair — but rugged!

I tried it with a friend of mine on a day off last week and, from his point of view, fishing was great. He used pile worms while I used shrimp. We fished in about three feet of water near Inverness and started on low tide about 4 p.m., planning to fish until 9 p.m. when things get dark and cold. (Night fishing is legal at Tomales Bay, but it is difficult to get boats launched at night.)

Anyway, my friend, with his new bait (I'd never seen pile worms tried for stripers), wanted to make some bets with me. As I was using shrimp I thought I had it made until we quit at 9 p.m. and compared catches. He had two fish in the boat weighing 20 and 18 pounds, returned two undersized bass to the water, not to mention one he lost that we estimated to be 30 to 40 pounds.

Me? I caught two flounders, paid off my bets and went home trying to figure out a good place to dig for pile worms.

My friend and I usually wager 50 cents for the first, biggest and most fish, but on this particular day he talked me into raising the bets to 75 cents per. He must have known something.

STEELHEAD FISHING in Marin County closed officially last Friday and, to use the words of most fishermen, it was a lousy season.

Rains kept the streams high and muddy, so most action was restricted to bait fishing. I know of only one angler, Pete Valconesi of Pt. Reyes Station, who took any steelhead on flies in Papermill Creek this season.

There were 37 anglers along the banks of Papermill one day last week and 6 fish were caught. Two anglers who took 4 of the 6 fish used, surprisingly enough, No. 8 hooks and single eggs and it was the first time they had fished Papermill. Maybe something new has been added for next year.

THE NEW fishing regulations which went into effect March 1 say that the Russian River will remain open for steelhead through March and April this year. There has always been talk of the late runs in the Russian so the extended season will provide some of the answers. The shad fishermen who have always had to release any steelhead taken while shad fishing should be happy with the new regulations.

NOTES: It is legal to keep a steelhead caught in Tomales Bay, San Francisco Bay and ocean. Some anglers have thrown back the fish only to discover later after reading regulations that they were perfectly legal to keep, and that really hurts.

The Department of Fish and Game has reported 75,000 yearling silver salmon are being stocked throughout the Russian River and some tributaries this month. Many of these fish will return as grilse next year in October and November and weigh approximately two pounds. Fishing could be great.

Set Days Planned For Indy Race

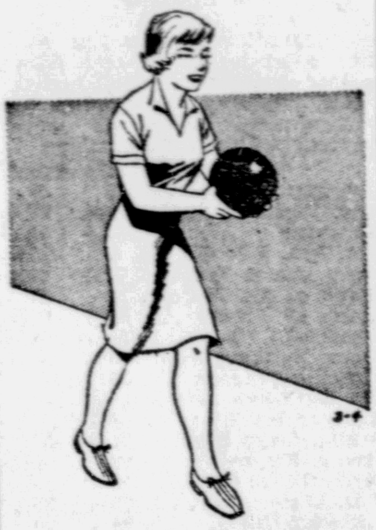
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The Memorial Day 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be either on Saturdays or Mondays beginning in 1971 because of a new federal and state law.

Gov. Edgar D. Whitcomb signed a bill yesterday, conforming with a federal law, which will establish four holidays as falling annually on Mondays beginning in 1971. Memorial Day will be the last Monday in May.

Al Bloemker, public relations director for the Speedway, said yesterday the 500 will be either on the new Memorial Day, Monday, or the preceding Saturday, depending on what management decides "is best for the average race fan."

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



It's good advice to follow: steady the ball with the left hand for as long as possible. Today's bowler is completing the second step, and her left hand is still helping hold the ball. Right after this she'll slide the left hand out from under and the ball will start its drop into the backswing.

Free Sailing School Opens On March 12

A free course in sailboat handling and safety will be held by the Coast Guard Auxiliary starting March 12, 7:30 p.m., at San Clemente School in Corte Madera.

Sponsored by Flotilla 54 of the auxiliary, the public education course will be directed by Barry Binns, auxiliary member, Palo Alto teacher and sailboat expert.

The eight-lesson course will run each Wednesday night for eight weeks. The course will include such subjects as maneuvering, seamanship, aids to navigation, charts and compass, sailing, wind and weather, and rules of the road.

In addition to classroom training, instruction will be held in boats on the water. Interested persons should go to San Clemente School March 12 for the first class, said the auxiliary.

Horse's Career May Be Finished

The speedy thoroughbred suffered what could have been a career-ending fracture in last Saturday's $100,000 Santa Margarita Handicap at Santa Anita. But X-rays showed yesterday the filly suffered a dislocated sesamond bone with damage to tendons and ligaments.

It was generally felt by track officials that the injury occurred after the start of the race when Dark Mirage was bumped.

Dark Mirage was favored in the race but pulled up shortly after the injury and Princessnesian won the added-money event.

Dog Betting Gains

DENVER (AP) — Wagering at Colorado's four greyhound racing tracks jumped to $52.6 million last year from $28.5 million in 1956.

Novato Pair Places 1-2 In Scoring

Steve McNally and Ed Herrnberger, both seniors and both members of Novato High School's runnerup Marin County Athletic League basketball team, finished one-two in the final league scoring statistics.

McNally, the elusive Hornet guard, won the individual scoring crown with 282 points for a nice 20.1 average, the only 20-plus average in the league.

Indicative of the high scoring this season was that 17 players wound up in double-figure averages.

FOUR POINTS

McNally edge out Herrnberger by four points. Herrnberger, in turn, nipped San Marin hot-shot Gary Howard by a point. Herrnberger had 278 points (19.9), Howard 277 (19.8) and Jerry Piro, from champion Redwood High School, 271 points and a 19.3 average.

McNally also had the best free-throw percentage in the league, making 80 of 102 shots.

Team-wise, Redwood's 20.9 advantage over opponents through the league season was tops, with Novato next, holding a 10.7 edge.

A ROARING DEBUT FOR SEARS POINT RACEWAY

Double A Fuel Dragsters such as this Gotelli Special of San Francisco will help dedicate the new multi-million dollar Sears Point International Raceway Saturday and Sunday in the National Open Drag Races sponsored by the National Hot Rod Association. Jack Cameron of Napa, drag strip manager for the motor sports complex at highways 37 and 121 in Southern Sonoma County, expects 700 entries for the inaugural event. First sports car races are scheduled March 29-30, said Sears, vice president and general manager James Coleman. (Alfred M. Arn photo)

MARIN HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Case Of The Missing Track Stars

This may be the year of the missing person in track.

Some of the Marin County Athletic League high school track teams, in particular that of Tamalpais, have lost some good personnel simply because the boy moved out of the area, lock, stock and team point.

Tamalpais, for instance, lost its only discus man when Class B star Gary Soderstrom moved. Also from the Mill Valley schools lineup missing is a promising and talented speedster Bonner Buehler, fastest freshman on the squad last year. He hasn't reported . . .yet.

At Redwood High, they're bemoaning the loss of distance ace Wayne Horuchi, who also moved away. A Class B star at the Larkspur school last year, he had a 4:31.7 mile to his credit in addition to being a super 880 runner.

ROBERT TROPPMANN, head football coach at Redwood, considered the dean of grid coaches in the MCAL, has come out with a book on football defenses that has received high praise from Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty.

The name of the book is "Football's Master Defense Guide," and it's a pack of master defenses designed to stop just about any offense.

Here's what Duffy said in the introduction, in part:

"Bob Troppmann has come up with the complete answer in setting defenses for any opponent. His Master Defense system combines the number and color calls and has evolved into a fullproof way of using the right defense for any offensive formation."

The book has a flip section which allows the matching of any of his color-coded defenses to any of the possible offenses on the same page. Parker Publishing Company, Inc., of New York is putting out the book.

SPEAKING OF football coaches, Tom Burt of Los Altos High School and Don Brown of Mira Loma High School in Fresno have been selected to coach the North team at the 18th annual Shrine North-South Football Classic set for July 23 in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

NOVATO HIGH School's golf team will be down this year. It will be difficult to replace Ray Leach, the fabulous young golfer now making a name for himself as a freshman at Brigham Young University in Utah.

But coach Al Scott reports that Mike Ahern may turn out to be one of the top golfers in the league.

"He's not in the same class as Ray but he gave Ray a run for his money last year," Scott said. "He's a long ball hitter, a real good one."

EVER NOTICE how some fellows seem to excell in just about any sport they handle?

Take a prime example at Redwood where Jim Peters does his stuff. Peters was starting quarterback on Redwood's football team, a key man on Redwood's championship basketball team and, as soon as the Giants wind up their work in this week's High School Tournament of Champions, at Oakland Coliseum, will toil as a pitcher and catcher on Redwood's baseball team.

The new Novato school doesn't have a pool as yet and is hoping to use everybody else's . . . somehow, sometime.

OFFICE BUILDING TO GET TWIN

Market On Plus Side At The Close

NEW YORK (UPI) — Advances topped declines by more than 2-to-1 on Wall Street today in fairly heavy tunrover.

Traders were inspired by the sharp rise in late-February automobile sales, increased construction spending in January and last week's continued high rate of steel production.

The Dow Jones Average of 30 blue chip industrials showed a gain of 8.95 at 917.58 near the close. Volume climbed toward the 9,000,000 share mark.

Steels moved forward, as did motors, both reflecting bright industry news. Building materials also tended higher.

Du Pont and Eastman Kodak led the mostly firmer chemicals, with gains of a point or better after three hours.

Sinclair and Atlantic Richfield were delayed in opening after the government granted qualified approval to their merger. Cities Service and Pennzoil gained, the latter responding to a bright earnings forecast.

Income Preferred To Stock Growth

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I'm 77 and recently received 411 of Lowe's subordinated debentures 6⅞s of 1993 and 664 12-year warrants in exchange for 664 shares of Lorillard. Each warrant is good for purchasing one share of Loew's common. I'd appreciate your opinion. — M. H.

Q. I'm past 83 and care nothing for growth, only reasonable safety and high return. Should I hold or sell the 16 Loew's debentures I received for my Lorillard? — W. W.

A. For the present I'd hold the debentures for income, waiting to see how the comapny's total situation is resolved. Since taking over Lorillard, Loew's appears to be planning further acquisition moves and the one involving Goodrich has created litigation with Loew's as the defendant.

Long term, Loew's common is considered worth holding for its speculative potential, but you're both at an age where speculative growth has lost its appeal. I recommend selling the warrants, traded on the American Exchange, and reinvesting the proceeds in some of the high-rated bonds and preferred stocks which I have recommended recently to readers looking for maximum yield with safety.

Q. Please tell me if Eastman Kodak owns part of Polaroid — their advertising is so similar. Which would you consider the better investment? — E. F.

A. Since you tell me nothing about yourself or your investment objectives, I can only say that if you tend toward conservatism, you should buy Eastman. If you like the excitement of holding a lively performer, Polaroid should continue to provide this.

I have no reason to believe that Eastman owns any part of Polaroid, though both companies own subsidiaries outside the United States. Their advertising is similar because certain of their products are similar and competitive, especially their lower-priced cameras — Polaroid's Swinger and Eastman's Instamatic.

Polaroid's shares recently came under selling pressure, after the company announced plans to raise working capital through a rights offering. Adding over a million new shares to capitalization will lead to an earnings dilution of around 3 per cent.

Nothing Definite To Giant Bon Air Shopping Center Plans

Work has been going ahead on long range plans to expand the Bon Air Shopping Center in Greenbrae into a regional shopping center — but despite all rumors there are still no major tenants named.

The proposed development calls for construction of a "covered climate-controlled mall containing approximately 160,000 square feet of fashion shops, anchored by two major department stores — each with an area of 160,000 square feet."

Specualtion has been running rampant on who will occupy those two major department stores, but apparently nothing has been signed and no one admits to be about to take pen in hand.

What is new is that the Bon Air Development Co. has appointed Winmar Co., Inc. of San Francisco as leasing agent for the expansion, so at least is now ready to get down to serious talk with prospective tenants.

Present schedule calls for completion and opening of the regional center in the fall of 1971, but I am told it may be still farther removed.

THERE HAS BEEN a change in ownership at Whitey's Stationery, 907 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

The last owners, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald McLarty, are retiring and have sold to Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Sainsbury of Novato. Before coming to Marin they were East Bay residents. He was formerly with Norcross, Inc., a greeting card firm, for a number of years.

INSURANCE. William R. Leathers of Greenbrae and Kenneth F. Lewis of San Rafael have been named members of John Hancock Mutual Life's President's Honor Club. Both are with the T. Jack Anttonen general agency in San Francisco. . . . An Allstate Insurance sales contest has resulted in an $820 contribution to Guide Dogs for the Blind as a consequence of San Francisco and Marin County agents making their quotas during the campaign.

ANOTHER STORE to undergo a change of proprietorship recently is called Ruth's Stationery and Gifts at 1585 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, near the San Anselmo line.

Owner Mrs. Ruth Honigman and her husband, Alex, who moved to Marin last summer from Madison, Wisc., have bought the greeting card business formerly operated by Andrew Isetta of the adjoining Don's Market. The Honigmans added office and stationery supplies, party goods and gifts and have extended the lines of greeting cards.

TWO MARINITES have received new appointments at Security Pacific National Bank.

Charles R. Wetterman of Tiburon has been appointed credit officer at the San Francisco main office. A former trust investment officer here, he began his banking career when he moved to California from Kansas City in 1941.

Miss Margaret Bennett of Mill Valley has been promoted from assistant secretary to marketing officer at the bank's Northern California headquarters in San Francisco. She began her banking career as a secretary in 1927.

MANAGER MARCIA PETTIJOHN of the San Rafael office of Manpower, Inc., reports that her company is again awarding 15 $300 scholarships to sons and daughters of temporary employees of the firm this year.

Competition is open to high school seniors who are January or June graduates this year, are under 21 and without previous college or university enrollment. They must be children of Manpower temporary employees who will have worked at least 100 hours between Jan. 1 and May 1, 1969. Other details can be obtained at the local office.

COURSES AND MEETINGS. Joseph A. Valdez of Ames Ford Sales, San Rafael has been graduated from the advance sales management course conducted by the San Francisco Ford Marketing Institute at Burlingame . . . Richard A. Scott of Corte Madera, a representative of Kaemper and Barrett, San Francisco wholesale appliance firm, recently participated in a seminar conducted by Amana Refrigerations, Inc. in Iowa.

FIRE'S AFTERMATH—Surveying the charred remains of the dining room of his home in Paradise Cay is W. G. Shackleton, 170 Trinidad Drive. The fire in the Shackleton home, one of two in Southern Marin during the night, destroyed five rooms and heavily damaged others, but no one was injured. In the other fire, in Sausalito, a month-old baby died.

Blaze Kills Infant; Grandmother Hurt

Fire Also Hits Home In Tiburon

Two fires, one killing a month-old baby, raced through Southern Marin homes last night.

Dead in his crib was Edward Lacey, infant son of Sally V. Lacey, who was away from home at the time.

His grandmother, Genevieve Anglim, 79, suffered severe burns in the fire at 210 Second Street, Sausalito, and was reported in poor condition today in the intensive care unit at Marin General Hospital with burns of the face, neck and hands.

TIBURON BLAZE

In Tiburon, fire destroyed one wing and damaged another in a $50,000 house in Paradise Cay. The fire at the home of W. G. Shackleton, 170 Trinidad Drive, threatened neighboring homes but was controlled within 15 minutes after firemen arrived at 10:25 p.m.

In Sausalito, neighbors reported the Lacey apartment "exploded" in flames at the rear of the building at 7:39 p.m. Police Patrolman Steven Willis arrived two minutes later and found Mrs. Anglim in the yard screaming "there's a baby in there." Willis tried to enter but was driven back by intense heat.

FIREMEN HURT

Two firemen were injured minutes later when they tried to rescue the baby through a window. Capt. Max Robertson cut tendons in his arm when he broke the window and Fireman Stephan Vogel cut his knee trying to crawl inside. Robertson was treated at Marin General Hospital.

The coroner's office did not list the cause of the infant's death pending autopsy. Funeral is pending at Russell and Gooch mortuary, Mill Valley.

Sausalito Fire Chief Charles E. Masten estimated damage at $2,500 to the apartment and $4,000 to contents. Masten said the fire started in the kitchen but the cause is still under investigation. The "explosion" reported by neighbors was heat blowing out a rear window, he said. Firemen were aided by

Alternate State Tax Plan Drafted

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post proposed today a statewide tax on business property, a state takeover of county welfare costs and major state aid to cities hit by heavy police and fire costs.

The report from the Legislature's fiscal adviser was the second big tax reform plan to hit the Capitol in two days. Monday, a governor's advisory commission proposed a $914 million package, with much of the money returning to local governments for general aid and tax reductions.

Post proposed:

A uniform statewide tax on business property. Proceeds would be placed in the present school fund, and then handed out in a manner that would help poorer districts.

Abolition of local government's share of the sales tax—one per cent—with the state assuming control over it. That would mean the entire sales tax would go into the state's coffers.

Post said proceeds from the one per cent portion would go to cities whose tax base will not support pressing police and fire needs.

As an example of a city that is pressed beyond its means, the report cited Oakland.

"Oakland and San Jose have approximatly the same level of assessed valuation, but Oakland's police department costs twice as much as San Jose's and Oakland's fire department was 60 per cent more expensive," Post said.

Post said Oakland's crime statistics were twice as high as San Jose's and its fire costs also were higher because of the needs of protecting its port.

Post said under his proposal the sales tax money would be distribted on the basis of need.

The analyst said if the state assumed the county's $237 million in welfare costs, counties hardest hit by welfare costs would be able to cut their tax rates.

Wounded Sailor's Agonizing Surgery

CORONADO (UPI — North Korean prison officers put a wounded sailor from the USS Pueblo through agonizing major surgery without anaesthetia and then made him tell a news conference about his "humane treatment."

Engineman 2/C Steven E. Woelk, 20, of Grand Rapids, Mich., described his surgery today before a five-admiral court of inquiry into capture of the Pueblo and the conduct of her crew.

Wounded in the pelvis by shell fragments when the North Koreans fired on the Pueblo, Woelk couldn't walk when the ship docked at the port of Wonsan.

He was carried ashore on a stretcher, hit repeatedly and then dragged part of the way to a bus that took the Pueblo's crew to prison, he told the court. His operation three days later took place on a bare table in a prison room.

When he failed to rally after surgery, Woelk said, the North Koreans relented and sent him to a military hospital for 44 days. He said the treatment there was good.

The Koreans got all the propaganda mileage they could by making him write "Thank you" letters and give favorable statements before a news conference.

In Washington, Adm. Thomas J. Moorer testified today that the USS Pueblo's spy mission off the coast of North Korea was cleared in advance, probably as high up as the White House.

Moorer, chief of naval operations, testified at the opening of congressional hearings on the Pueblo incident.

The four-star admiral told a special House armed services subcommittee that "assessment of the risks involved" was subject to standard channels of review going to the Joint Chiefs of Staff "and ultimately to higher authority."

He said this would mean the Defense Department and the commander-in-chief (President.) In the case of the Pueblo, it would have meant President Lyndon B. Johnson.

As the House panel began its inquiry, Moorer submitted a copy of the Pueblo's sailing orders detailing electronic and visual surveillance operations to be carried out against Russian naval operations off the North Korean coast.

Under questioning, Moorer said he was "sure" the Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, was advised of contingency plans for assistance

Heart Switched By Texas Team

HOUSTON (UPI)—A 56-year-old retired Canadian businessman received the heart of an unidentified donor today in the first heart transplant at the Texas Heart Institute in almost four months.

Isaac Morris, of Calgary, Alberta, was in satisfactory condition at St. Luke's Hospital after the surgery by Dr. Denton A. Cooley's transplant team.

It was the 19th transplant for Cooley, who has done more than any other doctor, and the 118th in the world. Morris became the world's 38th survivor.

The unidentified donor was believed to be a Negro in his late twenties or early thirties.

Apollo, Cab Swim Through Jolt Test

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 9 space pilots jarred their ship twice with jolts of rocket power today for two basic reasons:

To see if the awkward moon cab locked to Apollo's nose would survive the shaking.

And to make the command ship easier to handle in any space rescue attempts that might be needed in risky maneuvers to come.

They talked more brightly after a good night's sleep.

Scott, asked by the ground whether he had much trouble handling the controls during the rocket burns, said he found it rather easy.

For one brief moment between tests, the astronauts kidded about the hoses that provide oxygen and take away used air from their space suits.

"Hey Smokey," McDivitt asked Stuart Roosa, ground communicator, "have you ever been attacked by a band of wild elephants? . . . You ought to see what it looks like in here with these six big black hoses."

Roosa laughed and Scott added, "Did you ever dream about octopuses?"

The second rocket burst of the day lasted nearly five minutes. It boosted the combined Apollo-moon cab structure to an orbit ranging from a high of about 315 miles to a low of 125 miles. It also improved the earth track of the spaceship and its angle to the sun's light for Thursday's planned spacewalk.

The first rocket firing was a two minute burst. It also boosted the orbit. But neither test shook up the nose-to-nose spacecraft as much as had been expected. It was a successful prove-out of one major unknown for the two ships that will carry Americans to the moon in July.

The two firings reduced the fuel load of the spaceship by almost 26,000 pounds, making it easier to control the ship with small jets should deft maneuvering be necessary for any rescue attempt in a space chase scheduled for Friday.

The heart rates of the astronauts gave the only betrayal of their excitement. McDivitt's had boosted to 115 a minute, Scott's to 108 a minute, and rookie spaceman Schweickart,

Ike Continuing To Show Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors reported today that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower continues to show such favorable progress that they discontinued all intravenous feedings and medications this morning.

He has no fever and his heart action remains unchanged, said the announcement from Walter Reed Army Hospital.

CAR

The only modern weapon against which there is no defense.

New Trouble For Guru Of Olompali

Donald J. McCoy, the hippie pontiff who says he is "society's problem child" has been arrested again — this time for allegedly trespassing and obstructing a business.

McCoy, whose rented Rancho Olompali north of Novato serves as a hippie sanctuary, was arrested yesterday with three others, including a 10-year-old boy, after a ruckus at a Novato restaurant.

Arrested with McCoy were James E. Bartee, 23; Sheila G. McKendrick, 36, and the juvenile. McCoy and the two adults were booked into Marin County Jail but were released on their own recognizance, whereupon McCoy stood on the courthouse steps singing Christmas carols until he was ordered to stop.

"I'm society's problem child and I don't know what they'll do with me," he said. He and the others were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Novato police said the fracas started about 7:35 a.m. when a cook at Denny's, a 24-hour restaurant, found McCoy asleep on a counter. He woke McCoy up, police said, but McCoy walked over to a corner, laid down and went to sleep again.

Later, presumably refreshed, McCoy and the others ordered breakfast. McCoy paid the $2.75 for his own meal but could not or would not pay for the others — whose bills totaled $4.83 — according to police.

After discussion with Gerald E. Meacham, manager of the restaurant on Highway 101 south of Grant Avenue, and police, it

HAYAKAWA JEERED

State Campus Quiet, But Colorado Noisy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The four-month student strike at San Francisco State College entered a new phase today, with a companion teachers' strike at an end and with picketing restrictions greeted with quiet compliance.

Things went less well for the college's acting president S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley, when he was jeered off the stage while trying to speak to students at Colorado State College in Boulder last night. (See related campus stories, page 2.)

Previous court orders have done little to halt the violence and arrests which have occurred at San Francisco State since the strike began Nov. 6. The latest one may prove no different.

But yesterday, when Sheriff Matt Carberry read the new court order limiting pickets to five at any entrance and specifying pickets stay at least five feet apart, some 200 pickets dispersed quietly.

In the meantime, around 300 striking union teachers had voted by a narrow margin to end the walkout they started Jan. 6 and were back at class.

Students Hit Political Acts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Two student leaders say that campus violence will end only when Gov. Ronald Reagan the Legislature and their own faculty show "real understanding" toward solving campus problems.

The chief problems, are equal campus opportunity for minority groups and student participation in campus decisions, the students told an Assembly subcommittee last night.

Earlier yesterday, Reagan urged legislators to approve four proposals he already has made to quell campus violence. They include expulsion or dismissal for students or faculty convicted in campus disturbances and a ban on using loudspeakers without permission.

But Steve Woodside, student body president at the University of California at Davis, said: "I believe much of the crisis has been perpetrate by political reaction . . . in the form of bills or public statements." He said violence on his campus has been

A 5-year-old boy, sitting in the middle of the street near his home at 52 El Camino Avenue, San Rafael, according to police, was struck and run over by a car at 11:40 a.m. today.

The child, Daniel Llorens, son of Mrs. Joyce Llorens, was taken to Marin General Hospital with a severely cut head. The full extent of his injuries was not known.

Patrolman Charles Brobeck said the car traveling uphill on El Camino, was driven by Sandra Jolman of 24 El Camino, who did not see the youngster. Brobeck said preliminary investigation indicated that Daniel was struck and cut by the license plate, but that the car passed over him without otherwise touching him.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Pearl Planner Warmly Welcomed

Genda

Gen. Minoru Genda, 65, appeared last night as a distinguished visitor at the invitation of the U.S. Naval Institute, a fraternal organization of American naval personnel.

When Genda's scheduled appearance was made public late last month, academy public relations and executive personnel were subjected to a minor flurry of protests from angry Americans.

Lt. Cdr. Jack White of the academy's information office, said: "We received about 50 letters, 100 telephone calls and a dozen telegrams — in round figures."

Several of Genda's remarks received applause, such as his comment that his nation should take a stronger role in the future defense of the Far East once the American presence there is reduced.

Mine Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has sent Congress a proposed bill to set up federal health and safety standards for coal mines and at the same time announced a new program of grants to help the states develop their own programs.

The legislation would provide heavy fines for companies violating the standards.

Nixon also announced a series of administrative orders increasing the number of mine inspectors substantially and expanding research into the "black lung" disease which results from inhaling coal dust, plus other mine hazards.

Backs Equality

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Winton M. Blount says he subscribes without reservation to Post Office Department programs of equal employment opportunity.

Blount, the only Deep South member of President Nixon's cabinet and the first member from Alabama in 75 years, urged postal workers in a policy statement to strive for total racial equality on the job and in their communities.

He spoke of "achieving equality as a never-ending crusade" and declared, "We cannot be satisfied with past achievements."

Villagers Win

LONDON (AP) — The villagers of northwest Essex have defeated Parliament and the government in a battle over location of the new London airport.

Parliament had approved the government's choice of Stansted, site of a U.S. air strip used during World War II. The residents of Stansted and Takely, which would have been razed by the plan, protested some of southern England's most picturesque villages and finest farmland would be taken.

A commission was named to look into the issue and today recommended four sites. Stansted was not among them.

Troop Forecast

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park said today he expects the day will come when American troops no longer are needed to help defend South Korea, but he does not know when that will be.

Speaking to a group of visiting American businessmen, the South Korean president said the United States should pressure Japan to renounce its lukewarm attitude toward a regional defense alliance.

Church Damaged

BRESCIA, Italy (AP) — The facade of the church in which Pope Paul VI was baptized in 1897 was damaged today by a homemade bomb.

The explosion occurred in the village of Cencesio, near Brescia, where the Pope was born and spent his boyhood.

Police began an investigation.

In 1964 two explosive devices damaged the house where Pope Paul was born.

Protests Attack

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Laotian government protested today to Britain and the Soviet Union against a Communist attack that wiped out one of its major outposts. It called on the two nations to get North Vietnamese troops out of Laos.

Britain and the Soviet Union were cochairman of the Geneva Conferences that produced an agreement in 1962 guaranteeing the independence and neutrality of Laos.

The Laotian government claimed more than 1,000 Communist troops, four-fifths of them North Vietnamese and the rest Pathet Laos, overran an outpost Sunday at Na Khang, 150 miles northeast of Vientiane. It also reported another attack at Souvanna Khili, in southern Laos.

No Traces Of Missing Scouts

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — Avalanche experts probed two snow mountain snowslides without success in the San Bernardino Mountains yesterday in the hunt for four Los Angeles Explorer Scouts and their adult leader.

The four boys, Bob Rittmayer, Albert Silverburg, Eddie Manz and Burton Ellsworth, were with Dr. Michael Pasternak on a skiing trip toward Green Valley when they vanished Feb. 22. Rattmayer, 16, is a former resident of Marin County.

Two 18-year-old Novato youths were arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for burglarizing Lu Sutton School in Novato early Saturday.

Michigan Students Arrested

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State police broke through two locked glass doors in the administration building to arrest more than 300 demonstrators holding a sit-in at Ferris State College in Big Rapids.

Acting on the orders of Gov. William Milliken, who said two weeks ago he would not tolerate student disorders, about 70 troopers forcibly dragged the first few demonstrators from the building last night.

The rest left without resistence. About 600 white students gathered outside as the predominantly Negro sit-ins were taken to buses under guard. A few of the onlookers chanted "White Power."

The demonstrators were driven to the Big Rapids National Guard Armory where they were arraigned on charges of trespasing.

The incident culminated a week of confrontations between Negroes and whites on the central Michigan campus. Of the 7,700 students, 360 are Negro. They seek some Negro faculty members and black studies.

At the University of Colorado in Boulder, about 30 screaming students forced San Francisco State College President S. I. Hayakawa to cut short a speech. (See story, page 1.)

Elsewhere there were these developments:

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA—A black banner flew for an hour over the Charlotte campus after Negro students raised it in place of the United States and state flags. Spokesmen said it was to dramatize demands including establishment of a black studies program.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN — Faculty members approved creation of a black studies department—one of the 13 demands submitted by Negro demonstrators.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA — Striking minority students at the Berkeley campus were joined on picket lines by teaching aides who gained sanction Sunday for their own strike.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY—Trustees voted to accept the president's recommendation that the university abandon its plan to build a gymnasium in Morningside Park. The proposed gym was one of the focal points in the student uprising last spring.

BARNARD COLLEGE—Negro students at the all-girl school, part of Columbia University, listed a request for "soul food" on the cafeteria menu as among their demands. President Martha Peterson said it would be considered.

COLGATE ROCHESTER DIVINITY SCHOOL—The president canceled classes until Thursday in the face of a sit-in by 20 Negro seminarians who took over the administration building.

MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY—A one-day boycott of research projects was set for today to protest MIT's "involvement with the military-industrial complex."

Park Offer To Be Rejected

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Board of Supervisors voted yesterday to reject a state offer of $2.1 million for 116 acres at Fort Funston.

City officials had protested there were too many strings to the state's offer and Supervisor Peter Tamaras said: "We don't want a trailer park down at the beach .... The state could tell us to install such a facility and we'd be stuck with it."

Red China, Russians Stage Mass Protests

HONG KONG (UPI)—Peking said "tens of millions" of its soldiers and civilians joined a second day of anti-Soviet demonstrations across Communist China today, 400,000 of them in front of the Soviet embassy in Peking.

China accused the Kremlin leadership of increasing "military pressures" along the 5,000-mile Sino-Soviet border in an attempt to "cause war." "If others attack us, we shall strike back," Peking radio said.

(From Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass said Russian workers held "mass meetings of protest" against the "armed provocation" of Chinese troops on the Sino-Soviet border Sunday.

(The meetings, in Blagoveshchensk and Khabarovsk near the scene of the Sunday border battle, "took pride in the endurance and courage of the Soviet frontier guards who gave a resolute rebuff to the Chinese provocateurs," Tass said.

"The government of the Chinese Peoples' Republic bears full responsibility for these actions," one worker was quoted as saying.)

For the first time, Peking brought President Nixon into the latest Sino-Soviet dispute, saying the Soviet leadership is "trying very hard to please the Nixon government and to make a deal" with the United States.

Peking Radio broadcast the reports from the Chinese capital. Moscow said yesterday that Chinese troops had staged "gangster raids" across the border.

The most serious Soviet-Chinese dispute since their ideological split 10 years ago began with both sides reporting their troops in battle Sunday at a border island in Far Eastern Russia.

The border battle Sunday ended with both sides reporting casualties and blaming each other for starting it. Communist China claims to own more than one million square miles of Russia's Far Eastern underbelly.

East Germans Shut Roads As Kiesinger Visits Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany, campaigning against a West German presidential election to be held in West Berlin tomorrow, closed the main autobahn link between this city and West Germany late today.

Travel was halted on the 110-mile-long superhighway about three hours after West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger flew in to take part in the election of a successor to President Heinrich Luebke.

It was not immediately clear how long the East Germans intended to keep the road closed.

Travelers said their cars were forced by East German police to pull over into rest areas along the superhighway.

Some reported observing heavy Soviet and East German troop convoys along the autobahn at the time—between about 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Warsaw Pact maneuvers are under way in the area.

The closing, the third in the last four days, came as Kiesinger was flying over East Germany aboard a U.S. Air Force Constellation for the election Wednesday by the Federal Assembly of a successor to President Heinrich Luebke. Like the asemblymen, the chancellor ignored a Russian warning that the Soviet Union would not guarantee the safety of such flights.

The silver and white plane touched down in the city's Tempelhof Airport shortly before 1 p.m. A U.S. Air Force spokesman said, "to our knowledge there were no incidents" during the chancellor's 300-mile flight from Bonn, partly over East German territory.

In his arrival statement, Kiesanger said the election is a "thoroughly peaceful occasion that does not disrupt, or threaten anyone or injure anyone's rights." It is a sign, he added, of West German legal rights in the city.

Of the Communist threats to West Berlin's air and ground access routes, the chancellor declared: "threats do not accomplish anything with us."

He reiterated his government's readiness to enter into future negotiations with the Communists for the benefit of the Berliners, but not at the expense of West Germany's avowed rights in the isolated city.

Conditional Approval For Oil Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has given a reluctant and conditional go-ahead to what may be the biggest oil company merger of all time —the consolidation of Atlantic Richfield and Sinclair.

Stringent conditions imposed by the government would allow for future restoration of the two separate companies if court appeals opposing the merger are successful.

And the Justice Department maintained it still is opposed to Atlantic Richfield's acquisition of Sinclair's crude oil refineries and marketing system in the Midwest and Rocky Mountains.

The government and firms entered into a partial agreement yesterday with a stipulation and order which Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said will be filed sometime this week in U.S. District Court in New York City.

Officials made it clear they agreed to a partial settlement only after U.S. District court Judge Frank Van Pelt Ryan indicated he would dissolve a temporary injunction blocking the merger.

The main condition laid down by the government requires the merged corporation to sell all Sinclair retail outlets in the Northeast and Southeast to the British Petroleum Co.

The $400 million sale, the government said, will remove a marketing overlap between Atlantic Richfield and Sinclair on the Eastern Seaboard and in the Southeast.

Snow Cripples

TOKYO (AP) — A driving snowstorm stranded hundreds of thousands of Tokyo residents today, crippling rail, road and air transportation in the world's most populous city. The embarrassed weatherman had predicted fair skies.

More than seven inches of snow fell on the city, the worst March fall since World War II, and eight to 12 inches were reported in outlying hill areas. Snow and freezing temperatures covered central Japan, including Osaka, Nagoya and Kobe.

Patience Growing Thin Over Bombs

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration has served notice that continued indiscriminate shelling of South Vietnamese cities will bring both political and military consequences to North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said yesterday the "consequences of these attacks" are the enemy's responsibility, and State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey confirmed that the consequences could be "both political and military."

It was the first time the State Department had said specifically the series of enemy attacks might result in military action, although a halt to such bombardment was one of the points former President Johnson included in the "understanding" he announced at the same time he said the bombing of North Vietnam would end last Nov. 1.

As of yesterday, McCloskey said at his daily press briefing, "Everything is under review, all aspects of policy, military and political."

President Nixon has not yet stated what steps he will take if he determines that North Vietnam deliberately violated the understanding, but he likely will be asked about it tonight when he reports to the nation on his eight-day tour of European capitals.

American officials said the 30-minute session at Ky's residence was "routine."

Lodge and Ky discussed the effects of the Viet Cong attacks on South Vietnamese vopulation centers and the effects they will have on the stalled Paris Vietnam peace talks.

Tran Buu Kiem, the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front (NFL) foreign minister, spoke about President Nixon's visit to Paris at a meeting of French students last night.

"Mr. Nixon has shown us that he hopes to solve the Vietnamese problem by force," he said. "If he harbors such a delusion he will head straight for a major defeat."

U.S. Planes Halt Advance On Green Beret Outpost

SAIGON (UPI)—Divebombing U.S. warplanes turned back a column of at least 10 Communist tanks rumbling toward an isolated Green Beret camp near the Cambodian border today.

It was the second time in the war American headquarters has announced the use of tanks by the guerrillas. The first time was Feb. 7, 1968, when Red tanks overran another Green Beret camp at Lang Vei.

U.S. spokesmen said 30 American air strikes in the darkness just past midnight destroyed two Soviet-built PT76 tanks and two other armored vehicles within sight of the Allied camp at Ben Het.

Two U.S. soldiers were killed and South Vietnamese losses were "light" in the fighting, military spokesmen said.

Elsewhere, the communists opened the 10th day of their offensive, shelling 25 towns and bases, including the Newport Bridge three miles from downtown Saigon. South Vietnamese soldiers reported killing two guerrillas at another span seven miles south of the city.

Former Prison Chief Tells Brutality Tale

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee studying conditions in the nation's prisons heard today a harrowing tale of brutality and atrocities from the former superintendent of the Arkansas State Penitentiary.

Thomas O. Murton told the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee, "Our prisons, in varying degrees are monster-producing factories."

"In varying degrees of sophistication," he added, "the degredations perpetrated upon the Arkansas convicts are happening today in every correctional system."

Murton called for a nationwide effort of prison reform and said, "It is time that we start to undo the harm that has been done for centuries."

Murton called the Arkansas penitentiary system "an ancient philosophy of retribution, exploitation, corruption, sadism and brutality."

He described his efforts to eliminate the worst excesses but said, "When I tried to overhaul the degenerate system at its very roots, the state failed to back me up. They did not want that much reform."

Murton was superintendent when nationwide attention was focused on the discovery of dead bodies of inmates. "I am convinced that what we uncovered on the Cummins Prison Farm were graves of inmates murdered by the trustees or the staff," he said.

A state police report said last May the pasture from which the skeletons were exhumed was an old prison cemetery until the 1940s and did not contain unmarked graves for murdered inmates.

Murton also said that on the Arkansas prison farms "a group of armed inmates, some of whom were vicious, violent and emotionally deranged felons, have life and death power over the other inmates."

Testifying in a hearing room decorated with examples of weapons found at Arkansas prisons and pictures of beaten prisoners, Murton gave the subcommittee these examples of conditions turned up by investigations, many of which he said still existed when he was prison chief:

"One of the more sadistic devices used to torture inmates was the 'tucker telephone,' a device that was used to run electrical current through two wires attached to genital parts of the body."

"A 19-year-old was beaten by five trusties with blackjacks, rubber hoses and brass knuckles and was finally told by the superintendent he would personally beat him to death if he got into trouble again."

"One of the former superintendents had a buzzer installed near his bed to summon his favorite inmate from the women's reformatory to perform unnatural sex acts with him . . . male trusties guarded the reformatory and both they and other selected trusties were allowed to have intercourse with the females."

"The Negro prisoners were segregated into even worse facilities than the whites. They ate only the scraps from the tables after the whites finished eating."

Poll Reports Public Favors Campus Curbs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The public favors a harder line with student and faculty demonstrators, the Marvin Field California Poll said today.

"There are signs that this toughening mood of the public is at the expense of its willingness to support traditional notions of academic freedom," the poll stated.

The poll also found a growing feeling for the expulsion of students who demonstrate.

Only a minority are in favor of giving undergraduates more voice in campus rules.

The poll said a majority of the public rejects the argument that having police on the campus to maintain order makes matters worse.

The right of professors to strike failed to win majority backing.

Both white and black members of the general public oppose admitting more black students who do not meet regular scholastic requirements, the poll added.

Fishing Boat Gets An Assist

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The disabled 35-foot fishing boat, Rebel, which started for Honolulu Sunday, was being towed back to San Francisco today.

The Coast Guard cutter Resolute took the Rebel in tow in eight-foot seas about 60 miles southwest of the Golden Gate.

Mother Draws School Sentence

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A mother accused of striking a teacher has been sentenced to schoolyard duty for 90 days

Maggie Fox, 36, mother of a grade school pupil, was instructed by Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Latrone to help maintain school yard discipline during recesses.

She was assigned to aid John C. Nord Jr., the teacher she was accused of striking. He teaches at Morris Elementary School.

"Children learn from the example set by their parents," said Judge Latrone yesterday. "Now you will have the opportunity to set an example."

Mrs. Fox said she slapped Nord because she thought he hit her son, Jeffrey, 10, while breaking up a schoolyard squabble last month.

Two Women Face Dope Charges

Two young women, arrested early Sunday morning after the father of one of them called sheriff's deputies following a party at his home, will appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Michelle Anne Sliney, 18, of 52 Oak Mountain Road, San Rafael, and Marsha Louise Mitchell, 19, of no fixed address, were booked on suspicion of possession of marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia.

Miss Sliney's father, Edgar Sliney, called deputies to his home about 2:25 a.m. because he suspected marijuana had been used at a party there.

Deputies said a search of Miss Sliney's bedroom turned up narcotics parapernalia and marijuana. They also found paraphernalia and marijuana in Miss Mitchell's purse, they said.

Both young women had fresh needle marks on their arms, according to deputies.

Both have been released from Marin County Jail after posting $625 bail.

Minister Denies Credential Count

SAN JOSE (UPI) — A genial illiterate, who claims to have "ordained" 20,000 ministers and chartered 1,500 churches from a converted garage, pleaded innocent yesterday to a charge of issuing phony minister's credentials.

Municipal Court Judge Paul R. Teilh set a jury trial for May 5 for the Rev. Dr. Kirby J. Hensley, founder of the Universal Life Church, Inc.

Hensley, a 57-year-old Modesto resident who claims he can neither read nor write, told newsmen recently "in five years we'll be bigger than the Roman Catholic Church."

He was charged specifically with issuing ministerial credentials through a non-accredited institute in violation of the California Education Code and released on $350 bail.

Black-White Crisis Termed As 'Mellow'

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"Mellow" is the manner in which a black minister from Los Angeles termed the current black and white revolution in the United States.

"Mellow," he said by dictionary definition, "means overly ripe and almost rotten."

Dr. James Hargett, militant minister of the Church of Christian Fellowship in Los Angeles, spoke yesterday to about 100 members of Larkspur-Corte Madera and Mill Valley Teachers Associations at San Clemente School, Corte Madera.

"The black people have no alternative. They will do it the way the Irish, Italians and Jews did it. We're going to take over city hall and try to get a piece of the mainstream action," Hargett said.

"The black is saying to America, 'if I can't have a piece of the action, then no one will have a piece of the action.' That's Samsonian."

He defined three other terms which he said the community uses but seldom closely examines:

"Colony — I refer to an aggregate of persons who exist solely for the exploitation of others. Ghetto — a ghetto is s sociological womb which shapes and molds its inhabitants telling them who they are and where they are going. Community — a community is a ghetto with an option."

He said Negroes do not live in a ghetto according to Dr. S. I. Hayakawa's classic use of the word. They live in a colony.

The term ghetto was coined in Venice, Italy, Hargett explained. "It was there that the Jews were contained for the first time in Europe."

Hargett described education as "a way a given society transmits its culture values from one generation to another.

"You can't survive in the 20th Century unless you have an education," he said.

The American black has gone through three periods — useful, when a slave; useable, as when he fought in World War II; and useless, which is where he is now. Hargett likened the black now to the time when American stopped using horses and sent them to the glue factory.

The minister said he lives in a black colony and drives his child to school in Brentwood. "In the other lane, cars are coming in bumper-to-bumper to exploit downtown L.A. economically. While they exploit L.A. economically, I exploit Brentwood educationally."

In questioning, Hargett answered: "I'm for busing Chinese, black, green, yellow, blue, all over the Bay Area."

He noted that Good Friday is the date of Martin Luther King's assassination this year. "That's either irony or providence," he said wryly.

He ended his fiery talk by reciting a poem: "Playing the Game."

Children Hurt; Car Into Tree

Two children were injured when the car they were riding in hit a tree in a Tamalpais Valley driveway Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Theresa Simonitch, 9, of 9 Winship Avenue, Ross, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a broken jaw and multiple cuts, and Richard Simonitch, 7, of the same address, was treated for a broken right leg and multiple bruises. The hospital said both were transferred to Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael. But Kaiser said it had no record of the children.

The highway patrol said their father, Jack T. Simonitch, 38, was driving down a driveway at 396 Morning Sun Avenue at 8 p.m. when the brakes failed on a sharp curve.

Nixon Gives Top Leaders Trip Notes

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Nixon gave congressional leaders a preview today of what he plans to tell the nation tonight about his European trip and concerns over Vietnam and Berlin.

Nixon met with the bipartisan group for more than an hour and then continued preparation of his statement to begin the hour-long, nationally broadcast news conference starting at 6 p.m. (PST.)

The White House said the news conference will be restricted solely to foreign policy matters with the President entertaining no questions about domestic issues.

Nixon's White House meeting this morning was with virtually the same group of congressmen and senators he briefed in advance of his departure Feb. 23 for Europe.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers and national security adviser Henry A. Kissinger, who accompanied Nixon abroad, joined in the meeting.

It is expected that such tensions as those in Vietnam, Berlin and the Middle East will come up in the question-and-answer session tonight. Before he left on his trip Nixon promised to give a full report to both congressional leaders and the nation and he was moving quickly to keep this pledge.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said that questions need not be confined to the European trip and they seemed likely to range the field of international affairs.

Nixon was certain to be asked whether the United States is considering any retaliatory action as a result of renewed rocket attacks on Saigon.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said in a statement yesterday "the consequences of these attacks are the responsibility of the other side and they clearly raise a question as to its true desire to work toward a peaceful settlement of the conflict."

$535 Burglary

The theft of two watches and three rings, valued at a total of more than $535, from his home at 154 Terrace Avenue, San Rafael, was reported yesterday by Harold K. Harroun, police siad. Harroun said the theft occurred during the day with entry gained by prying open a window.

Bay Front Park Held A Top Need

Marin County Board of Supervisors agreed today that a bay front park such as China Camp of McNear's area should get top priority in any county park expansion, but declined to commit any funds until after budget discussions.

Parks and recreation director Pierre W. Joske stressed the need for more county park facilities at a joint workshop session with the supervisors.

"Parks are no longer considered window dressing," declared Joske. "They are a necessity for the physical and mental well being of the community."

Under minimum national standards, the county should have 2,000 acres of regional parks, whereas it has only 428 acres of which 264 is usable, said Joske. He noted that bay frontage parks are particularly lacking. Marin has only 900 feet of public bay frontage, mostly at Paradise Beach Park, out of 40 miles of bay shoreline.

Supervisors agreed that bay access is the most critical park need, but until budget discussions, no extra money can be allocated.

"I suppose we can say we have a Mexican standoff until budget time," observed Lothar Salin, chairman of the county parks and recreation commission.

Salin made a plea for "seed money" to help youth start new programs such as coffee houses.

Supervisor Michael Wornum moved to approve the use of $2,500 unallocated reserve in the park budget for that purpose.

However, Chairman John F. McInnis wanted a report from the county auditor on the status of county funds before any action is taken. Supervisor Louis H. Baar said he would not consider such a program for this fiscal year.

Wornum then moved to put the "seed money" idea over to next Tuesday's agenda. This was seconded by Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and approved unamimously.

William A. Gnoss served noticed he would vote for the "seed money" next week. "I've been for youth and I'll be for youth next Tuesday," said Gnoss.

Store Worker Denies Taking Deposit Cash

Dennis Norman Clark, 26, of 163 Elm Street, Larkspur, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of grand theft, and a preliminary hearing was set for April 8.

Clark is accused of taking about $500 from his employer, Sportsland Corp., which has a concession in the Larkspur Disco store. Store representatives said that Clark took the money from funds to be deposited in a bank sometime between November and February.

Group Favors New Units In Lucas Valley

Directors of the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association last night urged members to vote in favor of two new units joining the association.

President William Reiner said that 90 new homes in the units 7 and 9 will be started by Peninsula Master Builders in April, and a package deal offered by the builder would be of advantage to the community. The new homes will be on the north side of Lucas Valley Road to the east and west of Mount Shasta Drive.

The association's 440 homeowners will decide on March 31 whether or not to increase the membership by 90 by admitting the units.

Peninsula Master Builders had agreed to deed three lots worth $27,000 when the first home is sold. Two tennis courts will be installed on the lots, one to be paid by the developer at a cost of $8,000. When the second unit is started, the developers will donate $27,000 to build a new swimming pool.

Theft Of Ukelele, Radio Are Reported

Felix F. Ruggiero reported to Larkspur police yesterday that someone broke into his home at 21 College Park and stole a transistor radio valued at $15 and a ukelele worth $28.

The burglary occurred between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., yesterday. Entry was made by prying open a bedroom window, police said.

It was the third fire death in Sausalito this year. Two women died in fires in their homes Jan. 9 and Jan. 31.

In Tiburon, Fire Capt. Edward Parnell said the Shackleton home had burned for some time before neighbors saw flames break through the windows.

The kitchen, pantry, laundry room, living room and dining-family room were destroyed, and the bedroom wing received heavy damage from smoke and heat, Parnell said.

The Apollo 9 voyagers were flying nose-to-nose with their buglike lunar module — a combination dubbed "gumdrop and spider" by Mission Control — at the end of the first day which often found them too busy to talk.

"We were pretty well crowded today to get all those things in," one of them said just before turning in for their first nine-hour sleep period. "And we sort of missed lunch."

"Roger," Mission Control replied. "I could tell you were really humping up there."

was decided someone from the ranch would bring money to pay the bill.

By this time, police said, it was about 9:30 a.m. McCoy's little band then allegedly refused to leave the restaurant and blocked the doorway, so Meacham called police again.

The four were taken into custody on Meacham's complaint at 10:16 a.m. The juvenile was taken to Juvenile Hall while the others went to the jail to be booked.

McCoy, who reportedly has spent large amounts of an inherited fortune to provide a home for hippies at Rancho Olompali, was arrested in January 8 on charges of marijuana possession. He is to appear in Marin Municipal Court for a preliminary bearing March 21.

The ranchhouse, since destroyed by fire, has been the target for two major raids by narcotics officers.

Several of hippies, including several children, are still at the ranch, living in outbuildings that were not damaged by the Feb. 2 fire.

Bogus Collection; Teen-Agers Cited

Two 16-year-old San Rafael youths were issued juvenile citiations Sunday in connection with the fraudulent use of an Independent-Journal receipt book belonging to Michael Charles Schram, 12, of 211 Canal Street, San Rafael, police said.

Schram discovered the book, which he said was taken from his bike about a week ago, was being used by someone else when he went to collect from a subscriber. The subscriber said he had just paid someone else.

One youth was found at a nearby market and he claimed he had gotten the book from another boy, whom the police found at home.

Police said the youth had apparently made $4.50 worth of collections before he was stopped.

IT'S NO MORE CUSTARD PIES

CHURCH BRAMPTON, England (AP) — Judy Carne, the sock-it-to-me girl on the Rowan and Martin "Laugh-In" show is back home in her native village preparing for marriage.

Judy, 29, said she'll marry 24-year-old Dean Goodhill, a photographer who met her while she was on the receiving end of a custard pie.

"I was his assignment," said Judy. "He was so nice."

Judy said she expects him here for the wedding in a few days.

Bay Region Referendum Condemned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A proposed public vote on the creation of a San Francisco Bay Area regional government is attacked by two governmental experts as "ill advised, undemocratic, prohibitively expensive, time-consuming and an abdication of legislative responsibility."

Such a vote is proposed in a bill introduced yesterday by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond.

The vote would be in the June 1970 primary election if Knox's bill is approved by the legislature and signed by Gov. Reagan.

The strong opposition to a referendum was expressed by Stanley Scott and Harriet Nathan of the Institute of Governmental Studies at the University of California, Berkeley.

They maintain a referendum allows political manipulation, abandons the values of the legislative function and forces on the voters a responsibility for which they are unprepared.

It also "offers the appearance but not the reality of majority control and could aggravate racial tensions," they claim.

THE CAR DID LOOK FAMILIAR

LANSDOWNE, Pa. (AP) — Patrolman Ted Basquill, directing traffic, waved a car through an intersection — and thought he recognized it.

He did. It was his own, which he had parked near the police station.

Basquill alerted fellow officers, who captured Richard E. Childs, 22, of New Philadelphia, after a short chase yesterday. Childs was charged with larceny of an auto.

Woman Accused Of Firing Shot

A 24-year-old Forest Knolls woman who allegedly shot at the San Geronimo Valley home of another woman early Saturday morning will appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Bobbi Ross, of 33 Forest Avenue, was arrested about 2:50 a.m. after allegedly shooting at the front of the duplex apartment of Rose Marie Porteous at 555 San Geronimo Valley Drive.

A .22 caliber pistol allegedly was used in the shooting, in which no one was injured, deputies said. A small hole was made in the front of the apartment.

Miss Ross was freed from Marin County Jail after posting $3,125 bail.

The theft of about $450 worth of carpenters tools from his car while it was parked at Carpenter's Hall, 647 Lindaro Street, San Rafael, Feb. 19, was reported yesterday by William Taylor Jones of Windsor, San Rafael police said.

Jones said the delay in reporting was because he had no telephone and had had vehicle problems.

eration of Teachers said his 290 members were not happy and probably would post informational pickets.

Hawkins said the vote to go back to class was due to the college's threat to fire the teachers, and he said they got little of what they had demanded.

"The greatest portion of the struggle has yet to be waged," he said.

At Boulder, cursing, screaming students forced Hayakawa to cut short his speech last night at the University of Colorado.

An estimated 30 students, some members of the Students for a Democratic Society, yelled obscenities at Hayakawa before his speech and the shouting match erupted into a chair-throwing, fist-swinging melee. Chairs and pop bottles were thrown at the stage where Hayakawa stood but no one was seriously injured.

Campus security police stood by and restrained some students but arrested no one. A university administrator succeeded in calming the students.

Hayakawa, who at a news conference earlier in the day likened the SDS to Nazi storm troopers, spoke for about 45 minutes and said "mindless activism" was the cause of much of the unrest on the nation's college campuses.

"Democracy demands individuality," he said, "and one cannot let a mob take over."

Ater students became noisy again, Hayakawa finally gave up and left the podium.

"What is going on here," he shouted, demonstrates more effectively than any speech I can give the problems higher education confronts today."

The San Francisco State students went on strike last Nov. 6 for an autonomous black studies department, easier admission for minority students and reinstatement of George Mason Murray, the Black Panther education minister who was a part time instructor suspended for allegedly urging students to carry guns on the campus.

Murray is currently in jail for six months after pleading no contest to a charge of beating a student editor in 1967. His plea for release on a writ of habeas corpus was rejected yesterday by a San Francisco judge.

Ethnic Studies Discussion Set

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)— The Academic Senate of the University of California today planned to discuss a proposal by 80 faculty members to develop an experimental department "sufficiently flexible to allow evolution into a College of Ethnic Studies."

The proposal urges immediate establishment of a Department of Ethnic Studies. The chairman would report directly to the chancellor's office.

It asks that the department "reflect the diverse needs and interests of ethnic groups presently constituting the Third World Liberation Front." The front is the coalition of groups which is leading the strike by militant students now moving into its sixth week.

Burton Seeking Demo Leadership

Burton, 36, told a news conference it is important to have "a strong, active grass roots organization" in 1970 when Democrats try to capture the governorship and the U.S. Senate seat held by George Murphy.

Gerald Hill, a San Francisco attorney, announced earlier he is retiring as CDC head to run for secretary of state.

Warrant Issued For Missing Defendant

A bench warrant with bail set at $500 was issued yesterday by Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court for Jeffrey Lynn Evans, 20, of San Anselmo, who failed to appear in court.

Evans faces a charge of selling marijuana Oct. 1 in San Anselmo.

Pleads Guilty

Robert Alexander Donohoe, 19, of San Rafael, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of selling marijuana on Jan. 3, 1968. Judge Harold J. Haley set sentencing for April 7.

Six Drivers Get Drunken Driving Fines

Six men have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

James Paul Inskeep, 44, of 71 Frustuck Avenue, Fairfax, was fined $200 and placed on one year probation. He was arrested Jan. 5 in San Rafael.

John Leslie Donahue, 43, of 337 Woodside Terrace, Mill Valley, who was arrested Dec. 29 in Sausalito, was sentenced to five days in jail, fined $302 and placed on one year probation.

Wilbur Howard Rich, 56, of Carmel Hotel, San Rafael, was fined $120 and placed on six months probation. He was arrested Feb. 19 on Highway 101.

Clyde William Wilson, 40, of Vallejo, who was arrested Oct. 20 on Highway 101, was fined $50 and placed on six months probation.

Samuel Lindsay Adams, 57, of 107 Ross Street, San Rafael, was fined $150 and placed on six months probation. He was arrested Feb. 4 in San Rafael.

Curtis Charles Brown, 30, of 520 Sutter Street, Petaluma, who was arrested Wednesday on Highway 37, was fined $150 and placed on six months probation.

Mrs. Meir Is Leading Race To Become Premier

JERUSALEM (AP) — Mrs. Golda Meir, the Milwaukee schoolteacher who became Israel's leading woman politician, looked today like a shoo-in for interim prime minister of the Jewish nation.

The 70-year-old grandmother won overwhelming endorsement from the ruling Labor Party's leadership bureau yesterday, and reliable sources said she was virtually certain to accept the post.

Mrs. Meir had been reported reluctant to take the job because of her health, but she told an interviewer from the Milwaukee Journal Sunday: "I feel strong enough . . . It's just the prime minister's job is horrible, especially at a time like this when the country is in a state of continuing hostility with the Arabs."

No Trace Found Of Casino Plane

HAWTHORNE, Nev. (AP) — Snow up to six feet deep covers the mountains and valleys near the California-Nevada border where a DC3 airliner with 35 aboard disappeared Feb. 18.

Searchers—constantly hampered by harsh weather—haven't found a trace.

The Mineral County Airlines plane, with a crew of three, carried 32 passengers from Southern California who paid for a round trip to Barney's El Capitan Casino, 120 miles south of Reno.

Blount's Son Faces Charge

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) —Manslaughter charges resulting from a traffic accident were filed yesterday against the son of Postmaster General Winton M. Blount.

Winston M. Blount III was charged with manslaughter in the Sunday traffic death of his 24-year-old wife, Beverly.

The car her husband was driving collided with another automobile early Sunday. Blount suffered facial cuts and other minor injuries, but was not hospitalized.

Acting Police Chief E. P. Brown said Blount was released on $500 bond pending a city court hearing on the charges March 18. The offense is a misdemeanor in Alabama with a maximum sentence of $500 fine and-or a jail term of one year.

Judge Orders Trial On Marijuana Case

A motion to dismiss charges against Thomas Keynard Driskill, 21, of Alto, accused of possessing marijuana for sale, was denied yesterday in Marin Superior Court by Judge Harold J. Haley.

Driskill pleaded innocent to the charge, and a jury trial was set for the week of June 2.

Robert Fulton did not invest the first steamboat but he was the first to provide regular service to the public.

STUDENTS

"Violence will cease — or begin to cease — when those who are most concerned see evidence of real understanding and a definite desire to redress the problems," said Dick Minor, president of the San Jose State College students' association.

Woodside and Minor, who both said they opposed campus violence, testified before a hearing by the Assembly subcommittee on educational environment.

"Fifty to 75 per cent of the faculty are more in need of education than the students they are teaching," Minor said.

He said higher education lacked relevance for whites as well as blacks. "In the main, it's an artificial obstacle course which everyone runs . . ." he said.

Patrick Dowd of Sacramento State College, vice chairman of Young Americans for Freedom, told the committee the "silent majority" is a "chicken majority" for not actively opposing violence. He recommended that the legislature ask the colleges to set up hearing boards composed of faculty, administrators and state budget officials to hear student proposals.

Dowd also urged the Legislature to back campus administrators in opposing violence or seek their dismissal.

Bruce Angell of the Committee for an Academic Environment at San Francisco State College also strongly opposed actions by student demonstrators. But he also said the college administration has caused frustration by its failure to serve student needs.

Charles R. Brown, chairman of the Afro-American Students Union at U.C. Berkeley, said the university has lost sight of its goal to produce well-educated students. He said his group sought for 10 months to deal with U.C. administration before the current campus strike.

$200 Is Taken By Burglars Under Mattress

Burglars who entered the home of Martin T. Leis of 209 Emerystone Terrace, Marinwood, on Sunday found $200 under the mattress in the master bedroom, sheriff's deputies said today.

A screen had been pried off an unlocked window to gain entry.

Other burglaries reported included one at the David E. Stauffer home at 406 Maple Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, on Friday, in which a television set and stereo with two speakers had been taken.

Also on Friday Mark Altman of 68 Corte Amada, Greenbrae, told deputies that someone had broken into his car while it was parked in a lot at the College of Marin and stole a portable radio from the glove compartment.

Snow Rivals Depths In '52

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Snow depth survey crews have confirmed what long-time Sierra residents already know — that this winter rivals the big one of 1952.

Pacific Gas and Electric helicopters had some clear flying weather for a change yesterday and found 203 inches of snow at the 8,100-foot level in the Lower Relief Valley near the Stanislaus River headqaters. That compared with 160 inches on March 29, 1952.

Small Car Stolen With $580 In Loot

James Andrew Spencer of 331 D Street, San Rafael, reported Sunday his 1959 blue Volkswagen, license WHG-278, had been taken from in front of his home, police said today.

Spencer reported a bowling ball, roller skates, drafting and art equipment and supplies, valued at a total of about $580 were in the car.

OBITUARIES

G. Kirkham Smith Dies

Private funeral for G. Kirkham Smith, long time resident of San Rafael and a former city councilman, has been held and private burial will be in Portland, Ore.

Smith, 88, died Sunday in a local rest home.

A native of Concord, Mass., Smith lived in San Rafael from 1920 until he retired in 1950. Prior to his retirement, he served as secretary of the Inland Marine Underwriters Association and the Board of Marine Underwriters of San Francisco.

He was a member of the San Rafael City Council from 1937 to 1939 after he was appointed to fill the unexpired term of F. M. Borges.

Before entering the local rest home, Smith had been living with a daughter, Mrs. Nan Smith Johns, Portland, Ore. He is also survived by another daughter, Mrs. Kenneth E. Livingston of Toronto, Canada; a son, Alan Kirkham Smith of San Marino, Los Angeles County, and seven grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

should the ship be threatened by hostile forces.

But these plans contained no provision for standby air or naval forces in case of need, Moorer said. "There were no what one might call dedicated forces—standing on alert," he said.

In his statement, Moorer said the Pueblo was not large enough to carry any heavier armament than her .50-caliber machine guns and that it was never intended that she be able to conduct a "pitched battle" at sea. It was not believed bigger guns were needed anyway Moorer said, because "piracy on the high seas was considered unlikely."

Sanitary Board Changes Salary

Tiburon Sanitary District board last night voted to establish directors' salaries at $40 per month rather than $20 a meeting, secretary Robert A. Sterling reported.

Sterling said the change in salary allocations was made to save the district money since directors anticipate several meetings each month for the next several months while the board reviews the district's 1969-70 budget.

Directors also accepted a low bid of $23,520 from E. C. Cooley Co., of San Francisco for equipment for the district's new sewage treatment plant in Paradise Cove.

Sterling said work will start on the new plant as soon as weather permits and will be completed within 90 days of starting.

Denial Made To Sewage Charge

Edwin S. Long, secretary of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, denied yesterday that the utility had by-passed raw sewage into Richardson Bay.

The denial was made in a letter to County Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht. Dr. Albrecht had advised local residents last week that shellfish taken from the bay had shown signs of "gross sewage contamination." She said heavy rainfalls had caused Sausalito-Marin City district and several others to by-pass the sewage directly into the bay.

Long said his district had not had to resort to by-passing this winter for the first time despite the heavy rains. He added that the district had been working to solve this problem for some time.

Rugs Stolen

Barbara Alice Burnett of 201 D Street, San Rafael, reported yesterday that six throw rugs valued at about $100 were taken from the laundry room of her apartment house sometime Sunday night, police said.

MOTHER LEAVES COURT — Held by her youngest son, Munir, Mrs. Mary Sirhan leaves after testifying in the trial of her son Sirhan, on charges he slew Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. (AP Wirephoto)

Sirhan Smiles, Tells Jurors Of Youth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Sirhan, who began his own defense by admitting he assassinated Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, told in smiling and relaxed fashion today of his early years in the United States after his family fled Palestine.

"I didn't want to leave. I wanted to say in my own country," the young Jordanian told the jury in his second day on the witness stand. "I thought that things would subside."

Sirhan, charged with murder and on trial for his life, answered every question with "sir" and seemed eager to reply.

RECALLS BATTLES

He began his story yesterday by telling of scenes of war in his childhood days in Jerusalem, torn by fighting between Arabs and Zionists. He continued today by speaking of an incident in which the French consulate in the old city of Jerusalem was ransacked by Arabs. He said that later one of his teachers in Jerusalem spoke of it.

"He said this is the wrong way of going about it—there should be negotiations," Sirhan said.

"Did you believe that?" asked defense counsel Grant B. Cooper.

"Yes sir, I did. He was very mad about it—angry that Arabs did the same the Zionists did."

The defense contends that the shooting of Kennedy was occasioned by the New York senator's support of Israel and that the trauma of a wartime childhood diminished Sirhan's mental capacity to plan the assassination.

BROUGHT TO U.S.

The Sirhan family was brought to this country by a United Nations relief organization and moved to nearby Pasadena.

Sirhan was asked if he found it difficult to adjust to school in America.

A. No sir. I was very anxious to attend.

Q. Did you work hard at school?

A. I tried my best.

He said his father remained in Pasadena only about six or eight months, then returned to the Middle East.

Q. How long did he remain away?

A. Ever since.

Sirhan's tone was almost casual yesterday when he admitted he took Kennedy's life.

The 24-year-old Jordanian had admitted before that he was the senator's assassin, but that was in stormy sessions out of the hearing of the jury. By contrast he was composed and polite yesterday as he faced the eight men and four women who could sentence him to death.

Pair Back In Custody As Tiburon Burglary Suspects

Two young men, already facing burglary charges in Marin Municipal Court, were arrested yesterday after Tiburon sheriff's deputies found in their car items allegedly stolen from a plush Tiburon home only minutes before.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary were Gordon K. Jennings, 21, of 25 Sierra Vista, Novato, and Andrew M. Gillespie III, 19, of 808 A Street, San Rafael.

A third companion, Michael Overstreet, 20, of 320 C Street, San Rafael, was also arrested but released when the district attorney's office did not file a complaint against him.

Deputies said they received an anonymous telephone call at 11:30 a.m. yesterday that the Raymond Groo residence at 150 Round Hill Road had just been entered by unknown youths.

Responding officers saw the youths in a car driving in front of the house and stopped them. Some of the jewelry and money taken from the Groo residence was in the car, deputies said.

Jennings and Gillespie were arrested Feb. 21 in San Rafael in connection with burglaries which police say ran into thousands of dollars worth of merchandise.

They were arraigned yesterday in Municipal Court on the new charges and the case was continued until today.

Both are free on $3,125 bail.

Dumping Spoils In Alcatraz Area Asked

Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce directors yesterday urged the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission to allow the City of Mill Valley to dump its dredging spoils from the Saucelito Canal into deep water near Alcatraz Island.

In a letter to the BCDC, the board said the dredging of the canal was necessary for the city to develop its small craft harbor, secretary Carol Healy reported.

Parent Upset Over Track Haircut Rules

Gordon Pusser, who has a son on the track team, told the Tamalpais High School District board that 55 out of 56 track athletes have signed a petition objecting to track coach Gary Shaw's ruling.

His son will be a test case, said Pusser, and he requested the board to do something about hair rules until he can get an injunction against the school to see that boys are not dropped from the team.

Pusser told trustees that the athletic department has ruled that anyone whose hair does not meet the coach's standards of "reasonable length" be dismissed today from the team.

Trustees were sympathetic to Pusser's complaint but said they could do nothing until they receive a report from school principal Donald Kreps, Edward J. Neumeier, administrative assistant, reported.

Kreps, not at last night's meeting, today told the Independent-Journal that he sees no problem. He explained that no one has been dropped from the track team and the team will hold its first intersquad meet today.

The whole subject was introduced last Thursday by a student body representative, Kreps reported, and both athletes and all coaches agreed to rules and regulations. They cover grooming, smoking, drinking, reasonable hours and grades.

Hair must be cut a "reasonable length," Kreps said. Asked what "reasonable" means, he replied, "Just what it says," but no specific number of inches for hair length is spelled out.

Pusser complained last October to the board about discrimination at Redwood against long-haired athletes, saying the rule denied many boys from participating in sports. At that time the board left the matter up to the coaches' discretion.

On-Campus Housing Draws Fire

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved a resolution asking the state to give more study to the need for on-campus housing at Sonoma State College.

The council objected to plans for a 600-unit dormitory, saying that housing needs are being met by private developers in off-campus apartment buildings. Copies of the resolution will be sent to state legislators, the state College Board of Trustees and college officials.

Councilman Jimmie W. Rogers had charged that on-campus housing would empty apartments and bring financial havoc upon owners. Students are paying an average of $240 per month for a two bedroom apartment often shared by four students at $60 per month.

Ambrose R. Nichols Jr., Sonoma state president, had requested the board of trustees delay consideration of the dormitory until later this month.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Bradley W. Koch, director of public safety, who has accepted a position in Sacramento with the California Police Officers Standards and Training Commission and will leave on March 31. Koch has served in Rohnert Park for four years.

SECRETARY — Introduced an ordinance amendment giving secretarial services to the cultural arts commission.

HIPPIES — Introduced an ordinance prohibiting sitting, lying or sleeping on streets, sidewalks or public places as recommended by the Sonoma County District Attorney's office as a means of curbing "hippie" types.

SURVEY — Approved an agreement to pay the state Department of Finance $150 to survey the current population of the city.

REZONING — Approved the request of Bart C. Mitchell to rezone two lots on Arlen Drive from single-family residential to multiple-family to allow apartment construction.

FIREWORKS — Approved permit for United Faith Presbyterian Church to sell fireworks at the shopping center mall from June 29 through July 5.

Highway Death Rate Decreases

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's highway death rate fell by an estimated 4 per cent during 1968, Transportation Secretary Gordon C. Luce said today.

Luce said 4,853 persons were killed on California's 163,000 miles of state highways, city streets and county roads, or about 4.4 deaths for each 100 million miles of vehicle travel. The 1967 toll was 4,883.

Motorists drove more than 110 billion miles on California roads last year, Luce estimated.

He said the opening of about 200 miles of new freeway and improvement of other roads contributed to the improved safety record.

Apartment Looted

Calvin Earl Fisher of 400 Canal Street, reported yesterday that three sweaters, two watches and a quantity of quarters valued at a total of about $260 were taken from his apartment while he napped from 5 to 6:30 p.m., police said.

Novato Teens Give Panel Center Plans

The teen-agers of Novato want a teen center and last night about 30 of them presented their request to the Novato Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission.

The teen-agers want a center of approximately 5,500 square feet which could be used for dancing, the commission was told by Gary Collings who represented the teen-agers who call themselves the Teen Action Committee.

Th teen-agers feel that they can support their use if such a center by charging a $2 membership fee and then having other recreation activities in the same building. These would be paid for by the city which would help maintain the center, according to Shirley Lane, secretary.

The group did not mention any specific site which they might want, she said.

The commission took the request under advisement for further study by the staff.

Novato Parks And Recreation Commission

COMMUNITY HOUSE — Received a letter from Mrs. William Carpenter of 2425 Center Road, requesting that some touch-up painting be done to the community house. Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director, said that the work would be done over the Easter vacation.

LAND — Voted to reject an offer from the state Division of Highways to sell six acres of land at the Ignacio overpass at $15,000 per acre. The commission will recommend against this purchasr of land to the Novato City Council.

PARK — Postponed for one month, consideration of putting a park on a half-acre tanks site on the hill above Avllejo Avenue and Seventh Street which was offered to the city by the North Marin County Water District.

MEETING — Requested a joint meeting with the beautification committee tentatively set for 8 p.m., April 7, at the Novato Community House.

Petaluman Is Held In Jail On Drug Probe

A Petaluma man was arraigned in Central Municipal Court in Santa Rosa yesterday on charges of possession of marijuana and possession of marijuana for sale.

Ervin Hailton Sutley Jr., 24, of 490 Penngrove Avenue, was held in lieu of $1,875 bail to appear at 8:45 a.m. tomorrow for a probation report. A preliminary hearing was set for March 10.

Sutley was arrested by Cotati police yesterday at 2:35 a.m. after a high speed chase that began in Cotati and ended in a secluded spot on Presley Road, east of Rohnert Park.

Police said Sutley fled when they attempted to stop his car on old Redwood Highway, Cotati. They said a large quantity of marijuana was found in his car.

Science Center Drawings Studied

The board is expected to give approval and put the job out for bids in about a month, reported Dale A. Fleming, director of planning.

Construction on the center, estimated to cost $2.100.000, is planned to start this summer with completion set for January 1971.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Key To Double Is An Entry To Your Partner's Hand

Beware of doubling a resourceful opponent when you have no way to reach your partner's hand. Your partner's inability to win an early trick so as to make a helpful return may cost you a trick. Your double may cost you another trick by warning declarer to look for trouble.

COULD GET RICH

West thought he was going to get rich against four hearts, but the gold actually flowed in the other direction. West's void in his partner's diamond suit was far from an asset; West would have been far better off if he could have given East a trump in exchange for a small diamond.

South won the first trick in dummy with the ace of spades and ruffed a spade. He then cashed the top clubs and ruffed a club in dummy.

East's failure to overruff confirmed South's impression that the high trumps were stacked behind him. South ruffed another spade, ruffed another club in dummy and then ruffed dummy's last spade.

HITS DEFENDERS

When South led his last club West ruffed with the eight of hearts. By this time South had taken eight tricks, and West was demoralized. West could have held South to 10 tricks by returning a trump, but West actually led his last spade.

South ruffed with the ten of hearts and led his diamond. West had to ruff and then had to lead trumps, giving South a free finesse with the A-Q of hearts.

South scored 990 points for the doubled game, rubber and overtrick. If West had not doubled South would have scored 650 points at most and might even have found a way to go down by leading a trump from dummy or some such idiocy.

COULD SAVE

Losing the rubber on a hand like this is bad enough, but there is no need to give the opponents an additional 340 points — together with a warning that the trumps are stacked.

Insurance Policies Limited For Youths

NEW YORK (UPI)—Family health insurance protection for your son or daughter usually ends when they reach age 19, reports the Health Insurance Institute.

Protection also ends when your youngster marries, although some policies will continue coverage to age 25 for unmarried, full-time students dependent on parental support.

A Bold Jump Slated Next For Theater

By LARRY D. HATFIELD
(Second of two articles)

"Now I am a tin whistle
Through which God blows,
And I wish to God I were a trumpet,
And why, God only knows."

That wistful little quatrain by the English parodist J. C. Squire not only provides the title to Festival Theater's next attraction, a bold jump into experimental theater, it also, intentionally or not, provides a prologue for a completely new chapter in the popular theater group's history.

Not that the theater group has even considered itself a "tin whistle," but it has decided to become more of a trumpet in the avant-garde of American theater.

Festival Theater, is, as the title of the four-line Squire poem suggests, dawning on "A Fresh Morning." Led by its founder and present director Elizabeth Berryhill, Festival has decided it will depart from its history of traditional and, in the last two years, children's theater, to a frankly experimental operation aimed at coping in a revolutionary world.

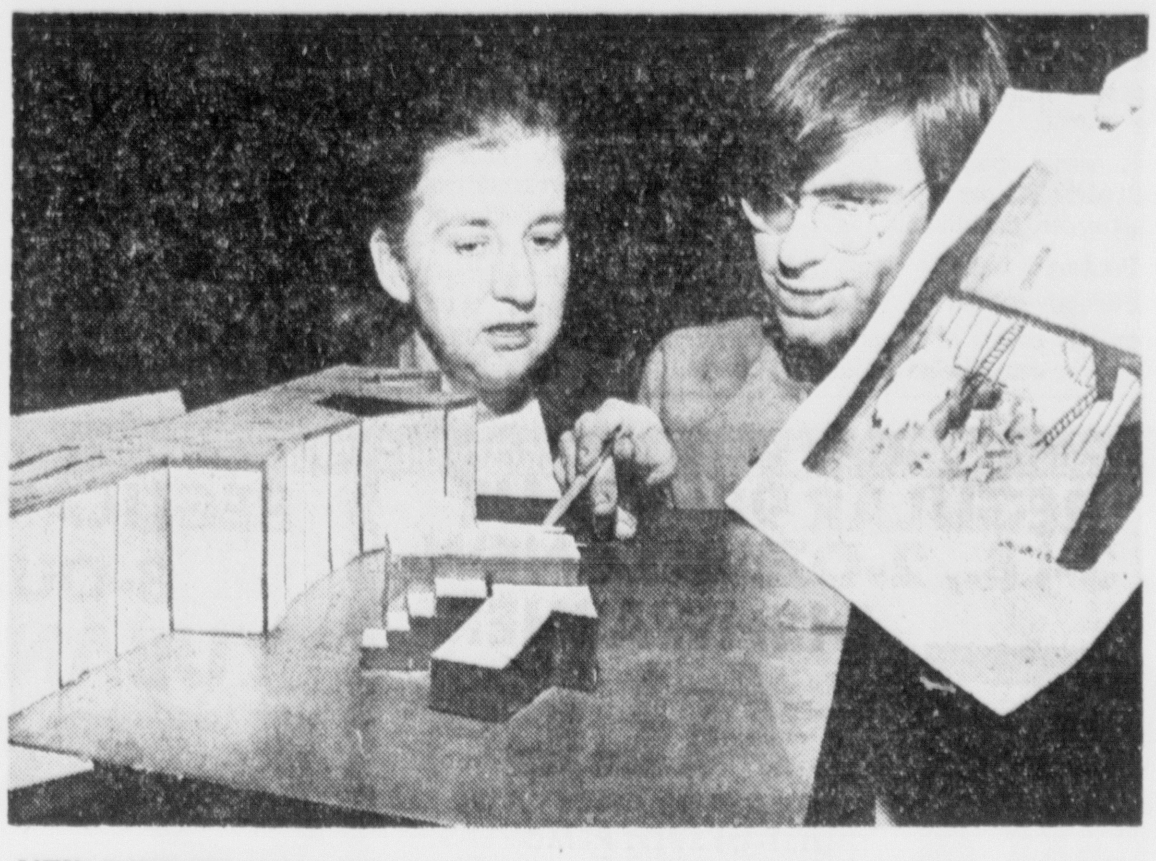
The vehicle Festival chose to launch its new direction is a "mixed media" musical play called "I Wish I Were a Trumpet," with a book by Miss Berryhill, music by New York composer Mark Bucci and lyrics by both.

The premiere of "Trumpet" will be held for the theater's backers at Festival Theater at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo on May 2. Jack M. Atkin, administrative director of Festival, said all performances for the first six weeks of "Trumpet" will be presold to groups and organizations and to individuals on the theater's mailing list. The theater will be dark the rest of June, reopen in July and play through Labor Day.

The so-called mixed media concept, in its infancy in American theater, utilizes a wide range of communications media, live and electronic; actors who act, mime, sing and dance; live and electronic music and noise and both still and motion pictures.

The musical satire has been characterized by Henry May, chairman of the University of California drama department who saw a preview, as a "real breakthrough in musical theater." He called the show "most unusual . . . refreshing and original."

The theme of "Trumpet" is "games people play." Miss Berryhill describes those games as "the pretend-games children play when they put on their elders' clothes and try to find out what life is really like; the phony games adults play when they're trying to pretend life isn't what they know it really is; the theater games actors play on stage when, like children, they try to discover the nature of reality; and the simulation games people play these days with their computers in order to predict, make 'surprise-free' and thus control the future."



NEW DIRECTIONS—Festival Theater founder Beth Berryhill and set designer William King are involved in more than setting the stage for a bold new experiment in theatrical production. Plans are also afoot for an endowed theatrical community. (Independent-Journal photo)

The idea of the "simulation games" requires that a giant computer be a member of the cast. In the play, the computer, calling itself "The Thinker," prints out its dialogue and becomes deeply involved with and dominating of the humans in the play.

The compelling presence of the computer as a serio-comic stimulus in the play allows a wide degree of latitude for experimenting with the mixed media concept. So, too, does the fact that the hero, a struggling young playwright, is in love with the theater and its abstractions and a very human girl and her very human reality.

Atkin said Festival will take "Trumpet" on a western states university tour this fall and is negotiating a network television performance of it.

Festival will continue to experiment with mixed media in its future efforts, Atkin said, aimed at involving the audience more and more in the theater experience.

Sonoma Board Eyes Offer Of Voting Machines Trial

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Petaluma may become the first city in Sonoma County to install automatic voting machines if the board of supervisors accepts the offer of the Automatic Voting Machine Co. of Jamestown, N.Y.

County Clerk Eugene D. Williams told the board yesterday that he had received an offer from the company to furnish 25 machines at no cost for the June 10 municipal election and board of education election.

M. O. Doolittle Jr., executive vice president, said the company would supply the machines and conduct training programs for precinct workers in the operation of the machines. He said the company would also pay costs for programming the equipment and would assist the city and county in preparing the necessary printed material used by the machines.

Williams said that according to Doolittle's letter, the county could later lease or purchase the machines, but would not be under any obligation to do so. The clerk also noted that the machines would cut the number of necessary precincts approximately in half.

The supervisors took the offer under consideration.

The Sonoma County Supervisors Also:

PARK — Held a public hearing on the purchase of 208 acres north of Kenwood for the proposed county park at Mount Hood. The largest portion of the 900-acre park was purchased at $2.50 per acre as surplus property of the federal government. The supervisors said the cost for the purchase of the private land would be more than $93,000. At no cost to the county, the funds would be provided by state park bonds and a federal grant.

AGENDA — Rejected the continuing complaint from George Orr of the Irate Taxpayers Association of Sonoma County, that board agendas be prepared at least a week in advance so that weekly newspapers might publish items of interest to the public. Agendas for the Monday and Tuesday meetings are now ready for distribution on Fridays at 3 p.m.

PAY INCREASE — Received report from Dist. Atty. Kiernan Hyland that the 1968 grand jury recommended his salary be increased from $21,500 to $24,000 per year. A resoultion to that effect will be ocnsidered next week.

SALARIES — Received request from Rolland C. Webb, clerk of the Petaluma Municipal Court, Southern Judicial District, that salaries for the three court employees be reclassified by the state Legislature. The board will consider requesting a bill to make the new salaries permanent. The court employees receive similar increases as county employees, but must be approved by the Legislature.

Underground Help Sought From County

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A $275,500 plan to assist Sonoma County cities in the undergrounding of utility lines was presented yesterday to the board of supervisors.

Neal D. Smith, recently retired county administrator, told the board the $158,100 the cities now have for undergrounding is insufficient to do individual projects of any magnitude and proposed that county funds be used on a matching basis.

In Southern Sonoma County, the balance left for undergrounding to the cities is — Petaluma, $51,400; Cotati, $2,500; and Rohnert Park, $8,500. The funds were allocated by the State Public Utilities Commission in 1968 and 1969 and will be lost if not used, he said.

Under Smith's plan, the smaller cities such as Cotati and Rohnert Park could receive a maximum of $15,000 and larger cities like Petaluma and Santa Rosa would receive maximums of $25,000.

If the proposed maximum were alloted to each city, the county would be providing $117,400 out of its total allotment of $298,926. Smith said this would still leave $181,526 for projects in the unincorporated areas.

"It appears that since the greatest congestion of traffic and the concentration of people is in the cities, that it is reasonable to allocate at least some of the county money to projects within the cities," Smith said.

The supervisors took the plan under consideration and set a public hearing for Monday at 11:15 a.m.

DRAMA REVIEW

Royal Shakespeare's 'Much Ado' Pleases

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — The Royal Shakespeare Company opened a week's engagement at the Curran Theater last night with a rollicking production of "Much Ado About Nothing."

The company, one of the most distinguished troupes in the theater today, was given an enthuastic reception. It was a memorable evening for lovers of the Bard. While "Much Ado" had all "musts" of a true Shakespearean production, it also had the flavor of some of today's modern theater.

Shakespeare was one playwright who said hang the length. Thanks to the distinguished cast led by Alan Howard as Benedick and Janet Suzman as Beatrice, the scenes moved along in kaleidoscopic fashion intertwining bright costumes, subtle lighting, excellent use of strolling musicians and a spartan stage.

"Much Ado" is basically two love stories of Claudio and Hero and the confirmed "bachelors," Benedick and Beatrice.

Where one couple is ready for blissful life (Claudio and Hero), the others must be "coaxed" to the altar. Here lies the success of the play, the comedy element. The RSC was superb in fashioning this off and on again romance.

Howard's Benedick is a marvel. Without uttering a word, he can convey with facial expression the intent of the spoken word.

Bernhard Lloyd as the youthful and handsome Claudio and Helen Mirren as Hero were charming as well as well-versed in delivery of the sometimes complicated dialogue.

Without the help of Norman Rodway's cunning Don Pedro, and the authoritive command of Sebastian Shaw as Leonato, the father of Hero and uncle of Beatrice, the production could have sagged. Herein lies the strength of such a company — each actor is accomplished in many given roles. Terrance Hardiman as the villan John, and his accomplice Borachio by Patrick Stewart, proved this also.

Adding comedy relief was the delightful David Waller as Dogberry, a constable who is not above taking a coin or two for his judgment, and Verges, his assistant, expertly played by Clifford Rome.

For this reviewer the setting up of Benedick for the romantic "kill" was the highpoint of the evening. It was rare comic interchange carried off in most satrical fashion.

"Much Ado" continues today and tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. with a matinee at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow. "Dr. Faustus" will open on Thursday, continuing through Sunday.

Marin Folk Dancers Will Join Festival

A delegation of Marin folk dancers will participate in the annual Camellia Pageant and Festival Saturday and Sunday in Sacramento.

"SAFEGUARDING YOUR TEEN-AGER AGAINST DRUGS"

What can you do if your son or daughter has a "drug problem"? Or if you suspect your youngster is mixed up with "mind expanding drugs" or tempted by them? Are drug-takers "cool" or simply naive?

One positive step is to read this series in the I-J, starting Monday, March 10, by the prize-winning science writer, Alton Blakeslee. This is the first time, as far as we know, that there has been a thorough roundup of information in this area. It has been endorsed by medical and law enforcement authorities. Dr. Dan L. Farnsworth of Harvard says Blakeslee's work represents a new high in responsible reporting of all aspects of the current drug problem in the United States. Blakeslee's research is painstaking, authoritative, and of impressive depth and breadth. The series is "must" reading for everyone concerned with the problem posed by drugs today.

900 ACRE CAMPSITE FOR SCOUTS

More than 900 acres of campsite property eight miles southwest of Ukiah has been given to the Marin Council, Boy Scouts of America, by Ralph H. Ruppert, owner of San Francisco Materials Co. in San Francisco, according to James E. Egger, council president.

The camp will bear Ruppert's name and will be maintained as a wilderness camp.

The new camp gives the Marin Council a total of more than 2,000 acres of camp property. Already in use are Tamarancho near Fairfax with more than 840 acres and Marin Sierra Camp near Immigrant Gap, Nevada County, about 260 acres.

High-Rise Development To Bay Panel

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two major projects proposed in Richardson Bay — a $25 million high-rise development on 15 acres and the dredging of the Saucelito Canal — will be heard by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission at 2 p.m. Thursday in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

The high-rise development, proposed by Sausalito Associates, had its first hearing before the BCDC in October, but the applicants requested a postponement of further discussion so they could prepare answers to questions raised about their proposal. Conservationists strongly opposed it in the commission hearing.

16-STORY HOTEL

The developers' master plan envisioned an 850-room hotel about 16 stories high, a 130-room motel of about 10 stories, a "boatel-motel facility" with shops up to four stories high, restaurant, gas station, shoreline parkway, eight-acre lagoon and "transportation center" for boats and helicopters.

The application had been amended, however, to reduce the fill, formerly almost 17 acres, by 1.5 acres, and to reduce the number of rooms in the hotel from 850 to 550, the BCDC staff reported. "One vertical structure" would have 400 to 450 rooms, according to the amended application, and the rest of the rooms would be "in two and three-story structures at the water's edge."

MUD PROBLEM

The dredging of the Saucelito Canal for 2.5 miles from the Army Corps of Engineers turning basin to the proposed Mill Valley small craft harbor would raise the problem of what to do with some 700,000 cubic yards of mud. The application by the county proposed that the mud be dumped near Alcatraz.

The cost of the project will be about $1 million, according to the application from the county, and would be shared by the Corps of Engineers, the City of Mill Valley and owners of property along the canal, which is not navigable at low tide.

The dredged channel bottom would be 150 feet wide between the turning basin and the Richardson Bay Bridge, and 100 feet wide from the bridge to the Mill Valley harbor. It would be eight feet deep at mean lower low water.

New Oil Slick Now 18 Miles In Length

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — An unpredictable offshore oil leak, its flow diminished but still steady, today fed an 18-mile long slick off the southern California coast. Favorable winds kept the mess away from shore.

The Coast Guard reported an aerial survey showed the slick was in the shape of a fishhook, with the point at the Union Oil Co. drilling platform 5.5 miles from the coast and its head curving to within a mile of already contaminated beaches.

You Can Buy Belvedere's City Code For $35 A Copy

Belvedere's city code — a publication which never made anybody's best seller list — got a hefty $35 per copy price tag last night.

Belvedere's city councilmen last night set the figure as the price of the 221-page publication which contains all of the city's ordinances.

Copies of the code will be made available to anyone wishing one and copies of all new ordinances or amendments to old ones will automatically be mailed to anyone with a code.

By law, a city may charge for a copy of its codes as long as the price does not exceed the amount the city had to pay to have the code printed, city manager William L. Cavalli told the council.

It would cost the city of Belvedere $35 per copy on a 100-copy order, Cavalli said.

Persons wanting only a particular section of the code may buy copies at 25 cents per page, the council also decided.

The Belvedere City Council Also:

Granted part-time clerk Mrs. Angelia MacKinnon a raise from $2.50 to $2.75 per hour and authorized a representative of the city's police department to attend the Homicide Investigation Institute later this month at California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo.

Computer In Use On False Alarms

BOSTON (AP) — Fire Commissioner James H. Kelly is using a computer to predict false alarms.

The date, time of day, weather conditions, fire alarm box number and other data for every false alarm received in 1968 were run through a computer, which correlated the information—in effect predicting the time and place of false alarms this year.

False alarm patrols concentrate their efforts in areas where the computer predicts a false alarm is likely to be sounded. About one every 12 minutes was sounded in Boston last year.

'Oakland 7' Defense Plays Upon Activities By Police

OAKLAND (AP) — The defense in the trial of seven men arrested during the 1967 Stop the Draft Week demonstrations is stressing police actions near the Oakland Military Induction Center.

The seven men are charged with conspiring to commit misdemeanor acts in obstructing police and trespassing.

Those who testified included Stephen J. Lindstedt, a San Francisco housepainter who was once a Berkeley policeman' the Rev. Claire Nesmith of San Francisco's Park Presidio Methodist Church; Marie Johnson, a vocational nurse' and Franklin S. Kimball Jr. an Alameda County deputy probation officer.

Biafrans Cut Off Nigerian Troops

LAGOS, Nigeria (London Express) — A Marine commando battalion of the Federal Nigerian forces was trying yesterday to break free after being cut off by a rebel pincer movement at Owerri, on the southern front.

The surrounded troops have had to be supplied by airdrop after Biafrans cut off main supply routes into the town, an important communications center. Nigeria's defense ministry said transport aircraft were used to drop supplies of food and ammunition to 2,000 men of the 16th Battalion of the Third Division.

For several days there has been no news from this front and government officials back in Lagos have been waiting for a progress report. But yesterday an international observer team visiting the battle area was prevented from going towards Owerri after rebels jubilantly claimed success and said there was fighting in the streets.

Symington Lashes Cost Of Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, third-ranking Democrat on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said today an antiballistic missile system thick enough to foil a Soviet attack could cost $400 billion—more than the national debt.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate, the Missourian said he based his prediction on a study made by the Brookings Institution, a Washington-based research organization.

He said the study was "cited a few weeks ago by the Department of Defense itself in its logical defense of the relatively small additional cost incident to the production of the C5A transport plane."

ESTIMATES CITED

It said in part, "During the 1950s, virtually all large military contracts reflected acceptance by the military agencies of contractor estimates which proved highly optimistic. Such contracts ultimately involved costs in excess of original contractual estimates of from 300 to 700 per cent."

Symington said the cost of the "thick Soviet system could be over $400 billion. Let us note in passing—especially to those prone to accept without question all new weapons systems—that this latter figure is more than the current national debt."

He asked, "How can the American people now be asked to bear such a gigantic additional burden in order to finance the production and development of a system whose operational capability its strongest proponents admit may not be adequate to do the job it is designed to do?"

The national debt is approaching its legal limit of $365 billion but President Nixon has asked Congress to increase it so the government can pay its bills before income tax payments begin to flood in.

ANTIMISSILE STAND

Symington has opposed deployment of an antiballistic missile system, but says he does not oppose research into the feasibility of one.

The Johnson administration was committed to installing the Sentinel system, a "thin" system ostensibly designed to defend against any nuclear missile attack Communist China might be able to launch in the 1970s. But the Nixon administration has halted work for a review of the program.

(Among sites proposed for the Sentinel system are the Wolfback Ridge area above Sausalito and Angel Island in Marin County. Before the review began, the Army had begun feasibility tests on Wolfback Ridge.)

Symington said estimated cost of the "thin" system already has jumped from an original 1967 estimate of $3.5 billion to $5 billion in 1968, and is now closer to $10 billion.

Critics charge that the "thin" system would be a foot in the door for development of a larger one aimed at defending against an attack by the Soviet Union, which they contend would accelerate the arms race.

$8.65 Million Suit Dismissed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three suits seeking $8.65 million from chairman Charles B. Thornton of Litton Industries Inc., and other defendants have been dismissed because the plaintiff's attorney refused to proceed with the case.

Attorney Harold Rhoden said yesterday he was convinced Superior Court Judge Rhone was biased against him.

Rhoden tried unsuccessfully a year ago to disqualify Judge Rhone after the judge set aside a $6,125,000 verdict returned by a jury in a libel suit brought against Thornton and others.

The lawyer said the present case should have been assigned to a judge other than Rhone. He said he would appeal.

$822,738 For Two County School Budgets Get Swift Panel Nod

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

The Marin County Board of Education last night gave swift approval to two school budgets totaling $822,738 proposed by the county schools office.

Accepting with almost no discussion a recommendation by three of its committees which met last week, the board approved a budget of $396,288 as the county's share of the 1969-70 schools budget. The requests were $71,253 higher than the estimated expenditures this school year.

The board, taking only seven minutes to complete action on it, also approved requests totaling $426,450 for the county school service fund, up $17,576 from this year.

Money in the service fund comes from state and federal aid while the other funds come from the county and must be approved by the board of supervisors.

Before the board approved the budgets, Byron Mauzy, business service director of the schools office, repeated his warning of last week that the schools are facing a "potential disaster" in getting paychecks to the county's 11,000 teachers and other school personnel.

Mauzy again urged a drastic overhaul of the school' payroll system, which is now handled by the county's data processing unit at the Civic Center.

Maintaining that the system is outmoded and overburdened, Mauzy told the board, "We're not going to get the checks out someday and then we're all going to be in hot water."

The schools office asked for $25,000 to put into operation a computerized system like those already operating in such counties as Contra Costa and Alameda or contracting with a private data processing firm to handle the school payroll.

Insisting the schools cannot wait for proposed modernization of the Civic Center data processing operation, Mauzy said the payroll system must be improved "as quickly as possible, meaning right now."

The data processing request was the largest single increase sought in the budget which also asked for more funds for Juvenile Hall for expanded counseling services and for the County Committee on School District Organization to pay for the expected election on a proposal splitting the Tamalpais High School District into three districts.

The only "no" vote cast was by Patrick Pollock who objected to the budget being lumped together for action with a variety of other items, including the hiring of a new $17,000-a-year official.

The board approved the hiring of Hollis Howard Moore, a 26-year-old doctoral candidate at Stanford, as director of the schools' new program to train and increase the use of teacher aides.

Pollock said he would like more time to talk to the other members about the "propriety of hiring someone at $17,000 a year without any experience."

Board member James A. Carroll also expressed reservations about approving Moore's hiring without further consideration but did not vote against it. Marilyn Crowell and board vice president Arnold Dolcini Jr. also objected to lumping the budget with other items for approval but their objections came after the vote was already taken on the whole package.

Moore will start his new job, which will involve the San Anselmo, Tamalpais and special education schools, immediately, schools officials said.

Although budget consideration took less than a half hour altogether, the board had an unusually long three-and-a-half hour meeting, the last hour of which was in closed session to discuss the board's strategy for contract negotiations with teachers.

The meeting also was lengthened by two old and very familiar topics — school district unification and "fiscal responsibility" by the board.

Mary Ann Cowperthwaite, of San Anselmo, told the board she represented a group which felt the plan to split the Tam district into three districts was "financially and fiscally unsound."

The committee on school district organization has called public hearings on the proposal later this month with an eye towards a possible October election.

Mrs. Cowperthwaite urged the board to back election procedures which would make the election districtwide. Either of the other two choices — allowing each district to "decide its own destiny" or requiring that each district approve before the split could be made — would be "unfair" and "undemocratic," she said.

Virgil S. Hollis, county schools superintendent, told the board he became more convinced "every day in every way" that the board rather than the supervisors should have the budget authority for schools.

But he told the board he would not make a plea to the supervisors for such autonomy unless board members indicated they want it.

The Marin County Board of Education Also:

DEAFNESS — Authorized the county office to enter an agreement with the Kentfield district to ensure that the county will pay the required 50 per cent of all costs of a four-classroom unit for the deaf at the Adaline E. Kent School. Kentfield trustees had expressed fears that the deaf program might be abandoned and it would be stuck with the cost of the building.

APHASICS — Approved establishment of a county special day program for aphasics. Six school districts have requested the program which could affect 20 school children in the county.

GIFT — Accepted a gift from the Marin Parents of Hearing Handicapped Children which will provide up to $1,000 the remainder of the school year to pay for a teacher aide for kindergarten deaf children.

CALENDAR — Approved proposed school calendars for this year's summer program and for the 1969-70 school year.

Sugar cane provides about 58 per cent of the world's sugar supply.

Patrolman Gets Reprimand For Mace Spraying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police Chief Thomas Cahill says a patrolman has been reprimanded and taken off the tactical squad for bad judgment —spraying Mace on a woman prisoner.

Cahill said yesterday that after reviewing a 527-page report made by three department captains, he was disposing of the case with "an official reprimand to Tactical Squad Officer James G. Aligo."

Hazel Fuller and her daughters, Wayzel and Winifred, were arrested Feb. 7 after a car driven by Charmaine Chatham, 24, struck their parked vehicle.

Police, who later dropped the charges at the request of Mayor Joseph Alioto, said the three had refused to leave the scene of an accident and had resisted arrest.

Aligo, 30, said he sprayed Mace on Wayzel Fuller after she tried to kick him.

Designing Is Her Big Thing

By JOAN LISETOR

"All I really miss in England are my parents and the pubs — in that order," says a pretty young English girl.

The expatriate, Mrs. Stephen Hall, has lived in Sausalito for five years and thinks it's super.

"SUPER" IS a favorite word for the young mother, wife, model, actress, designer, who leads a whirlwind life enjoying everything she does.

"I ran away from home at 17," Jan Hall says. "Well, I really didn't run away, but I went to work in London. In England girls are younger when they get out in the world. Actually many parents live on the coast just 75 miles from London, so my mother could still keep an eye on me."

She ran away to an advertising agency.

A traveling Sausalito native, Steve Hall, had been touring Europe with a friend for a couple of years, landed in London and decided to take a job with an advertising agency.

AS LUCK would have it, it was the firm Jan has been working for for the past two or three years. The two met, fell in love were married and after a year or so in England he brought her back to his native Sausalito, where she promptly fell in love again — with the city.

"This is it. I'd never want to live anywhere else," she says. "I love to wander into downtown Sausalito. It has such a European feeling and such a cross section of people."

The Halls have a five-year-old daughter, Nicola, who is Jan's favorite model when she is designing children's clothes.

"I almost went into business designing and manufacturing children's clothes and even went so far as to have a fashion show with some of my designs and some of a friend, Joanne Rossman, who lives in Mill Valley," she says.

"I think children's clothes are so dull, so we used far out fabrics that were very impractical and lots of vivid colors. The fashion show was a success, but Joanne and I decided we really didn't want to go into business."

BOREDOM LED to a professional modeling career for the versatile Britisher.

"A friend suggested I sign with Collier's agency and when they went out of business I went over to Brebner Casting Agency. I've modeled and done some television commercials with them," she says.

"I worked in the tea party scene in 'Bullitt.' It was fun because I had many friends there, but what we did mostly was stand around from 7 in the morning until 5 o'clock at night, and then when I went to see the movie I couldn't find myself."

Jan says she is too entrenched in designing now for any more acting or more than occasional modeling.

"DESIGNING IS my big thing now," she declares.

A rock group that seems on the road to success, MC Squared, is wearing Jan Hall designed costumes.

"Designing for them is fun because you can go wild," says Jan.

A little more serious, but still on the fun side according to Jan, is designing she has been doing for a restaurant chain for the past two years.

"Manning has been opening restaurants with a variety of themes including old English and Swedish, and they have me look at the decor of the new restaurant and then submit a design for the waitresses uniforms.

"I MAKE a sample, take it to a board meeting, where we hash it around, and when it is accepted I find the right manufacturer. Then with the manufacturer I hash around production problems and finding the right fabric, one that is soil and fade resistant, and oh, it's a lot of work," she says, explaining these experiences are probably what discouraged her from going into business for herself.

"I'm never not sewing," says Jan. "I don't know when I started. I never studied designing and the only sewing lessons I ever took were the ones forced in school. My mother doesn't sew, but I've just always sewed."

Mr. Hall's paintings highlight the couple's interesting home.

"I LOVE things of the past," Jan says. "Nothing modern — I spend half my life in antique shops."

An old roll-top desk in the living room has been in the Hall family for many years.

"We are just taking care of that for Steve's parents," Jan explains, "but the rest I've found here and there."

The rest includes an old victrola the couple brought back from England when they visited Jan's parents during the Christmas holidays.

An artistic couple, the Halls enjoy each others work.

"Living with Steve, his sense of color has rubbed off on me," says Jan. "He is a large influence on my designing. When I am in doubt I ask him what color I should use or whether braid or lace would look better, and he just knows. His ideas are super."

FIVE-YEAR-OLD Nicola Hall thinks its fun to have a mommy who makes such pretty clothes. Her mommy, Mrs. Stephen Hall, is pinning the hem on a new dress with a quilted skirt in a very chic style for the young set. Jan Hall designs clothes for a rock group, a restaurant chain and her family in the work room of her Sausalito home.

LOSING WEIGHT

Group Hypnotism May Work When Other Methods Don't

First of a three part series on current facts and methods of weight loss.

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Go to almost any kind of social gathering where women have an opportunity to chat informally, and what is sure to be discussed? Losing weight — especially lately, since many have had phenomenal success with a quick weight loss system and with a popular group method. Group hypnosis is still another method used with good results.

What does a top authority in the field have to say on the latest scientific information?

Such an authority is Dr. Rudolf E. Noble, director of the obesity clinic at the Cathedral Hill Medical Center in San Francisco and clinical instructor in medicine at the University of California.

He holds a B. S. degree from the University of California and Ph. D. from the University of Colorado in organic chemistry, and an M.D. from Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. He served a medical internship at the University of California hospital and a medical residency at Stanford hospital.

In between his training, over a period of about 10 years he has held research fellowships, including one as a Fulbright post-doctoral research fellow at the University of Heidelberg in Heidelberg, Germany. Research in leukemia is one of his specialties.

The doctor says that he is so much interested in weight control that it is also his hobby.

First I attended one of his group hypnotism sessions at the Obesity Clinic and then spoke with him at his office.

"GROUP HYPNOTISM can be used with anyone after full explanation of what to expect, especially that it is not supernatural," he said, "but I use it largely as an anciliary tool with people who have not responded to other methods.

"The group approach is very good, too, because of the rapport established through exchange of ideas and the encouragement individual members get from seeing others with the same problems.

"The group sessions are also good reinforcement for people who have become good subjects through repeated private sessions, and the cost is less in the group."

Dr. Noble's group sessions are held Mondays and Thursdays from 8:30 to 10 p.m. at the Cathedral Hill Medical Center.

A group of about a dozen women with weight problems ranging from moderate to very serious sit on the carpeted floor of the doctor's office, making themselves comfortable with a pillow each has brought.

For the benefit of new members, each is asked to write a list of some 25 low calorie foods she enjoys on one slip of paper, and on another slip whatever individual suggestions she wants to have made concerning not only weight but any other problems. Each reads her list of foods, and the doctor approves or disapproves of each item.

Then longtime group members are asked to report on their progress since the last session, sometimes with amusing results. One woman reported she had been eating like mad because of jealousy over her sister's having purchased a $40,000 house. Another quipped, "just remember the payments she's making!"

THEN COMES the actual hypnosis. With light turned low the doctor, in a smooth, monotonous voice, directs everyone to visualize herself as slim and attractive (a most important preliminary, he says) in contrast to someone, preferably loved or hated. Their imagination is aided by a tape recording he had made himself of instructions in story-like form directing them to attend a high school class reunion in which each woman sees herself as her ideal while noting what has happened, both good and bad, to former classmates.

The session concludes with the doctor giving to each woman the individual suggestions she had written on her slip of paper, followed by general suggestions of well being for everyone before the group is awakened — or at least those who are hypnotized. Some are not.

DR. RUDOLF E. NOBLE

LATER DR. NOBLE explained that he may take the difficult patients, who are not showing progress through standard group suggestibility techniques, through age regression in a private session to discover what subconscious resistances are interfering and what food means to them.

This was dramatically illustrated when he narrated a taped recording of the age regression of a young English woman who, he said, "would drive through a brick wall to get candy if necessary."

While re-living devastatingly emotional and other experiences she had gone through as a child in bombed London during World War II, she revealed that candy had been rationed, and she had developed an insatiable craving and sense of deprivation in connection with it.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Reconciliation Might Be Better Than Trying To Return Gifts

DEAR HELEN:

When a couple has been married only five months and they separate with intentions of getting a divorce, is it correct to return wedding gifts? — NEEDING ADVICE

DEAR NEEDING:

If you have used the gifts, they can't be returned. They should be divided according to which side of the family — or whose friends — presented them.

A reconciliation would solve this problem — and others. Have you tried? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a playboy, or at least considered so by some people. I am out for a good time and have no intention of getting serious. But I do have pride. I never force anything. I only take what is offered.

Now, after taking this "gift" from a girl, she is charging me with rape. What should I do? — PLAYBOY IN TROUBLE

DEAR PLAYBOY:

If she is under age, and you aren't, you're in trouble! Beware of minors bearing "gifts." They might be gold-diggers, who know all about statutory rape.

Whether this girl wants money, or her parents want revenge, you'd better see a lawyer. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Maybe you can help me. I seem to remember reading years ago that the man who plays Superman on Television killed himself. But people say I'm crazy because they see him every day. Am I right or wrong? — BONNIE

DEAR BONNIE:

You're right. It was a little over 10 years ago that Television's Superman killed himself. His name was George Reeves. Your friends are seeing him on old re-runs. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Why is it that when a guy takes a girl out, he thinks it's his duty to park and make-out?

None of the guys around here even plan their dates. Do you think they would take a girl to a show, horse-back riding, to a carnival or game, to the beach, to dinner, skating, bowling or to a dance? Even a good walk to a museum or an invitation to help him wash his car would be appreciated.

There are lots of things that don't cost much money, and they're a lot more fun than sitting in a car for two or three hours glued to each other!

What can be done to get the point over to boys? — SICK AND TIRED OF IT

DEAR SATOI:

Polish up your "No Parking" button, and let the guys know the difference between a cheap date and a date that cheapens. So long as you accept submarine hunts you'll get nothing better. —H.

ques actually have to do with an individual's punishing herself by not allowing herself to become slimmer and more attractive, Dr. Noble said.

In one case a woman had been left as a small child to watch her sick father while her mother was away temporarily, and he had died during this time. She felt that it was her fault. The guilt made her feel she was not worthy of being attractive.

In some cases women fearing sexual involvements or competition with others for sexual attentions do not permit themselves to become attractive, he said.

Among other subconscious influences uncovered in hypnosis are oral satisfactions from breast feeding and patterns set in childhood when food is used as reward of comfort, the doctor explained.

On the value of learning self-hypnosis, Dr. Noble says, "First a person needs to get started with a hypnotist and learn the procedures, but the trouble is that most people will not take the time necessary to hypnotize themselves. An effective aid in working alone is listening to a tape made specifically for this purpose."

HYPNOTISM IS one system, but the basic fact about losing weight by any system is that it must involve diet or cutting down the intake of unneeded calories.

Opened Shoe In For Summer

The opened shoe is the shoe to have, starting right now, getting the jump on summer, says the National Footwear Institute. The style, tried last year, worked well in both Europe and America.

A city sandal to consider: A cross-cross of straps. Another is a shelter-toed shoe buckled off at the sides and opened at the back. Other interpretations: an oxford or spectator with everything possible pared away until what remains is a sandal.

Mother-to-be Should Eat More, Says Obstetrician

San Francisco (WMNS) — The pendulum may be swinging back to the old-fashioned notion that a pregnant woman should eat for two.

Dr. Howard Jacobson, University of California professor of obstetrics, believes that 10-15 pounds is far too little for a normal woman to gain in those crucial nine months, particularly since the components of pregnancy alone usually add up to more than 20 pounds — the baby, the uterus, increased blood volume, added breast tissue.

Citing studies that show that mothers who gain more deliver bigger babies and that bigger babies are almost always healthier babies, Dr. Jacobson recommends a minimum weight gain of 24 pounds, even if a woman is overweight to begin with, and a maximum of 30 pounds.

"A pregnant woman," he says, "has a natural and correct desire to eat more. She does more physical work, there are more emotional demands, and there is more metablolic work. We should ask to what extent a pregnant woman on a diet is depriving her baby."

Physical Softness Leads To Softness Of Character

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—To a famous athlete, when we get soft physically, we soften also mentally and spiritually.

And the parallel applies especially to the nation's young people—"They have so many things these days," says Bob Richards.

Richards, a minister as well as record-breaking athlete, believes that fitness must once again become the American way of life. It is for him and his family, he says. Then with a laugh he adds, "I want to live to be 100 and be shot by a jealous husband."

"I see a correlation between physical softness and softness of character," Richards said in a recent interview. "And, a relation between fitness and toughness of our people. Those who built America were physically and mentally strong. They had no softness on patriotism. Democracy is an activist theory of living.

"I'd like this trek to help give back our sense of toughness," he said. Richards referred to a three months jogging and cycling trip he will make coast to coast to dramatize the need for fitness. Richards' "crusade" will begin in Los Angeles June 1, with the 43-year-old athlete crossing through deserts, over mountains and along secondary roads some 3,300 miles before reaching New York in early August.

Richards says his participation in athletics since childhood has taught him how much regular exercise under proper medical supervision can do to help a person keep fit for life.

Richards and his wife, Mary, have two sons, both following in dad's footsteps in athletics, and a married daughter.

Both sons are promising pole vaulters. The older, Bob Jr., a freshman at Mt. San Antonio Junior College, has been mentioned by sports writers as a prospect for the 1972 Olympics team.

Richards won two Olympic gold medals in pole vaulting. He was a three-time U.S. decathlon winner during his active sports career.

He is an ordained minister of the Church of the Brethren and now serves also as director of the Wheaties Sports Federation.

Puerto Suello Hill Frontage Road System To Be Sought

San Rafael City councilmen, disturbed by recent major traffic tieups on Highway 101 originating at Puerto Suello Hill, agreed last night to push for frontage roads over the hill.

Councilman Harry A. Barbier said that traffic was snarled for five hours Saturday and backed up along Lincoln Avenue to downtown San Rafael.

A mudslide at the crest of the hill blocked a northbound lane of Highway 101 Saturday and traffic along the highway backed up to the San Quentin turnoff.

San Rafael streets feeding into northbound 101 were filled with bumper to bumper traffic.

Barbier said a bypass was needed and said the city should seek a roadway linking Lincoln Avenue with Merrydale Road.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini reported that state highway officials said they would have no funds for frontage roads until 1974.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said the city should ask the state immediately for right-of-way acquisition.

One of the largest traffic jams in Marin County history occurred Dec. 3 when water line construction blocked two northbound lanes on Highway 101 at Puerto Suello Hill.

Councilmen also agreed to ask the state to construct a new access road to Rice Lane, serving south Francisco Boulevard, after the current road is eliminated by construction of a new viaduct.

The current road provides access to the area from the southbound 101 onramp, off Second Street. Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles said the viaduct construction job is soon going to bid, and a new access road will be needed at a cost of $70,000.

"We should make every effort," said Mayor C. Paul Bettini. Lack of an access road would be disastrous to merchants in the south Francisco Boulevard area, he said.

Rawles also reported that the city wouldn't be able to get federal funds this fiscal year for revamping the sewer system in the older sector of the city, but might possibly qualify during the next fiscal year, starting July 1.

The city has been hoping to get federal funds toward a proposed $1.3 million sewer improvement program.

Montecillo Road Extension, Developing Park Win Nods

San Rafael City Council last night approved plans for extending Montecillo Road to Trellis Drive and developing an adjacent three-acre neighborhood park site.

Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles estimated that the job would cost $65,000 and noted there was $70,000 earmarked for it in the current parks and recreation budget.

As planned there would be a pedestrian underpass connecting the Don Timeteo School playground with the city park. Bids will be opened at the March 17 city council meeting.

Hugh Allen, representing Quail Hill Inc. and Bonzani, Flocchini and Norwitt appealed the granting of the permit.

Injuries Minor In Auto Crash

A 74-year-old San Rafael woman suffered minor injuries in an auto accident in front of her home Sunday.

Mrs. Margaret Hess, of 49 Elizabeth Way, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut on her left knee and bruises on her chest.

San Rafael police said Mrs. Hess was turning her car into a driveway when she was struck from the rear by a car driven by James Garrett, of 119 Barbara Avenue, San Anselmo. The impact pushed Mrs. Hess' car into a third car, owned by Isabella Quentin, 51 Elizabeth Way, which was parked in the driveway, police said.

Misdemeanor Charges Filed In Girl's Death

Misdemeanor charges were filed yesterday against three youths held in connection with the death of a 16-year-old girl who died early Saturday of a possible overdose of drugs.

Charged with being under the influence of narcotics were William John Helms, 20, of San Anselmo, Curtis Lynn Ross, 18, of San Quentin, and Stephen Carl Ellsworth, 20, of San Rafael.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Leonard Shaw said that no more serious charges would be filed pending further investigation of the death of Willeen Harper of San Francisco.

Shaw said that toxicology tests are being made to determine what killed the girl, who was found dead at the Meadowsweet Motel in Corte Madera. Police have said they suspected death was due to an overdose of morphine or methamphetamine or a combination of both.

Shaw said yesterday in Marin Municipal Court that numerous hypodermic syringes and an almost empty vial of morphine were found in the motel room which he said had been rented by Helms under a fictitious name.

Judge Hadden W. Roth refused to release the three young men on their own recognizance and set bail at $940 each.

Ellsworth, who was represented by the public defender, was told to return to court Thursday to enter a plea, and Helms and Ross were given a week's continuance to next Monday for plea entry. Helms and Ross were represented by private attorneys.

French Student Seeks U.S. Visa

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Daniel Cohn-Bendit, the leftist student leader barred from France last year for his role in student rioting, has applied for a visa to visit the United States.

A spokesman for the U.S. Consulate said today the application has been sent to Washington for consideration because Cohn-Bendit, known also as "Danny the Red," "has had some legal difficulties both in France and Germany."

Greenbrae Firm Apparently Low On Road Project

E. A. Forde Co. of Greenbrae appears to be low bidder on the project to widen to four lanes and improve the Lucas Valley Road entrance to Marin County Juvenile Hall.

Robert Pedroncelli, associate civic engineer for the department of public works, opened five bids yesterday at the Civic Center and reported that Forde submitted the lowest bid of $8,662. The four other bids ranged to a high of $9,531. Pedroncelli emphasized that the figures must be checked for accuracy and if they are found to be in order, the bids would go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors today for a decision.

All five bids came in lower than the engineer's estimate of $10,150.

Miss Haberl ran toward Nixon and President Charles de Gaulle Sunday as the two were walking toward Nixon's plane. Police intercepted her. She had been kept at the airport ever since.

A NEW LOOK FOR NOVATO POLICE

Reaction Mixed To Center Location

By JOANNE GRANT

A site described as centralized, easily acquired and having enough space for police and fire departments and an administration building met with mixed reactions and counter proposals last night when it was officially presented to the Fairfax City Council.

The plan, presented by Harold S. Lezzini in the absence of Harold G. Skaggs, chairman of the site selection committee, called for building the facilities at the corner of Bolinas Avenue and Park Road, the site of the existing city offices.

Lezzini reported the only land acquisition would be a duplex and a single family dwelling located between the tin shed which houses city vehicles and the Andy Peri playground.

Thirty feet of the playground are included in the site selection committee's plan.

Eventually, said Lezzini, the surrounding residential area could be taken for parking and Park Road could be widened to four lanes.

The plan also calls for keeping the existing corporation yard at the rear of the property and building a concrete platform across a creek on the site, to be used initially for parking and later as the base of a new administration building, Lezzini said.

Councilman Adelaide P. Wilson noted the owner of the two pieces of property necessary to the plan has reported he has had the parcels appraised at $67,000. No one had the figures on the assessed value of the land.

Herman Hein, owner of a site at the corner of Bolinas and Sherman avenues, offered it to the city as a possible site for a firehouse.

Hein, who said he didn't think site acquisition and the building should exceed $100,000, described his property as having "beautiful access" to downtown and to the Cascades.

He promised the city "attractive" terms but did not mention a price for the property.

His offer was opposed by Fire Chief Charles S. Thornton, asserting the site was not large enough. However, Mayor Robert R. Souza asked Thornton and City Administrator Francis R. Lestanguet to look into the offer.

Planning Commission chairman Albert E. Gately protested the site selection committee's proposal, speaking against almost every aspect of it. He was especially concerned about the possibility of further encroachment on the park if needed for future expansion.

The planning commission last week refused to accept the proposed site and the parks and recreation commission at its last meeting gave "cautious" approval to it.

The planning commission also asked for plans on three additional sites.

Mayor Souza pointed out that the last site selection committee, whose recommendations led to a $550,000 bond issue which was defeated, had investigated 11 sites.

He said the council would not make a decision last night because two of its members and the site selection committee did not have all the facts and figures on all 11 sites.

Councilmen Cornelis Van Vliet and Francis J. O'Connell spoke in favor of the plan and Mrs. Wilson said, "I don't object to the site, but I have grave reservations about a building (fire house) that large on Park Road," a residential area.

Councilman Frank J. Egger opposed the plan, commenting, "We're talking in the neighborhood of $400,000."

Egger said, "This park has been 30-footed to death" and predicted residents would vote against it because of fear of further encroachment on the park.

Noting the county has a library branch "in the back of its mind" for Fairfax, Egger suggested going in with the county and buying the old Buon Gusto property on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Mrs. Wilson reported the Fairfax School board is considering selling Central School and that property might be available to the city.

The mayor directed Mrs. Lestanguet to investigate that site also.

Mayor Souza, long a proponent of building as the site selection committee recommended, did not comment last night.

The council scheduled another meeting with the site selection committee for 8 p.m. March 24 at the Fairfax Women's Club.

KQED Family Life Film Voted Down

The Novato Unified School District board voted 5-0 last night to exclude the KQED "Time of Your Life" series from the family life education program in the district.

The action came on the recommendation of a special study committee formed in 1967.

OTHER FILM

Instead of "Time of Your Life," the committee recommended use of the McGraw-Hill Book Co. film on human reproduction and outlined a suggested course of study for junior and senior high school students.

The 5-0 vote came with trustees Gordon M. Leathers and Marett Boissevain absent.

Last night's meeting was punctuated by repeated objections to sex education in schools and by a charge by one parent that a daybed had been brought into one classroom for use in song and play about drugs.

"How about the classroom in the Lome Verde School where they moved the desks aside to put in a day bed? Maybe that fits in with your sex education program," said John C. Anderson of 270 Fairway Drive.

When questioned about this, Anderson said that the student in Roger Gilbert's fifth grade room sat on the couch singing: "Marijuana, marijuana, LSD, Mister Mouille makes it, so why can't we?" (Joseph Mouille is principal of the Loma Verde School.)

District Supt. James G. Bunker promised an investigation. He said he would have a report from Mouille at a meeting which Anderson could attend.

PARENTS, TOO

Russell G. Japp of 729 Del Mar said parents who want their children to get sex education from the schools could attend night classes with the students.

Mrs. Carolyn Crabtree, a candidate for one of three positions on the board at the April 15 election, said that Kentfield schools had a night study program which was working out well.

George F. Caldwell Jr., another candidate for the school board, asked what controls the district was making in selecting teachers for the program.

Paul C. Mobley, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction, said 40 teachers were receiving instruction in teaching the course.

Bunker said family life education would be an elective subject and promised more study before the suggestions of the committee were put into the classrooms next September.

Sausalito School Critics Hear Report On Problems

A nine-part reply to critics of the Sausalito School District board was issued by a board subcommittee last night, but one critic restoked the fire by making a new charge that racial hatred was spouted at a school-backed program Feb. 21.

Delta Christ of Sausalito charged that two women from outside the district were invited to a martyrs day program and then agitated for burning white history books and hating white people.

The women were not invited, trustee David E. Freedheim replied, but attended an open meeting. He said students at the program did a "magnificient job of repudiating their racist ideas. School board policy opposes any promulgation of race hate or violence, Freedheim said.

The incident happened at a discussion after the program honoring recently-assassinated American leaders President John F. Kennedy, Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Medgar Evers, Malcolm X and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

At an open meeting, Supt. Philip W. Schneider said, there was "no way we could have denied their right to speak.

Mrs. Christ insisted she felt the women were invited to speak because the program was delayed, then started a moment after they arrived.

Several other speakers in the packed office repeated complaints of two weeks ago, although much of the sting was removed by the committee report.

The report by Freedheim and Nathaniel Johnson hit on nine areas.

Main sources of complaints were student field trips to Black Panther headquarters in San Francisco and use of the term "pig," referring to policemen, in a class display.

The committee supported field trips, but recommended that parents sign permission slips for individual trips rather than sign a blanket permission at the start of the year. Parents could veto trips they disapproved for their children.

On the vocabulary question, Freedheim said it is "unrealistic to believe children are not aware . . . of what's going on today." Use of slang words should be continued, he said, but with careful explanation of the fallacy of using such terms to derogate groups.

The committee rejected a request to fire Schneider and recommended the board restate its full support of the administration. Two weeks ago Rev. Fred Small of Marin City called for Schneider's firing.

The committee also recommended the staff at Sonoma State College make an objective study of the communications problem in the district, working with a group to be named by the Sausalito Parents Club and representing Sausalito, Marin City and the forts. The district would pay any costs for the study.

The committee report also discussed:

DISCIPLINE — Admitting discipline problems at Martin Luther King School, the committee asked for more help from parents, saying discipline is a dual responsibility of school and home.

REPORT CARDS — Said A-B-C-D-F grading should be eliminated in favor of parent-teacher conferences.

HOMEWORK — Said homework is part of good study habits, and recommended parents dissatisfied with their children's homework load should talk with the teacher, principal, superintendent and the board if necessary.

SCHOOL VISITS — Urged parents to visit their children's classes, and to tell the staff their reactions.

TESTING — Johnson said testing should be for diagnosis, not achievement, to show the teacher what the pupil needs to be taught. The committee recommended asking Stanford University to discuss setting up tests comparing district pupils with other Bay Area districts.

The district won some praise along with repeats of the previous criticisms. Sausalito is "one of the few places we've got something good going," William K. Broder of Sausalito said. He charged that each election time "the same people come forward and attack."

He challenged the discipline concept where "people think they stand the kids in a row, stand them at attention, order them to learn and they learn."

The board asked for a written version of the report for discussion and possible action at the March 17 meeting.

The Sausalito School District board also:

MEXICO — Agreed to provide a bus, truck and driver and pay running costs in the United States for the Mazatlan, Mexico, trip by the Spanish Club at Martin Luther King School this summer. Schneider was told to bring in depreciation figures to show what the real cost of the support will be.

SALARIES — Named Assistant Supt. Joseph Amato as negotiator with the classified salary committee.

INSTITUTE — Set a staff institute and planning day for Friday. Classes will be excused.

PROJECTS — Heard that Amato has prepared five projects for federal aid under the National Defense Education Act, for a science class, science consultant, social studies project, social studies consultant and a guidance project.

Living Quarters Permit Denied

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night denied an application for a use permit to allow the use of the rear portion of an antique shop at 1 Saunders Avenue as living quarters.

The board said it had received three letters from residents of the neighborhood opposing the rezoning request of Bartlett C. Tucker.

The board granted a use permit application by Lucien N. Remy for a furniture crafts shop at 1606 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Plans For Library Are Rejected

The Novato Beautification Committee does not like the plans for the new Novato branch of the Marin County Library and last night voted to reject them, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

The committee's opinion is only advisory, however, since the county will construct the library.

"The committee felt that the site beside Novato Creek was suited to a more outdoor type of architecture to blend with the setting," Brown said.

At the Feb. 11 city council meeting, County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema presented the preliminary sketches, showing the library as a hollow square constructed around a court. The library is proposed for Novato Boulevard, west of Seventh Street.

"The committee felt that the design should be open out onto the creek," Brown said.

Sub-committee chairmen for the April 12-May 4 cleanup campaign were named by chairman William Olsen. Richard Burgi was named to head the streets and highways cleanup and disposal of rubbish. Marjorie Mowat and Ernestine Barnwell were named to head the school poster capaign and Lorene Bunker, the planting campaign.

Suspect Booked For Petty Theft

Fairfax police last night arrested John Stephen Larralde of Gate 6, near Sausalito, on suspicion of petty theft.

Police said he was arrested for taking lumber from a construction site on Glen Drive near the White Hill School.

Clausen Reported Pushing For Novato School Funds

Hope was offered the Novato School District board last night that $800,000 in federal funds would be granted next year to the district under program of aid to the districts serving military bases.

Supt. James G. Bunker reported that Sen. Alan Cranston and Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, were supporting legislation before Congress to continue the program, which was cut back last year under President Johnson's effort at cross-the-board 10 per cent reduction in federal spending.

Bunker told the board that about 3,500 students from Hamilton Air Force Base attend Novato schools, 1,500 of them living off base. The cutback would eliminate aid covering the offbase residents. The legislation proposed would restore this money.

The board accepted Bunker's report, with Trustees Gordon M. Leathers and Marett Boissevain absent.

Novato Unified School District Board Also:

SAN MARIN HIGH — Approved changes orders adding more hand rails for steps, changing the vents on the science room and smoothing some of the outdoor benches at San Marin High School to cost $932, bringing total cost of the new high school to $1,995,091, according to Eugene de Brecht, assistant superintendent in charge of building.

ELECTIONS — Approved consolidating the trustee election on April 15 with the North Marin County Water District-Novato Sanitary District merger election on that date.

BUDGET — Approved a budget modification in which the district received $41,545 from federal funds for speech, mentally retarded and counseling projects; spent $37,088 and had $4,458 to put into the undistributed reserves.

APPLICATION — Approved an application for $168,500 for completion of the shop at San Marin High and $58,312 for the playing fields at San Jose Junior High, from the federal government under its program to aid building in districts with military bases. If approved, the district would add $17,676 of local funds to complete the $75,988 playing fields at the San Jose Junior High.

NEGOTIATIONS — Went into a closed meeting at 10:15 p.m. to discuss negotiations with the teachers who are asking for 8.5 per cent increase. The board received a preliminary estimate on expenses for fiscal 1970 which was $8,480,864 which was $321,248 more than the current budget of $8,159,616. The board adjourned at 11:35 p.m. without taking any formal action after the closed meeting.

$258 In Clothing, Jewels Are Stolen

The theft of approximately $258 worth of clothing and jewelry was reported yesterday to San Rafael police by Mario L. Cortesi of 1 Laurel Place, San Rafael.

Police are looking for two men said to have attended a party at Cortesi's home Sunday night. Cortessi reported the theft of a suit, six shirts, a pair of shoes and a wristwatch.

Homeowners Back Merger In Loma Verde

The Loma Verde Homeowners Association last night voted to endorse the merger of the North Marin County Water District with the Novato Sanitary District, according to secretary James King.

The membership felt that this would help solve problems of polution such as at Bel Marin Keys, he said. The merger will be on the April 15 ballot.

Arnold Baptiste, president of the North Marin Federation, told the group that the federation was against the zone change for the area south of Gnoss Field from commercial to recreational zone for fear of pollution from houseboats.

President Bruce B. Robinson reported that the Loma Verde association is working to get a connection between Alameda de la Loma and the new apartments proposed for south of Loma Verde so that the traffic would not increase too much for Alameda del Prado to handle, he said.

Plea Due Today On Marijuana

Charles Champion, 32, of Richmond, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge that he possessed marijuana in Sausalito Saturday. He was to return to court to enter a plea today.

Champion was arrested about 8:30 p.m., when officers found him in his car hung up on a curb near the Spinnaker restaurant. Officers said he was booked on traffic warrants from Alameda County, but found to have four marijuana cigarettes in his possession.

He was held in Marin County Jail with bail set at $625.

Head Cut In Scuffle With Police

A 54-year-old Fairfax man received a severe head cut in a shoving match with a Fairfax policeman yesterday which resulted in the man's arrest for assault and battery, resisting arrest and delaying a police officer.

Booked into Marin County Jail after receiving five stitches for the cut over his left eye was Perce Eugene Williams II, 54, accused of assaulting officer John Johnson.

The melee occurred at the Williams apartment at 200 Bolinas Road where Johnson had gone at the request of Williams' wife to assist her in moving out of the apartment.

Johnson said Williams at first refused to let them into the house, but when they finally entered he struggled with his wife and shoved Johnson. Johnson reported he shoved Williams back and the man fell against the edge of a door, cutting his head.

Williams' bail was set at $625 and he was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Novato Planners Cancel Meeting

Last night's meeting of the Novato Planning Commission was canceled because of the absence of Brian W. Mattson, planning director, due to the death of his father, George W. Mattson.

The commission was scheduled to discuss the new Bahia Master Plan, housing for the elderly and amendments to the zoning ordinance. These items will be placed on the agenda for the meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the community house, according to secretary Juanita Gibson.

More Father Hesburghs Needed In Our Schools

Coast-to-coast "confrontations" on campuses this year have produced a sorry spectacle of yielding by administrators to violence or threats of violence. They have even seen the board of trustees of the California State Colleges agree in effect to condone law violations in the hope of settling a strike by a faculty minority.

So-called educational leaders have revealed themselves as lacking both in principle and in courage. It is no wonder that the militant student and faculty leaders hold them in contempt.

FROM AMONG THEM, however, has emerged a handful who prove that courage, integrity, and dedication to genuine academic freedom still exist. Foremost among these must be put Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of University of Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind.

Father Hesburgh's statement of the rules that will be followed at Notre Dame has received approving comment from the White House. It could well be adopted at every school.

Declared the Notre Dame president:

"ANYONE OR ANY GROUP that substitutes force for rational persuasion . . . will be given 15 minutes of meditation to cease and desist. They will be told that they are, by their actions, going counter to the overwhelming conviction of this community as to what is proper here. If they do not within the time period cease and desist, they will be asked for their identity cards.

"Those who produce these will be suspended from this community as not understanding what this community is. Those who do not have or will not produce identity cards will be assumed not to be members of the community and will be charged with trespassing and disturbing the peace on private property and treated according to law . . .

"After notification of suspension, or trespass in the case of non-community members, if there is not then within five minutes a movement to cease and desist, students will be notified of expulsion from this community and the law will deal with them as non-students."

GIVING HIS REASONS for this well-thought-out, straightforward and simple method of dealing with disorders, Father Hesburgh commented in a letter to the Wall Street Journal that "there seems to be a current myth that university members are not responsible to the law."

On the contrary, he wrote, all are responsible to laws of the university and all laws of the land, for: "There is no other guarantee of civilization versus the jungle or mob rule, here or elsewhere."

He concluded: "We rule ourselves or others rule us, in a way that destroys the university as we have known and loved it."

HERE IS A MAN to whom integrity is of first importance, to whom education is a sacred trust, to whom academic freedom is real and important and not a mindless slogan to be chanted like the "two legs bad, four legs good" of the sheep in George Orwell's "Animal Farm."

We need more Father Hesburghs in our educational community.

If This Stuff Makes You Sick, Careful Where You Buy Bicarb!

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

California consumers who buy strawberry and artichoke plants have to pay a sales tax, but none for a tomato or pepper plant.

Chocolate "kisses" are taxable, but chocolate chips sold for cooking are exempt.

Wheat germ is tax-exempt, but oil of wheat germ is taxable.

Gelatine and health foods are tax exempt but dietary supplements are taxable.

Bicarbonate of soda sold by grocery stores is exempt from sales tax because it is expected to be used as an ingredient of food products, but the same item in a drug store is taxable because it is presumed to be intended for medical purposes.

A peanut with salt on it is tax exempt, but taxable if it has sugar on it.

Confused?

WELL, SIMILAR examples of arbitrary taxing by the state Board of Equalization abound among the 6,000 or more items found in a supermarket.

To do something about it, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, has introduced legislation to make a start at eliminating some of the inequities in sales taxes. The legislation grew out of a report by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, chaired by Bagley.

The spirit of Bagley's legislation was in the report's declaration that the state Board of Equalization, which administers the sales tax, "should refrain from the temptation to squeeze the last penny from the food products consumer."

AS LONG as the GOP has the United Republicans of California, it won't have to fear for its starboard wing. It's alive and flapping.

The leaders of the band met recently in Sacramento and agreed that what is wrong with the nation could be set right if only Congress would "investigate the kind of un-common law being practiced by the U.S. Supreme Court to force socialistic law on a constitutional republic."

Also needed, UROC's board of governors declared in a series of resolutions, was a return of the citizen's right to buy and own gold so government cannot "rob them of the fruits of their labors by arbitrary and willful manipulation of the value of the currency."

TURNING TO regional government, UROC observed that "the cancer of centralization or regionalism is irreversible and eventually destroys the vigorous independence and autonomy of local entities." It was silent on the contention that pressure for regional government has grown because local government are anything but "vigorous" in meeting regional problems.

England was accused of selling "colonies for spoils, socialism and perhaps the communism that rings its nostrils."

Majority rule in Rhodesia would bring "certain economic and social chaos," according to another resolution, which commended Rhodesia as "a bulwark against communism."

Main speaker was Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, a longtime member.

The lessons of paternalism ought to be unlearned and the better lesson taught that while the people should patriotically and cheerfully support their government, its functions do not include the support of the people. — Grover Cleveland.

Catch Phrases Mark Propaganda

In answer to Alvah Bessie's letter of Feb. 22 in the Independent-Journal:

After reading about communism and listening to their diatribes and propaganda "ad nauseum," certain cliches and "catch" phrases stand out through constant repetition, such as "military industrial complex," "police brutality," "imperialism," "fascist," etc. etc. You sound like you have been drinking out of the same bottle.

For your information our military seems to be pretty well controlled by our civilian government. You will of course remember how President Truman handled General MacArthur in the Korean War and how our civilian government tells our military, in the Vietnam War which targets they may hit, what weapons they may use etc. . . . I suggest you spend some time living in a communist country there I am sure you will find ample opportunity to vent your spleen on their military and police force with some justification.

As for your outcries against our police — you won't find any law abiding people complaining of their so called "brutality." However you may find many trouble makers, agitators, subversives and their ilk complain bitterly . . .

Water Bond Series Does Real Service

I would like to express my appreciation and offer my congratulations to you, and particularly to Joanne Grant, the reporter, who wrote the series of articles on the future water supply for the (Marin Muncipal Water) District.

These articles were well prepared and I fell they did a real service to the community. It serves not only to keep the public advised, but also to alert them to the problems being faced by the water district in maintaining an adequate supply for the increasing population of Marin County.

School Decision Appears Vindictive

The San Rafael School Board agreed during last night's (Feb. 25) meeting to put the middle school concept in effect this September. This will put Davidson on double sessions and leave some empty classrooms in the elementary schools.

This sounds like retribution for the defeat of the bond issue. . . . If the bond issue had passed, it would have taken a year to build the Glenwood Middle School and there had not been any mention of double sessions.

I think it is the duty of the board and the administration to provide the best classroom distribution possible. To remove the portables . . . which have been good enough all these years and start double sessions at one school does not seem to be in the best interest of the community. . . .

I believe a policy of this type should be further considered and no decision should be made during the first meeting after defeat of the bond issue, which smacks of vindictiveness.

Let Dog Owners Pay For Control

The recent I-J story (by Alan Jones) concerning the continuing problems of rancher George Gianecchini with stock killing dogs offers a timely opportunity for others to vent their feelings on dogs — if not their masters.

When I first moved here I recall telling visiting friends that "Mill Valley" was really an old Miwok Indian expression meaning "valley of a thousand barking dogs." My friends believed it! They had only to count after being awakened at 3 a.m. One pointed out that there had obviously been a marked increase in dog population here since old Indian times.

I am well aware that dog fanciers will quickly claim any complaints raised about their dogs are ill-founded, overrated, prejudiced — perhaps even un-American. After all we all know who is a man's best friend, and how no boy should grow up without his dog, etc., etc., ad absurdum; which is just what the whole thing is — absurd! . . .

What is really pertinent is whether or not I am less disturbed by incessant barking of a neighbor's neurotic (or vice versa) dog than by his hi fi turned to the limit . . .

Why should dogless residents not only be subjected to such continued annoyances and nuisances but be asked as well to help foot the bill for what obviously is an inadequate control and an ineffectual program? Dogs and problems attributable to them are not the responsibility of the community as a whole; they are the responsibility of those who insist on having a dog in the first place.

Wouldn't a realistic licensing fee of say $25 a year, or more if need be, provide funds for adequate enforcing of local ordinances? And wouldn't such a fee help serve at the same time to thin the dog population to a point where, for some of us at least, it would become something less than a dog's world?

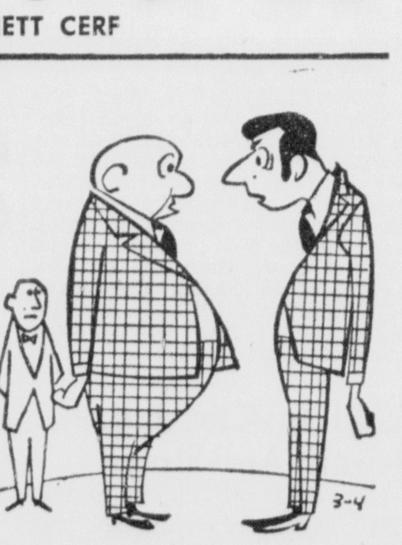
TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

There's a famous men's wear establishment in New York that's been selling the same model suit to five generations of affluent and conservative merchants. In fact, scoffers claim there isn't a single mirror in the store — nor is one needed. They simply prop up one customer facing another customer.



Young Dr. Poople hung out his shingle for the first time on a Tuesday, but nary a patient showed up until Friday morning. When one came into his office, Dr. Poople hoped to impress him. He picked up his phone and barked into it, "I can't help how serious that brain operation is. There are so many patients waiting here for me now that I can't come over to the hospital to perform it until six this evening."

He banged down the receiver and turned to his visitor with a disarming smile. "What seems to be paining you, my good man?" he asked. "Nothing is paining me," explained the visitor with an impish smile. "I've just come to hook up your telephone, sir."

Pacifist Japan Finds Fault With U.S. Posture Toward Asia

TOKYO — As traveling trouble-shooter, President Nixon should have Japan high on his tour itinerary. For this country, with its astonishing recovery from the depths of defeat and destruction, is the pivot of Asia, and any realistic American policy in this part of the world must be based on collaboration with the Japanese.

But before ne can even think of coming, before Premier Eisaku Sato could risk an invitation, the President will have to take strong, decisive steps to resolve the deep divisions between the two nations. The measures he must take will not be easy, since they will go counter to powerful elements, notably the American military, bent on keeping everything just as it is.

The Japanese-American security treaty expires in 1970, and no one has forgotten that the conclusion of that treaty in 1960 brought perhaps the most furious upheaval in postwar Japan. President Eisenhower set out to visit Tokyo to give his blessing to the treaty. So riotous were the protesting mobs that he stayed in Manila while the question of his safety was weighed. Finally, after a humiliating wait of a week, he returned to Washington.

TODAY observers here believe that feeling runs even deeper beneath the prosperous, busy surface of Japanese life. The Vietnam war and the United States' persistent effort to isolate China — the lengthening shadow of a posture in Asia that has often seemed deliberately designed for disaster — complicate the relationship with the Asian power ranking third in the world in production.

The first step needed involves reversion to Japan of control over the Okinawan population.

Okinawa is a festering sore. The resentment and concern have been accentuated by the Vietnam war.

Initially it was understood that Okinawa would not be a base for bombers attacking Vietnam. Then came the Pueblo incident and the alarm of a greatly widened war in Korea. B-52s were sent to Okinawan bases and today those B-52s regularly bomb targets below the 17th parallel.

OPINION here is rooted in a pacifism embedded in a constitution renouncing any armed force and the resort to war.

Japan has a self-defense force of 275,000 — ground, air and navy. Even this force, so minuscule in contemporary terms for a nation of 100 million, is the source of bitter political dispute.

The fact that probably less than half of one per cent of Japan's gross national product goes into defense costs is one reason for the flourishing state of Japan's economy. The industrialists are quite content that it should be so. Any suggestions from Washington that Japan's forces should be enlarged would be ill-received by almost every element.

IT IS AN open secret that nuclear weapons are stored at American bases on Okinawa. That is one source of the continuing agitation on the left, not merely to see the administration of the Okinawans in Japanese hands but to force the Americans out of a base the American military regards as vital to security in the Pacific.

Some scaling down of the American military presence in Japan proper may be essential. Twenty-five years after the end of the war there are 32,000 Americans in Army, Navy and Air Force units. With civilian employees and dependents it adds up to 46,000, which, with the bases they occupy in these crowded islands, is a lot.

On China, Nixon has been saying the right things from the Japanese viewpoint — try to break down the barriers raised high for two decades. But change is coming so swiftly, with Italy, Canada and possibly Belgium preparing to recognize Peking, that Japan, holding off in deference to the American position, may be caught in a difficult squeeze. The dead weight of the long China tragedy hangs heavy over the decisions just ahead.

Power Struggle In Israel Little Comfort To Arabs

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Israelis now will keep one wary eye on the Arabs and another on the in-fighting among their own top politicians.

The death of Premier Levi Eshkol in the midst of the Arab-Israeli crisis pits three ambitious men against each other in the race to replace him, plus a Woman, Mrs. Golda Meir, onetime Milwaukee school teacher and the most powerful woman in Israeli politics.

Mrs. Meir, former Israeli minister to Moscow, minister of labor and security and foreign minister, will be 71 in May, which makes her age against her and any appointment, if she wins it, a temporary expedient.

THE MEN are acting Premier Yigal Allon, 50, who previously had served under Eshkol as deputy premier; Moshe Dayan, 53-year-old defense minister and hero of the 1956 and 1967 wars against the Arabs, and Minister without Portfolio Pinhas Sapir, 63.

On his mother's side, Allon traces his history in Palestine back to medieval times. Born in lower Galilee, he is the author of the Allon plan for settling the occupied west bank of the River Jordan. He acted as Eshkol's spokesman during the latter's final illness.

He also is a military hero, dating back to the Israeli war for independence in 1948.

He sees the Jordan River as Israel's natural line of defense and would set up a string of para-military settlements along the Jordan River cease-fire line for security purposes while returning the remainder of the west bank and its 600,000 Arab inhabitants to Jordanian rule.

He is regarded as a man of great talent, but without Dayan's popular appeal.

DAYAN, easily identified by his eye patch, is classified as a hawk and a believer in tough talk to the Arabs. He foresees a long occupation but believes this is Israel's real chance to prove that Israelis and Palestine Arabs can live together.

Within security limitations, he would let the Arabs in the occupied areas run their own affairs and would count upon gradual economic integration with Israel even though eventually they would go back to Arab rule.

He brought his Rafi party into union with the ruling Mapai party with the specific purpose of ousting Eshkol.

SAPIR, born in Poland in 1906, arrived as a farm laborer in Palestine in 1930 and is a part of the establishment which has ruled Israel for 20 years. He is politically the most powerful of the three and disagrees sharply with Dayan on integration of the Arabs.

"We did not," he says, "come back to the land of Israel in order to work and shed our blood for a bi-national state."

He says he is a dove in dealings with the Arabs, but obviously he is a tough one.

No one of the three will give much comfort to the Arabs.

No body politic is ever healthy until it itches. — Heywood Broun.

Many Students Want Dormitories, Though Realty Groups Object

Sonoma State College students are seeking on-campus housing not only to reduce housing costs, but to enjoy the opportunity of campus living.

A proposed 600-unit dormitory has been deferred at the request of President Ambrose R. Nichols Jr., who will meet with Rohnert Park developers who object to the plan on an economic basis. They claim that on-campus housing would nearly empty existing apartments and bring financial disaster for them.

The students living in the off-campus apartments are paying top dollar for rentals by Sonoma County standards. A two-bedroom apartment normally brings $240 per month in rent which is usually shared by four students at an individual cost of $60 per month. Comparable apartments in nearby Petaluma would bring no more than $125 per month in rent.

While it's true that many students prefer living off-campus because it allows greater freedom, there are many more who would take advantage of lower-cost dormitories.

STUDENTS talking over coffee in the College Commons often say they would stop the commuting grind from Marin or other parts of Sonoma if inexpensive housing were available. While relatively inexpensive accomodations can be found around Cotati, the students say they wouldn't consider them "decent pads."

The commuting students say they often feel left out of things. Attending classes is only a small part of a college education, they maintain. While the students may not be "joiners," it would give them the opportunity to participate in extra-curricular activities and to attend after-hour events such as concerts, movies and sports.

Student Body President Terry Brennan said he didn't think occupancy would be a problem for a dormitory. "If they design a good looking building that's not just concrete block, they'll have no trouble finding residents," he said.

IN PETALUMA residents are wondering about the future of the classic Victorian Sorensen Funeral Home. Prime objective of most is to save the venerable building from destruction. The land has been sold to Union Oil Co. for a new service station.

Although most residents would like to keep the home in Petaluma, where they say it rightfully belongs, they would rather see it used in Tiburon as a city hall than to have it destroyed.

John B. Clark of Tiburon last week offered to incur all expenses of moving and relocation, including purchase of site, if his city would be interested in leasing the building.

Clark's plan to barge the building to Tiburon via the Petaluma River has boggled most minds. The thought of the massive building floating down the river is difficult to comprehend, although entirely feasible.

Adriene Lipman, wife of Petaluma City Councilman Robert S. Lipman, may be leading a group of protesters if the home is ultimately razed. She said feeling is running high in the community and she would have no trouble organizing a sit-in of women and children to prevent its destruction.

'Year Of The Rooster' Looks Like A Bad One For Mothers

WASHINGTON — Nineteen sixty-nine, according to the Chinese calendar, is the "year of the rooster." In the United States it could become the "year of the mother." It may be too early to predict, but I think this is going to be a bad year for mothers. "Portnoy's Complaint," the Philip Roth book, does the most devasting job on a mother in modern literature; and while it's true that she's a Jewish mother, it is a known fact that most American mothers are really Jewish mothers at heart.

My aunt Sophie in Brooklyn is very disturbed over this turn of events.

"I knew they'd get around to us sooner or later," Aunt Sophie said.

"WHAT DO YOU mean, Aunt Sophie?"

"First they blamed the government for all the trouble in the country, then they blamed the Vietnamese war, then they blamed the schools, and finally they've gotten down to the nitty-gritty and they're blaming us. If it wasn't for mothers, they're saying, the world would be a better place to live in"

"You shouldn't take this personally, Aunt Sophie. It's true that Philip Roth's fictional mother is very tough on her son, but that doesn't mean that every mother is like her."

"Then why is it a best-seller? You think the people read the book because the hero is such a schmo? They read it because the mother is such a horrible woman and they can identify with her."

"THAT'S JUST your interpretation, Aunt Sophie. Americans revere their mothers. Dont you remember we fought World War II just so we could get a hunk of Mom's apple pie?"

"Big deal! That was World War II. Now we're the guilt makers of the world. Every time you pick up the paper you read about some horrible crime, and the psychiatrist says the one who did it had a lousy mother.

"The kids riot at the colleges, and the sociologists say they're not revolting against the school. They're really revolting against their mothers. How do you think that makes us feel?"

"Terrible, I should think," I told my Aunt Sophie. "And it is true that there is a campaign on against mothers, but I would attribute it to the confused society we're living in: People have to blame somebody for their anxieties."

"WHY DON'T they blame John Lindsay?"

"They do, Aunt Sophie, but he gets blamed for so many things that people are getting tired of it. Do you think your son Leo blames you for all his troubles?"

"What troubles?" Aunt Sophie asked sharply.

"I didn't mean troubles. I meant the fact that Leo still isn't married."

"I've never stood in Leo's way. As a matter of fact. I'm as interested in him getting married as he is. Every night at dinner I say to him 'When are you getting married?' Does that sound like I'm standing in his way?"

"It certainly doesn't."

"Can I help it if he's never been able to find someone who can cook as well as I can? The girl who gets my Leo gets gold."

"WHAT DID Leo say about Philip Roth's mother?"

"I wouldn't let him read such garbage," Aunt Sophie said. "Mark my word, mothers are in for a bad period. There are going to be a lot of other books written about mothers, and none of them are going to look like Whistler's"

"You may have a point, Aunt Sophie. But I want to assure you that I will never make fun of mothers. They're the salt of the earth."

"As far as I know, you and Leo are the only ones who feel that way."

Hotelman Will Seek 22-Acre Annexation

San Francisco hotelman Melvin M. Swig will seek annexation Thursday of 22 acres on Lucas Valley Road to the Upper Lucas Valley County Service Area and to Marin Municipal Water District.

The annexation proposal will come before the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission at 8 p.m. in the board of supervisors chambers at Civic Center.

The Swig property is on the south side of Lucas Valley Road opposite Mount Shasta Drive. Swig is the son of Benjamin Swig, who operates the Fairmont and several other hotels, and is associated with his father.

Other annexation requests on tap that evening are:

Joseph Arrighi wants one and one-half acres of land in Lomita Park, San Rafael, annexed to the City of San Rafael. His property is on Auburn Street near Woodland Avenue, next to the California Park overpass.

Corte Madera Sanitary District wants to annex a quarter-acre lot owned by Ralph Moon at 90 Edison Avenue.

Novato Sanitary District seeks the annexation of 16.5 acres on the east side of Sutro Avenue, south of Dominic Drive, a quarter-acre lot on Center Road near Eucalyptus Avenue, a quarter-acre lot south of Virginia Avenue near Simmons Lane, and a half-acre lot at the intersection of Vineyard Road, Trumbull Avenue and Sun Lane.

The University of Santo Domingo, founded in what is now the Dominican Republic in 1538, was the first institution of higher learning in the Americans.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Peculiar Deformity Of Hand Still Has Discoverer's Name

VAN DELLEN

In 1832, the French surgeon, Baron Guillaume Dupuytren, described a peculiar deformity, in which "the patient feels a little stiffness in the palm of the hand, and a difficulty in extending the fingers which . . . are drawn into the palm."

The contracture still bears Dupuytren's name and is so prevalent that even medical students recognize the condition.

NINE TIMES MORE common in men than women, the disorder usually strikes during late middle life.

The problem centers about a tought sheath of tissue (palmar fascia) that reinforces and strengthens the heavy skin in the hollow of the hand. The fascia extends over the entire palm and into the base of the fingers so far as the second joint.

For reasons unknown, the padding degenerates and thickens. Scars form leading, in time, to shortening of the fascia.

IT IS THE SHORTENING or contracture of the fascial slips extending into the digits that causes the little and ring fingers to curl up. But this is a late manifestation of the disease.

Dupuytren's begins with the development of one or more small, painless lumps in or beneath the skin of the palm, usually near the long crease. In time the thickening increases, forming the bands or cords that extend over the metacarpal bones and into the base of the fingers.

These changes may go on for years without causing trouble or tenderness. Ultimately, the fingers contract and cannot be extended.

ONLY SURGERY HELPS, and best results are obtained when the procedure is done early. Although not fatal, the contracture interferes with work and may lead to embarrassment when shaking hands. It is not caused by manual labor, but injury accentuates symptoms.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

HEADACHE AND POSTURE

T. D. writes: When I get a headache I can't lie flat in bed but have to prop myself up with pillows. Is my trouble due to the sinuses?

REPLY

This is a possibility, if the sinuses drain when the head is propped up. On the other hand, head pains arising from the ligaments, muscles, and fibrous tissues of the neck are affected by postural changes. Hypertension headaches also may be affected by posture. You ought to have an examination.

VETS AND ZOONOSES

T. V. writes: What occupational hazards do veterinarians face?

REPLY

Other than being kicked, bitten, and scratched, the major hazard is zoonoses (so-ON)osees). More than 86 diseases are transmitted to man by animals but veterinarians have been trained to take the proper precautions.

COCKTAIL NEURITIS

R. W. writes: If a man has neuritis in the right arm, between the shoulder and elbow, would it be harmful to have an occasional cocktail?

REPLY

No, provided the neuritis is not of alcoholic origin. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on alcoholic neuritis.

FOODS TO INCREASE MILK

Mrs. M. P. writes: I'm pregnant and want to nurse my baby. Are there any special foods to encourage the production of milk?

REPLY

No. On the other hand, your unborn child is developing and needs the essential elements provided by a well balanced diet.

Sapphire Thief Arrested Again

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — Allan Dale Kuhn, convicted in the 1964 theft of the priceless Star of India sapphire, has been charged here in a $325 burglary.

Kuhn, 32, and his wife Susan, 21, were arrested Friday night after police recovered jewelry, money orders and a collection of Kennedy half-dollars taken from a North Hollywood home.

Kuhn and Jack (Murph the Surf) Murphy, 31, served two-year sentences for the highly publicized theft of the Star of India from the American Museum of Natural History.

Murphy and Jack Griffith, 31, a karate expert, were convicted Saturday in Fort Lauderdale, Fa., in the slaying of a secretary who worked for a Los Angeles brokerage.

Rare Coins Among Items In Burglary

A silver locket with a heavy silver chain, a leather pouch containing some rare old coins and an AM-FM portable radio were stolen last week from the home of Aaron J. Ungersma of 36 Vineyard Avenue, San Anselmo police reported yesterday.

Ungersma said his wife noticed her locket missing on Friday but thought she had misplaced it. Saturday Ungersma looked for his radio and found it gone, too. He then discovered the pouch missing from a dresser drawer and found pry marks on doors and windows. Value of the items was not given, police said.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Bouquets, Brickbats On Tax Idea

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A special commission's suggestion for a massive tax reshuffle—at a cost in added taxes at $510 million to $914 million, drew mixed reaction today. Its future, however, seemed dim.

"I think it stinks," said Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, his party's floor leader in the upper chamber.

"The goals of more support for local government, property tax relief and an efficient withholding system of tax collection are totally acceptable," responded Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, Revenue and Taxation Committee chairman.

The commission headed by Controller Houston I. Flournoy turned its 60-page report over to Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday and made it public for newsmen.

It recommended a statewide property tax, a sales tax on utilities and payroll withholding of the state income tax as key elements of a reshuffling of state and local taxes.

The immediate result, if it were adopted, would be a boost in state and local taxes of $915 million for the first year and of $510 million a year in subsequent years.

But Flournoy said the plan also would steer $539.1 million directly back to the property taxpayer in potential relief—without mandating counties to actually pass it along.

Reagan said he did not like the withholding tax feature. But fellow Republican Bagley found that one of the best parts of the plan.

"The prospects for a real tax reform package to be put together and passed this year are excellent," Bagley said. "Three reasons for this prospect come to mind.

"First, this is not an election year; second, a cooperative bipartisan atmosphere exists in the Assembly, and third, the state's fiscal affairs are in good order, providing the needed fiscal flexibility for passage."

Moscone, however, differed.

"I think it stinks because it extends the sales tax to amusement, to recreation which I assume would be high school games," he said "Who pays for that except the people who can least afford it?"

ROAD TAX DELAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan and top legislative leaders today kept a weather eye open and crossed their fingers they made the right decision not to increase the gasoline tax to pay for flood damage repairs.

They agreed a temporary 1-cent increase in the gasoline tax was not required at the present time because there were enough resources available to repair an estimated $66.1 million storm damage to roads. But the group left the door open for a temporary boost if the road damage estimate should prove higher when final figures are available in about three weeks.

Reagan met yesterday with Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, Senate leader Hugh M. Burns and about a dozen other legislators on the flood damage problem.

He said the state had $21 million available for repair of state highways and to distribute to local governments for road rebuilding. The state expects to get another $17 million in federal funds. Cities and counties will be expected to provide some funds themselves.

COLLEGE HELP

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislators have worked out a compromise $900,000 emergency allocation to help state colleges handle heavier-than-expected spring enrollment. Only ratification by the two houses and Gov. Ronald Reagan's signature remains.

A Senate-Assembly conference committee reached agreement on the figure yesterday. The Senate had passed a bill for $575,000 while the assemblymen passed one for $2 million, and a conference was forced.

A clause was added to the compromise providing admission for "as many qualified students as feasible." Estimates were that 3,875 students might be able to be enrolled with the money, which goes to pay the faculty needed to teach them.

NEW WATER BOND

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Californians may be asked to approve another bond issue to complete the state's massive water project, Water Resources Director William R. Gianelli said yesterday.

Gianelli told the Joint Legislative Water Committee that additional financing may be needed to finish the $2 billion project. He repeated remarks made last month that present project financing may be insufficient.

Voters approved a $1.75 billion bond issue in 1960 to pay for the project diverting northern California water to arid southern California.

Meanwhile, Sen. Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, told Norman B. Livermore, state resources agencies administrator, in a letter that the $400 million Dos Rios dam proposed for the middle fork of the Eel River in Mendocino County is "a major project of dubious economic value," and should be reviewed.

SEXUAL FREEDOM

The San Francisco Democrat, who claims his district has more homosexuals than any other in California, said the bill introduced yesterday would legalize certain homosexual acts between consenting adults in private. Such acts now are prohibited in public and private.

Brown said the bill is similar to a Model Penal Code provision in Illinois, identical to a law recently adopted in England, and under study by the California Criminal Law Review Commission.

"What I'm attempting to do is knock out the blackmail and the public condemnation, and free the cops from being peeping toms in restrooms sa they can go out and do some honest criminal investigation," he said.

ECONOMY REPORT

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Another year of steady growth is expected for California's econowy, Gov. Ronald Reagan reports, but finding a job still will be tough for young people and minority group members.

In his annual economic report to legislators yesterday, the governor said his experts tell him "another year of strong growth is anticipated" for the state.

Personal income will be up 7 per cent from 1968, giving Californians an average of $4,050. That would be 12.6 per cent above the national average.

Personal income was up 8.4 per cent last year, but Reagan noted the federal income tax surcharge and inflation cut sharply into disposable income.

For businessmen, he had this word: "Business activity in California last year far exceeded expectations."

Although the jobless rate dropped to 4.1 per cent late in 1968, the governor said, it appears the percentage will rise back to 4.8 per cent this year.

That is about 399,000 persons out of a civilian labor force of 8.33 million.

Reagan also reported that the population increase last year was the lowest in 18 years, continuing a downswing first noted in 1963.

The 1968 rise was 304,000 residents.

ABORTION TEST

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's abortion control law faced a major constitutional test in the State Supreme Court today.

The court gathered in Sacramento to hear arguments on the appeal of Dr. Leon Belous of Beverly Hills, convicted in 1966 and fined $5,000 on a charge of conspiring to commit abortion.

The conviction later was upheld by the District Court of Appeal.

The state's century-old law was liberalized in 1967. However, attorneys who filed written arguments on behalf of a group of doctors and medical school officials said that only made the statute more confusing and ambigous.

One hundred seventy-seven physicians and health officials joined in the brief as "friends of the court."

PRAISE DENIED

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A routine resolution commending former Veteran Affairs director James E. Johnson was rejected by the Assembly yesterday in an action unprecedented in the memory of veteran legislators.

Johnson resigned from the Reagan Administration post to accept an appointment to the U.S. Civil Service commission.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, charged "actions taken primarily by Mr. Johnson" had "broken faith with millions of California veterans."

The resolution by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, was defeated on a 28-2 vote with 41 votes required for adoption. No Democrats voted in favor of the measure. Their position was decided in a caucus last week.

Citizens Condemn Old Rec Center Moving

Parks and Recreation Commissioner Richard J. Young, outspoken foe of the city's proposal to move the existing community recreation center to a new, but temporary, location, said a new building would cost the city only $64,500. City staff has estimated moving the old building will cost $45,000.

He noted the new building, approximately 3,600 square feet, could be built in modules so it can be easily moved if Young's proposed site at the end of Sycamore Avenue on the edge of the future yacht harbor is deemed inappropriate in future years.

The council voted last month to move the existing recreation center from its present location in Project 17 to a site adjacent to the Southern Marin Horseman's Association horse ring on East Blithedale Avenue.

The council directed city staff to study Young's cost figures and to report back at its March 17 meeting.

In a related action, the council approved the terms of a proposed five-year lease agreement with the school district for the horse ring site, adding the stipulation that school district must give six months notice to the city to move the building after the initial five years has expired.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

MONEY — Heard the city has an unallocated reserve of $71,966 as of yesterday.

BILLS — Supported proposed state legislation to: Control the sale of pornographic material to minors; define citys' rights when ordinances have been preempted by state legislation; permit cities to spend cigarette taxes and motor vehicle license revenues on local projects; and provide for reinbursement by the state to cities which have provided police to control disorders on campuses.

TITLE SEARCH — Adopted a policy requiring a title search whenever a fee title or easement is given to the city by a property owner and requiring the property owner to pay for the title search if the gift of land to the city will benefit him.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Charles P. Guichard from the Mill Valley Human Rights Commission. Guichard resigned because of the press of business.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS — Approved resolutions appointing special bond counsels and authorizing staff to proceed with special assessment proceedings for construction of a sewer on Una Way.

The San Geronimo Valley 4-H Club will hold a valley-wide bottle drive Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m. Proceeds will be used for club projects and uniforms.

Injuries Are Minor As Car Hits Creek

Geoffrey C. Jones, 20, of 73 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley, was treated for a scraped forehead today at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital after his car overturned in a shallow creek at 12:05 a.m. on Bel Marin Keys Drive, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Jones told the highway ptarol he had a coughing attack and lost control of the car as it reached a curve.

Council Kills Candidate's District Ideas

The Petaluma City Council last night refused to consider as an ordinance council candidate Donald P. Petro's proposal that councilmen, now chosen at large, be elected by district.

City Clerk Lillian Nomsen had notified the council of Petro's plans to circulate a petition to place a charter amendment on the June 10 ballot.

Petro told the council he could gather 1,234 signatures of voters who cast ballots in the previous general election. Hoping the council would agree with his plan to divide the city into six council districts, Petro asked that it consider the measure as an ordinance to by-pass the petitioning.

Councilman Phillip L. Joerger, who is seeking re-election, joined other councilmen in refusing his request. "This is for the people to decide if it should be on the ballot," he said.

Petro told the council that the districting would bring the government closer to the people and is badly needed in the fast-growing city.

The seventh council seat, that of mayor, would continue to be filled on an at-large basis.

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert, in a memorandum to the council, called the proposed amendment "seriously defective" and said, "it may well present more problems than it solves."

"Under the one-man, one-vote principle, I would predict the city would have problems with the districting as proposed for the reason that the population in these districts will not remain static," Robert said.

Noting the amendment makes no allowances for future annexations, the attorney said, "As the city grows it would be faced with a series of charter elections to equalize the population."

"It's entirely possible that litigation would be necessary if the amendment passes to determine the full force, meaning and effect of the amendment," Robert said.

Bedroom Tax Delayed For Parks Study

The proposed Petaluma "bedroom tax" to provide funds for park development will require a more thorough review of park plans before its enactment, the council decided last night.

The proposed ordinance would charge builders a maximum of $80 for each three-bedroom home, or allow developers to dedicate portions of subdivisions for neighborhood parks instead.

"What we're really talking about is a pay-as-you-go neighborhood park system which seems realistic, but maybe we should consider charging $200 or $300 or $400 per home — it might be worth it to the homeowner," Councilman Robert S. Lipman said. He said the increased tax might provide funds for larger and more improved parks.

The council agreed with Mayor Helen Putnam that more time would be needed to study a larger park plan and set a study session for tomorrow at 4:30 p.m.

The Petaluma City Council also:

BRIDGE — Heard a report from engineer David Young that the council must award a bid for construction of the new Washington Street Bridge by March 20. Mayor Putnam said she visited Rep. Donald H. Clausen, R-First District, in Washington, D.C., last week and sought assistance from him in speeding Coast Guard approval for the bridge. The Coast Guard must agree to halt navigation on the Petaluma River at the bridge.

IMPROVEMENTS — Approved a resolution saying the council is giving consideration to a capital improvement program for the June 10 ballot.

TRAILERS — Adopted an ordinance to allow temporary use of trailers as offices for subdivisions.

INCREASE — Refused request for increased payment to Dames and Moore for engineering fees for design of an access road and the Petaluma boat launching facility, south of the city near Petrolaum Avenue. The company had requested more than the contracted price because of increased costs in personnel.

Probation Is Given For Drug Possession

Catherine Ann Nesbitt, 27, of s Sausalito, has been placed on one-year probation and given a suspended 30-day jail sentence for possession of marijuana. Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court also reduced the charge to a misdemeanor .

Miss Nesbitt pleaded guilty to having a bag of marijuana in her purse March 22 in Sausalito.

LIKE FATHER HE GREW A MUSTACHE

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — For two weeks David Stark Jr. has missed his classes at Palmer Junior High School because school officials insist that he shave a sprouting mustache.

The school principal, Dr. Leslie Carnine, says the 15-year-old boy "defied the standard philosophy at the school by not going along with the regulations," which ban growth of facial hair ornaments.

"Another freedom down the drain," said the boy's father, 31, who has worn a mustache himself since he was 16.

Mill Valley Council Kills College Plea

A resolution calling on the State College Board of Trustees, San Francisco State College administrators and the Third World Liberation Front to negotiate their differences was narrowly defeated last night by the Mill Valley City Council.

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke, silent during the long discussion, cast the deciding no vote, saying he believed a vote for the resolution would be a "Vote of no confidence" in S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of the strike-torn college.

The resolution, submitted to the council by the city's human rights commission and amended slightly by Robinson, simply said the council urges the college board, the administration and striking Third World Liberation Front students "to hold discussions and resolve their differences over the 15 demands at issue at San Francisco State College."

The council did not debate its authority to take a position but instead whether the proposed resolution would be interpreted as an affront to Hayakawa.

Andresen said he refused to urge negotiations "in the present climate of violence." He also said he "migh be willing to vote" for the resolution under different circumstances but not when the administration has been "blackmailed into it (negotiations) by violence."

"I refuse to play the part of a Monday night quarterback to Hayakawa," Andresen said. "The man has a difficult enough problem without us entering into it. This resolution is inappropriate and unnecessary."

Robinson argued that the resolution couldn't be considered an affront to anyone involved in the strike or an act of taking sides since it merely asked everyone involved to negotiate, something the administration has said previously it is will to do.

Prison Staffer Sent To Prison

SAN LUIS OBISPO (AP) — A woman psychiatric technician at Atascadero State Hospital has been sentenced to 1 to 5 years in prison for her role in the escape of three male inmates.

Virginia J. Vose, 49, was sentenced yesterday after she pleaded guilty to a charge of harboring one of the escapees.

A grand jury indicted Mrs. Vose last November on five counts of aiding and abetting the escape, including smuggling a gun to the prisoners, but the other counts were dismissed.

The escapees were captured within a month. They are Robert Higuera, 26, George Quinlan, 24, and Robert Gallant, 24, all of the Los Angeles area.

Standard Oil's Workers Return

RICHMOND (AP) — Some 1,300 oil workers returned to their jobs at the Standard Oil Co. refinery today, ending a two-month strike after overwhelming approval of a new two-year contract.

Members of Local 1561 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCAW) voted approval of the new pact yesterday, ending the strike which began Jan. 4.

National OCAW headquarters in Denver also approved the new contract, which provides for an immediate 6 per cent pay raise and an additional 4.5 per cent next Jan. 1.

Foundation Seeking $30,000 For Loans

The College of Marin Foundation seeks $30,000 in its current drive for funds to provide student loans and scholarships, campaign manager J. Galen Foster said today.

Of the $30,000, there is $10,000 slated for emergency loans which are limited to $50 each. Last year the fund supplied about 2,000 such loans, the smallest about $10, the highest $50.

The rest of the $30,000 would be divided $15,000 for scholarships and $5,000 to match the National Defense Student loan of $35,000.

Last year the foundation aided 24 students who were awarded $8,000 in scholarships, the largest $800.

Short term loans are for necessitites such as books, supplies, transportation, rent and food. Such loans must be paid back at the end of the semester in which they are borrowed.

The $35,000 received from the federal government is used for long-term loans. These loans are up to $1,000 a year and must be repaid one year after the student is no longer a full-time student. About 50 such loans were made last year.

National Defense Student loan funds are now either exhausted or committed, according to Foster, so the present account is empty. The current fund drive is for the 1969-70 school year.

How does one know if the scholarships go to deserving students?

All College of Marin students are eligible to apply for loans or scholarships. But some scholarships stipulate that they must be given on the basis of need, grade, major, sex or race.

Foster, of San Rafael, said that the applications are carefully screened by two committees.

The student first fills out a long form which is reviewed by the college committee including the college president, the dean of students, some faculty members and Charles F. Herndon, college financial aid officer.

Such facts are determined as parents' income, number of brothers and sisters, and the student's scholastic achievement. The student does not need a certain grade point average but his grades are checked to see how well he is doing in his major.

Applicants are then interviewed by Herndon.

The college committee selects the most likely candidates and then the application goes before a lay committee of foundation members who make final approval. If this committee wishes, it may question the applicant.

There has been less than one per cent loss in loans in the five years of operation, Foster said.

The foundation raised $12,500 the year it began in 1964; it raised $16,000 in 1965-66; $24,000 in 1966-67; $13,000 in 1967-68.

Other Marin residents working on the campaign include Philip Merriman of Lucas Valley, special gifts committee; and Edwin Johnson and Don L. Johnson, business firm committee.

The drive ends March 15.

Students Face Bomb Charges

Ralph Ruiz, 28, and Isidro Gali, 29, are charged with conspiracy to manufacture bombs and illegal transportation of explosives.

There were bombings and attempted bombings after a student rampage damaged the campus Dec. 13.

A federal court judge rejected Gali's appeal for an injunction to prevent the college from expelling him after the rampage.

Innocent Pleas To Kidnapping

Daniel Thomas Stathos and Kenneth Lee Kenneth Lee Kenneth Lee Harnal, both 22, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of robbing and kidnaping restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella.

Stathos also pleaded innocent to robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in Larkspur on Oct. 28.

Attorneys for the two men indicated they will ask that the two be tried separately. Stathos' attorney did not give a reason today for wanting a severance, but said he would file a motion.

Judge Harold J. Haley continued the case until March 24 for setting a trial date and a possible ruling on motions.

A third defendant in the Sabella case, Walter John Hoefler, 26, pleased guilty to lesser charges and was sentenced to a state prison term to run concurrently with one received from a robbery conviction in Sonoma County.

The preliminary hearing for Stathos and Harnal in Marin Municipal Court was closed to the public, and Judge Haley today ordered that the transcript of the hearing remain sealed until March 24.

$1.5 Million Suits Filed In Airliner Crash

CHICAGO (AP) — Two $1.5-million damage suits have been filed against United Air Lines on behalf of families of two persons killed in the Jan. 18 crash of a United jetliner into the Pacific Ocean near Los Angele.

The Boeing 727 crashed minutes after taking off from Los Angeles International Airport, killing all 38 aboard. Both suits contend United was negligent in operating the airliner, alleging a generator in one engine was known to be defective before takeoff.

One of the suits filed Monday was for Patricia Ann Wilhelm and her two children, asking damages for the death of her husband, John, 27, a University of Denver law student. The other suit seeks damages for the widow and child of George Dolinski, 47, a Milwaukee engineer.

Curtis President Resigns, To Keep His Directorship

NEW YORK (AP) — Directors of Curtis Publishing Co. have accepted the resignation of company president Martin S. Ackerman, who made the decision to stop publishing the Saturday Evening Post.

Ackerman, 36, attended the meeting yesterday as the board accepted his withdrawal from the unsalaried post with "reluctance and regret."

The board rejected Ackerman's resignation last week. Ackerman, who held the presidency since last April 22, will remain as company director.

G. B. McCombs, 60, Curtis executive vice president associated with the company for 39 years, was elected president and chief executive officer.

The directors praised Ackerman for "an outstanding job" and expressed understanding for "his personal reason for desiring to have the company managed by someone who would have the support of the Curtis trustees."

Ackerman has been charged in three separate lawsuits by trustees of the Cyrus H.K. Curtis estate with alleged mismanagement of Curtis funds.

After the board meeting, Ackerman said he would move to accelerate the trustees' suits against him in order to clear his name.

Corte Madera Worries Over Traffic Proposal

Traffic on Corte Madera Avenue in Corte Madera would increase to more than 350 cars per hour if Mill Valley's Northridge plan is approved.

This warning was given the Corte Madera Town Council last night in a letter from J. Fred Walker, Corte Madera Avenue Homeowners Association president.

Another board member, Sheldon Schwebel, termed the proposed funneling of traffic a "tremendous burden" on the avenue.

Schwebel said proposed roads along Corte Madera and Warner Ridges could permit cars to exit into Corte Madera from Madrone Woodlands, Kent Woodlands and Mill Valley's West Blithedale Avenue.

No action was taken by the council but property owners were invited to take a field trip Saturday with the town planning commission over the proposed route, now a fire trail. Commissioners will meet at 9:30 a.m. at the O'Connor Road fire trail, Mayor Edward W. Colthurst announced.

The planning commission will also meet on the subject next Tuesday at 8 p.m. with Mill Valley planning commissioners in the Mill Valley City Hall.

"This (the proposed road plan) is like Terra Linda is to Sleepy Hollow," commented Councilman Harold Wagstaff, "but nobody is going to make that move."

"Mill Valley ran into a lot of static," the mayor said. "So they looked up and said, 'we've got an existing road and let's run the trains into that shed'."

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

EUCALYPTUS TREES — Discussed removal or topping of five eucalyptus trees on the town's Sausalito Street right-of-way, then assigned the problem to Councilmen H. S. Norville and Robert P. Simmons, the Public Works Committee, for a report.

SOLICITORS ORDINANCE — Decided to examine Marin County's solicitor's permit and the Larkspur solicitor's ordinance before creating one for the town. Corte Madera now uses the county's permit plus a police chief clearance.

AUTO SERVICE — Adopted an ordinance amending the zoning ordinance to make auto service stations a conditional use in all commercial zones.

SANITARY COMMISSION — Adopted an ordinance establishing a sanitary commission for Corte Madera Sanitary District, a subsidiary district of the town and approved the concept of an agreement to use the engineering services of Brown and Caldwell, San Francisco, for the Sanitary Commission.

SIGNAL LIGHT STUDY — Noted a letter from Ian K. McDougall, 39 Alta Way, objecting to paying $2,000 for traffic light consultation when the Corte Madera has a town engineer and director of public works.

FOURTH OF JULY — Authorized $750 to support the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July Celebration.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Wendell R. Wilkin from the park and recreation commission, Wilkin saying he has taken a teaching position at the University of California which will conflict with meeting dates.

SAN CLEMENTE DRIVE — Voted 4-1, Councilman Simmons voting "no," to award a $76,740 contract to low bidder Bresnan-Dalecio Co. of San Rafael to pave San Clemente Drive and install a guard rail along the road.

CITY-COUNTY — Acknowledged receipt of a "City-County Services Inequity" report from the City of Mill Valley, Mayor Colthurst saying, "we'll follow through on presentation to the necessary parties."

FIRE CHIEF — Authorized $113 for Fire Chief Frank L. Nelson to attend the California Fire Chief's Association Conference, May 20-23 in Arcade, Los Angeles County.

ANNUAL MEETING — Set March 20 for the annual dinner meeting with the town's commissions and boards. Place and time were not set.

SPRING PICK-UP — Heard that the Mill Valley Refuse Service will make its annual pick-up service April 21-28.

To Discuss Bids

Reed School District turstees will discuss calling for bids for Reedland Woods School construction and refurbishing of Reed School at 8 p.m. today at Bel Aire School.

Colleges Merger Is Seen By '70

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — President Nathan M. Pusey of Harvard said yesterday he hopes Harvard and Radcliffe can be merged by 1970.

Radcliffe now is separately administered, but its girl students attend classes conducted by the Harvard faculty.

Pusey, in a letter to Mary I. Bunting, president of Radcliffe, said the Harvard Corp. met yesterday and discussed the proposed merger at length.

Pusey mentioned as problems the extra costs Harvard will incur, legal restrictions governing ownership, administration and use of existing university funds and property, and the integration of admissions programs and procedures.

Sentencing Date Set For Burglary

Sentencing for two young soldiers from the Presidio of San Francisco, who have pleaded guilty to a burglary in the Panoramic Highway area, has been set for March 31 in Marin Superior Court.

David Ross Taylor, 20, and Donald Lee Ferrell, 18, also pleaded guilty to a charge of joyriding. They were arrested Feb. 17 after an intensive stakeout of the Panoramic Highway area by sheriff's officers.

By GARY TISCHLER

This is a team with all the creditentials, all the class, all the potential.

This is Redwood High School's championship basketball team, young, brawling, fast and polished, a team that after a shocking season-opening setback, swept to the Marin County Athletic League title through a whirlwind 13-game win streak.

This is Marin's 1969 entry in the tournament that separates the glitter from the class — the 1969 Tournament of Champions, to be held in the Oakland Coliseum Thursday through Saturday.

Redwood 1969 may be the league's best ever entry but to do any good the Giants will have to knock off the tournament favorite in the first round and that will take nothing but class.

The Giants face Castlemont of Oakland Athletic League in the first round at 6 p.m., the champions of a league that has almost called the TOC its own prized possession.

The Giants certainly have the credentials and the statistics — a 23-4 record, best ever since the founding of the MCAL; 13 straight wins; a 74-point scoring average in league play, tops in its history; 46 per cent shooting accuracy from the floor; reasonable height, and flagrant competitiveness.

But statistics aren't enough in this tournament, where some pretty good reputations have been built and blasted under the toughest competition around.

"This is the best team I've ever had here," Redwood coach Dick Hart said. "They're better than the other two TOC teams I've had in 1961 and 1965. It may be the best team the league has had."

The Giants have a strong bench, which they may well need.

Here's a look at the top nine players.

Jerry Piro, 6-foot 3-inch forward, only a junior, one of the top players to come out of this league. Good shooter, solid and fierce, a leader and team player, 19-point league scoring average, shooting 51 per cent in league play, top rebounder on the club, can play anywhere, hungry competitor, honor roll student, the boy whom many rival coaches have put on their "I wish I had him" list.

John Boro, No. 2 scorer on the club, a streak shooter, who, when's he's on, can tear a game apart, 12 point avaerage in league, only a junior, vastly improved from "B" play where he was only part-time starter, gutsy defensive player.

Skip Corsini, 5-9, a senior and the team's floor leader, fiery competitor, scores little, but in timely spots, good shooter, excellent ball-handler, leads team in assists.

Jim Peters, 6-3 senior, called Hondo by teammates, the club's money player, not a basketball natural, but a natural athlete, likes it rough underneath, draws best tall opponent on defense, can shoot when he needs to, 11-point average, second-best rebounder, tough in clutch.

Roger Smith, sixth man on the club, carries 11-point scoring average, excellent shooter, missed several games due to injuries, brother of ex-Redwood star Russ Smith.

Bill Challender and Pete Webb, alternate in pivot, both 6-6, Challender an exceptionally smooth sophomore, strong, built solid, needs more experience; Webb, a senior transfer who joined club midway through league season, tough under boards, 90 rebounds in seven games, fouls often but makes up for it in aggressiveness.

Art Carewe, spot sub, quickest gun on the team, shoots fast and accurately, can come off bench with timely bucket from long range, smallish but fast, a senior.

Hart, whose teams were walloped four times in two previous TOC trips against good teams, has reason to feel he can do better.

"By rights, they'll be underdogs in this one," Hart said. "We know we're playing the favorite. But just maybe everybody will think they'll lose but them. That's the way it's been all along."

JIM GILMARTIN

Giddings Makes His Writing Debut Today

JIM SHORTS:

After you finish devouring the goodies on this sheet you are directed to page 31 for an extra special dessert.

It is Al Giddings' debut as the I-J's fish and game columnist. Yes, it is the very same Alfred F. Giddings of Woodacre, the veteran warden for the Department of Fish and Game and the only warden I know who can wear a press card in his Smokey the Bear hat. His litterary efforts will appear on these pages at least twice a week.

Well, since you obviously can't wait, please come back after you've finished Al's first column. Thank you.

SINCE THE NEW Sears Point International Raceway will have only portable anny-cays for the first couple of events this month, that little gas station-lunch counter directly across from the Sonoma County track on Highway 121 can expect land office business. And, with water rates what they are, the roadside place could be flushed right out of business.

Half Of Great Football Act

SPEAKING OF the Sears Point racing complex, the track superintendent if Pat Flagerman of San Anselmo, one half of the Flagerman Brothers who starred in football at Tam High and Marin Junior College nearly three decades ago. After their J.C. days, Pat's brudder Jack went on to star at St. Mary's College and later played for the Los Angeles Dons of the defunct All-America Conference.

It's good to see Pat's name back in local sports and how appropriate for an auto race track superintendent to be named Flagerman, checkered or otherwise.

JIM WILHELM, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Wilhelm of Kentfield, just completed an outstanding basketball season at Bellarmine High in San Jose, highlighted by his selection on the All-West Catholic Athletic League team.

A graduate of Ross Grammar School and Little League and Babe Ruth baseball programs in the Kentfield area, Jim had the sharpest eye in the WCAL, leading in field goal percentages with .573 (47 for 82), was fourth leading scorer with 136 points in 10 games, sixth leading rebounder with 85 and sixth most accurate foul shooter with a .689 per cent.

And He's Also An A Student

Jim also plays first base for the Bells baseballers and is a pretty fair country hitter in the Gray Matter League where he's batting "A."

DISC JOCKEY Johnny Holliday of Tiburon, who directs the Radio KYA Oneders basketball team that plays charity games for high schools throughout Northern California, reports: "So far this year we have raised $34,300 for 30 schools. We would like to have a rematch with the Redwood High School faculty for a real worthwhile Marin County charity. We may challenge Redwood if they'll promise to use only their own faculty members this time."

He was referring to the December game in which Redwood, using a couple of red-hot ringers, handed KYA its only loss this season.

S.F. Rookies To Play In Exhibition Opener

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP)—Manager Clyde King of San Francisco announced today the pitchers who will head his all-rookie team for the Giants' opening Cactus League game against the Chicago Cubs Friday at Scottsdale.

They are righthanders Hal jjeffcoat and Joe Costello, with southpaw Mike Davison slated for the middle three innings.

Meantime, Vice President Chub Feeney expected to discuss contract terms with slugging first baseman Willie McCovey, and looked forward to greeting unsigned pitching star Juan Marichal tomorrow.

Marichal was 26-9 last year.

McCovey expects a pay hike from $60,000 to perhaps $75,000 after having led the National League last year in homers with 36 and runs batted in, 105.

McCovey arrived yesterday, a trim 215 pounds, and socked the ball over the 410-foot centerfield fence his first time at bat.

Lacrosse Teams May Be Formed

The possibility of forming lacrosse teams under the joint sponsorship of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department and the Marin Lacrosse Club will be discussed at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the city recreation center, Second and Brooks streets.

The meeting, for junior and senior high school age boys, will include a description and films on lacrosse.

$424,000 IN ONE DAY

Cards Restore Harmony

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The St. Louis Cardinals restored harmony in their player ranks yesterday at the highest one-day price in baseball history—a cool $424,000.

The price, give or take cigarette money, enabled the Cardinals to sign pitchers Bob Gibson, Nelson Briles and Ray Washburn, outfielders Curt Flood and Lou Brock and third baseman Mike Shannon and left Dal Maxvill and Julian Javier as the only unsigned members of the National League champions.

CLUB RECORD

Gibson, the N.L.'s Most Valuable Player in 1968 when he had a 22-9 record, 13 shutouts and a 1.12 earned run average, agreed to a club record $125,000. Gibson thus topped Hall of Famer Stan Musial, the man with whom he negotiated, as the highest-paid Cardinal in history.

The remaining $300,000 peace package was divided as follows: $88,000 for Flood, $87,000 for Brock, $52,000 for Shannon, $38,000 fr Briles and $35,000 for Washburn. Still remaining to be signed are Javier and Maxvill, with the former believed asking for $70,000 and the latter $65,000.

The world champion Detroit Tigers, meanwhile, were continuing to find that Willie Horton is as tough at negotiating a six-figure contract as he was in the clutch at the plate last season. Horton, who hit 36 homers and batted 285, is negotiating through an attorney and General Manager Jim Campbell said yesterday he was "unsure of the status of the talks."

Horton is the only member of the world champions who hasn't agreed to terms.

The Los Angeles Dodgers also continued to have contract problems despite the fact that Ted Savage signed and Bill Singer agreed to terms. Still unsigned are Don Drysdale, Claude Osteen, Paul Popovich, Ken Boyer, Ron Fairly and Len Gabrielson.

SATISFIED

On other fronts: Manager Ted Williams said he is satisfied with the attitude of the Washington Senators and commented, "I would expect that because they know they're being handled like men."...Fourtime N.L. batting champion Roberto Clemente worked out with the Pittsburgh Pirates for the first time this spring and Matty Alou, the only Pirate not in camp, is scheduled to arrive at Bradenton, Fla., within a few days.

'B' Coaches Name Cage All-Leaguers

Unbeaten Redwood High and runnerup Marin Catholic topped selections for the 1969 Class B All-Marin County Athletic League team picked by Class B coaches yesterday.

Redwood and Marin Catholic had two players each on the first team and two more on the second team.

Making up the six-player first team were Tom Marker and Greg Pedlar of Redwood, Bill Donellan and Jack Stahl of Marin Catholic, Larry Maroney of Drake and Dan Meredith of San Rafael. Second team choices were Bob Piper and Terry Dorai of Redwood, Terry Cole and Sean Manion of Marin Catholic, and Steve Holshevnikoff of Novato.

Monday, Jackson Hold Out

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—Rick Monday where are you? The Oakland Athletics, particularly owner Charles O. Finley, would like to have a few words with you.

Monday, the one-time $104,000 bonus baby, was unaccounted for as the A's opened their first full week of spring training at this Arizona spa.

However, he isn't the only unsigned Oakland player. Reggie Jackson, Monday's teammate at Arizona State, also remained dissatisfied with the terms offered by owner Finley.

"I would like to sign but I don't think he (Finley) is going to come up any more." Jackson said yesterday from his Tempe home. "They've made their final offer and that's fine. I have my own opinion of what I'm worth."

Jackson said he might turn to teaching and selling real estate.

Alcindor Heads UPI List

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lew Alcindor, who has known defeat only one time during his collegiate career at UCLA, and Olympic hero Spencer Haywood of Detroit today were named to the United Press International All-America basketball team.

For Alcindor, the 7-foot, 1½-inch senior, the near-unanimous selection marked him as only the fourth player ever to gain first team recognition three consecutive years. Haywood, a sophomore, was virtually unknown on a national level until he led the United States team to victory in the Mexico City Olympics.

OLYMPIC CHAMPS

The UPI first team is completed by a trio of juniors—Pete Maravich of Louisiana State, Rick Mount of Purdue and Calvin Murphy of Niagara. Both Maravich and Murphy are repeaters on the honor team while Mount was a second-team selection last year.

Charlie Scott of North Carolina and Jo Jo White of Kansas, two of Haywood's teammates on the victorious Olympic team, were named to the second UPI team along with Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure, Mike Maloy of Davidson and Bud Ogden of Santa Clara.

Selected to the third team were Dan Issel of Kentucky, Neal Walk of Florida, Howard Porter of Villanova, Butch Beard of Louisville and Jim McMillian of Columbia.

PREP ALL-LEAGUE

Redwood, Novato Dominate Team

To the surprise of no one, champion Redwood High School and runnerup Novato High dominated the selections for the 1969 All-Marin County Athletic League basketball team, picked by league coaches last night.

Novato's dynamic scoring punch of seniors Steve McNally and Ed Herrnberger, Redwood's all-around sleek junior Jerry Piro, and Terra Linda standout Pat Purcell were unanimous choices for first team honors. Also selected for the first team was Redwood's Jim Peters.

BORO

Redwood's streak-shooting guard John Boro headed second-team selections, along with Marin Catholic's classy Mike Murray, high-scoring Clark Jamison of Drake, San Rafael pivot man Ray Taylor and Terra Linda's Mike Timmel.

Something of a surprise was the relegation to honorable mention of San Marin's one-man show Gary Howard, third-best scorer in league play.

THREE EACH

The selections gave Redwood and Novato four of the five first-team spots and another on the second team. Terra Linda, however, tied Redwood in number of players receiving some kind of honors, with three.

McNally, the only repeater from last year's first team, and Herrnberger, both seniors, finished one-two in the league' scoring statistics, with McNally on top with a 20.1 average. (Statistics on page 31.) The pair was the hub of Novato's highly explosive offense.

Piro, fourth in league scoring, is the only junior to crack the first team.

Purcell at one point led the league in scoring, and was Terra Linda's key man, scoring-wise.

Peters was second in rebounding on Redwood's title team, a valuable defensive man who still managed to average in double figures.

Redwood Heads Water Polo Team

Unbeaten Redwood High School landed three players on the 1969 All-Marin County Athletic League water polo team selected by coaches last night.

Goalie Kirk Gray and Greg Myers of Redwood were unanimous picks. Ken Levin of Redwood also landed on the first team, along with Bill Kuhn of Novato, Dave Newman and Kit Thomas of Terra Linda and Mike Gibson of Tamalpais.

O. J. Simpson Is Joining Football's Foreign Legion

They feted O. J. Simpson at the Friars Club the other day. He's going to join the Foreign Legion of Football.

Oh, I like Buffalo all right. I spent a summer there in 1941. It didn't snow much.

It's the one place in the East where you can sleep under covers all summer long. In fact, you better. In the summer, people peel clear down to their overcoats.

THEY DON'T have mudslides in Buffalo, just avalanches. I tried to go back in winter once but I couldn't find it. It's a tough town. The most popular sports are shuffleboard, bowling — and shivering. It's a town where God left the door open.

Of course, it's right close to Olean — and Machias and Franklinville and Bradford, Pa. And all the fleshpots of the Western world. If falling water is your idea of kicks, Niagara Falls is nearby. I must warn you, it looks just like the Shredded Wheat boxes.

ITS FOOTBALL team is just like it is — nothing fancy, it just breaks your bones for you. It outnosebleeds you but it doesn't outscore you. It plays its games in two feet of snow or three feet of mud. Nobody knows the names of the players, because, by the second play, you can't tell friend from foe.

Sticking O. J. Simpson in this setting is like putting the Kohinoor diamond on a charlady, putting orchids in a milk bottle, putting a tuxedo on an ape.

SUPPOSE YOU are a summa cum laude journalism student. And Dubuque drafts you? What if you are a brilliant automotive engineer? And a Juneau, Alaska, garage gets the rights to you? How about Rock Hudson restricted to a rural stock company?

It's a rule of thumb in professional sports that the athlete has to play, for best financial return, where the white heat of publicity glows the brightest. O. J. was fortunate in that he played the first act of his career in the second-best spotlight in America — Los Angeles. Now, he goes on the kerosene circuit.

A GALE SAYERS, for instance, played his collegiate career at Lawrence, Kans. As a result, his fame had spread clear to Topeka. He didn't sell many season tickets when he first came to Chicago.

O. J. Simpson, on the other hand, comes to Buffalo as Instant Success. His manager, Chuck Barnes, has sorted out 340 different requests for personal appearances currently at fees ranging up from $1,000. He is about to sign an exclusive tie-up with Chevrolet. He is, simply, the most famous football player in America, and one of the three or four most famous figures.

DOES HE now go to a monastery? Does he become just another cake of mud in the middle of Memorial Stadium in Buffalo?

Already, HE has upgraded Buffalo's image. Both the Rams and Colts have scheduled exhibition games with O. J. — pardon me, with the Buffalo Bills — next season. "The Rams could figure on, oh, maybe, 30,000 in an exhibition game with Buffalo without O. J. next year," points out Barnes. "With O. J., there could be upwards of 70,000.'

RALPH WILSON, the owner of the Buffalo Bills, who has enough money so he doesn't have to live in Buffalo, threatens to leave Buffalo with his franchise unless he gets a domed stadium. The city fathers aren't laughing any more.

At the Super Bowl, this past January, a group of Buffalo fans showed up with a sign "Buffalo: All the Way with O. J. in '69."

I ALWAYS come back to the great line in Villa-Lobos' operetta, "Magdalena," where the Parisian general in the court of Napoleon II has been banished to the banana forts of the South American interior, and attempts to persuade his mistress to leave the red-velvet luxury of France and accompany him, on the plaint they will be great lovers in the orchidaceous, moonlit jungle. "Oh, no," she says. "In Paris, great lovers. In the jungle, two monkeys!"

PLAYING IN New York, Los Angeles, Chicago has been estimated to be worth a half to three-quarter million dollars to the athlete, in outside or peripheral income. What do you endorse in Buffalo? A snow shovel? A ballbearing? An overshoe? Even if you get them a domed stadium, what does that get you? A confetti paragde down Delevan Avenue on a snowplow? A tour of the Otis Elevator Plant? Most of the country doesn't know O. J.'s right name. If he plays in Buffalo, they may forget his initials.

Doctors Rule Out Namath Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, quarterback of the world champion New York Jets, has been told that surgery on his left knee might jeopardize his American Football League career.

Dr. James A. Nicholas, the Jets' orthopedic specialist, examined Namath yesterday. He recommended that surgery was not advisable.

Namath already has had three operations on his knees, one on the left and two on the right. He has an inflamed tendon in his left knee and he has said several weeks ago another operation might be necessary.

Low Mound Hurts Giants Linzy, Perry

By JACK HANLEY

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. — Frank Linzy isn't sure yet what effect, if any, the lower pitching mound will have on his sinker ball.

"I'll find out when the exhibition games start," said the bullpen ace of the San Francisco Giants whose over-the-top fast ball has a natural sinking action. "I'm not trying to keep the ball reall low yet. After all, we are just pitching batting practice now."

Baseball's rules committee at its winter meeting lowered the pitching mound from 15 to 10 inches above the level of home plate. Five inches trims one-third of the height of the mound. An over-the-top sinker thrown from the lower height will have less action on it. And batters will be able to see the overhand pitche better now.

Larry Jansen, pitching coach of the Giants, believes the lower mound will be a handicap to over-the-top pitchers such as Gaylord Perry. When Juan Marichal uses his overhand serve he, too, will be handicapped. But the Dominican Dandy also comes out of the three-quarter and sidearm slots so he shouldn't be seriously handicapped by the rules change.

"Pitchers like Bobby Bolin who use the three-quarter delivery shouldn't be affected too much," said Jansen.

Naturally, Jansen is withholding judgment on just how much Linzy's sinker will be affected. Any opinion based on batting practice pitching is valueless. "It takes competitive conditions in actual games to give substance to any judgments," said Jansen.

Linzy is being extremely careful in these early days of spring training not to develop a sore back. "The lower mound height will tend to restrict my normal follow through and that could put undue strain on my back," said Linzy.

It would be ironical, indeed, if Linzy became a victim of the lower mound because a hign mound in San Diego almost ended his career in 1963. He wrenched his lower back and tore the hamstring muscle of his left leg in a fall off the mound.

When Linzy became the star of the Giants' bullpen in 1965, he still was suffering from the back damage caused by the accident. It wasn't until 1967 that he was entirely free of pain.

"I couldn't run without pain until the spring of 1967," Linzy recalled.

So it is no wonder that Linzy now is being very, very careful in adjusting his stride to the lower mound conditions.

Linzy's artistry is most important to the Giants for whom he has won 32 games and saved 50 others in relief roles during the last four seasons.

Linzy finished the 1968 season with a string of 10 scoreless innings in the final two weeks of September. During the last six weeks of the season he allowed only one run in 33 innings. Linzy's lifetime ERA for his four major league campaigns from 1965 through 1968 is 2.15.

Only twice in 57 relief roles last year did he give up more than one earned run in an appearance.

Riots Follow S.F. Prep Cage Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Emotion-charged fans engaged in fist fights and window-breaking violence yesterday after a championship high school basketball game at Kezar Pavilion.

The police Tactical Squad was summoned to quell the disturbance on the eastern fringes of Golden Gate Park and the Haight-Ashbury District following Sacred Heart's 61-52 thumping of Woodrow Wilson for the city title and a trip to the Tournament of Champions starting Thursday.

A dozen persons, including four adults and eight youths, were arrested and booked on charges of disturbing the peace, battery on a police officer and resisting arrest.

Tempers flared inside the pavilion and several fist fights erupted in the parking lot after the game. Teachers and a half dozen police officers tried unsuccessfully to separate the combatants.

When the Tactical Squad arrived, officers were pelted with bottles, rocks and sticks.

While order was being restored, some youths dashed down nearby Haight and Waller streets, smashing store windows with rocks and bottles. Some looting was reported.

The manager of a drive-in restaurant across the street from the pavilion said youths shattered several large windows, grabbed food and even tried to make off with the cash register.

A few passersby reported being assaulted before police squads rounded up most of the rampaging youths.

Warriors Take On Celtics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If the San Francisco Warriors are going to snap out of their doldrums, they'll have to do it tonight against the National Basketball Association's defending champions.

And if that isn't bad enough, San Francisco will host the Eastern Division-leading Baltimore Bullets tomorrow and Friday before going on a road swing.

Seals Again Ship Hodge To Minors

OAKLAND (UPI) — For the second time in less than a month, the Oakland Seals have shipped goaltender Charlie Hodge to Vancouver of the Western Hockey League.

The latest move, which came about yesterday, leaves Oakland, second in the National Hockey League Western Division, with two goalies — Gary Smith and rookie Chris Worthy.

Hodge was drafted from Montreal in the expansion draft two years ago.

COLLEGE OF MARIN SPORTS

Riemcke To Head Clinic In Fresno Cage Tourney

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Although College of Marin's basketball team didn't make it to the state tournament at Fresno City College, Cal Riemcke, the Tars' veteran coach, is playing an important part in the affair.

Cal is president of the California Junior College Basketball Coaches Association and chairman of the playoffs committee. He'll be in Fresno all week. In addition to the tourney which starts Thursday, he is heading a clinic of J. C. coaches tomorrow.

It's bad enough Cal's team didn't get to the all-state tourney, there isn't even a representative from the Camino Norte Conference. Champ Contra Costa, which swept through the CNC without a loss, fell to City College of San Francisco in a playoff for a tournament berth, 68-56, last Saturday.

MARIN'S TENNIS team was to open its season today in Hayward against Chabot College. First Camino Norte match will be March 17 at Vallejo against Solano College.

It's a new team for Marin, with only Dan Matin back from last year's team. He was the No. 2 man for the Tar netters.

INEXPERIENCE is also the key word for the Marin golf team, with only one returnee off the 1968 squad. But he's a big one, Val Sabuco, No. 1 man last year. The Tars lost their first match of the season, 4-1 to Napa last month.

Marin golfers were to take on DeAnza Junior College today at Los Altos Golf Club in the first conference match of the season. Friday will be a big test, as the Tars will be taking on West Valley J. C. C. of Campbell on the San Geronimo National links. West Valley won the championship of the Coast Conference last year before the junior college realignement put them in the new Camino Norte Conference.

MARIN'S TRACK and field team is getting in some cross country practice just getting to the practice field. Without a field of its own, the team treks from its Kentfield campus to Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley. The Tars practice after Tam High finished up.

Bailey is high on sophomore George Stuart who has been clocked in 1:54.6 during an 880 leg of a distance relay. "He's one of the best middle distance runners in the conference," says Tony, adding he'll be used in half mile, mile, and even two mile events.

Other standouts for Marin should include soph John Rowe who put the shot 47 feet, 5 inches last year and is expected to pass 50 feet this season. There's also freshman Bill Beal from Campbell High who is the team's Mr. Versatile, including pole vault, 220, discus. Paul Vanderbilt from San Rafael High is another 13-foot vaulter for the Tars.

In speaking about the conference, Bailey says it's a tough one. Contra Costa, he reminds, won the Golden Gate Conference track title last year against San Jose and City College of S. F.

IT WAS a rough season for Sonoma State College's basketball team, but things should be different in baseball, say Sonoma State Cossack followers.

According to Ed Rudloff, sports publicity director at Sonoma State, the team "is by far the strongest in Cossack history."

Rick Barry Is Resting After Surgery On Knee

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rick Barry is recuperating from a knee operation in a UCLA Medical Center hospital bed today but he still leads the American Basketball Association in scoring.

Barry, superstar of the Oakland Oaks, underwent what was termed "uneventful" surgery yesterday on his left knee to remove cartiliage. The operation was performed by Dr. Martin E. Blazina, physician for many UCLA athletic teams.

In the latest statistics, Barry leads in the ABA scoring race with a 34.0 point per game average. Ironically, his nearest competitor is Connie Hawkins of the Minnesota Pipers, who also is out for the season with a knee injury. Hawkins had a 33.4 mark when he underwent an operation.

Barry joined the Oaks this season after sitting out last year to gain freedom from the National Basketball Association San Francisco Warriors.

Sausalito Salmon Fleet Hits Jackpot Of Limits

Though the new two-fish limit went into effect Saturday, nice weather and a good school of salmon that seemed to stretch from the Slide Ranch area to Duxbury Reef near Bolinas rewarded anxious fishermen with limits all around. Game wardens checking the anglers as they returned to Sausalito reported that 64 fishermen checked in with 64 limits!!

Most fish weighed from five to eight pounds, with a few larger ones reported lost, which is par for the course when listening to the tales of the big ones that always get away. Most of the boats were on the way home by 11 a.m. The ocean was reported calm and everyone was happy.

IF YOU like perch fishing, it looked like every kid in town had a string of perch tied up in the pier area of Sausalito over the weekend. The adults were in there pitching, too, especially at the Lime Point pier. Lots of perch and some flounders.

I CHECKED 50 persons digging for cockles at Duxbury Reef Saturday and found they averaged only eight cockles per person.

STRIPED BASS fishing in Tomales Bay is fair — but rugged!

I tried it with a friend of mine on a day off last week and, from his point of view, fishing was great. He used pile worms while I used shrimp. We fished in about three feet of water near Inverness and started on low tide about 4 p.m., planning to fish until 9 p.m. when things get dark and cold. (Night fishing is legal at Tomales Bay, but it is difficult to get boats launched at night.)

Anyway, my friend, with his new bait (I'd never seen pile worms tried for stripers), wanted to make some bets with me. As I was using shrimp I thought I had it made until we quit at 9 p.m. and compared catches. He had two fish in the boat weighing 20 and 18 pounds, returned two undersized bass to the water, not to mention one he lost that we estimated to be 30 to 40 pounds.

Me? I caught two flounders, paid off my bets and went home trying to figure out a good place to dig for pile worms.

My friend and I usually wager 50 cents for the first, biggest and most fish, but on this particular day he talked me into raising the bets to 75 cents per. He must have known something.

STEELHEAD FISHING in Marin County closed officially last Friday and, to use the words of most fishermen, it was a lousy season.

Rains kept the streams high and muddy, so most action was restricted to bait fishing. I know of only one angler, Pete Valconesi of Pt. Reyes Station, who took any steelhead on flies in Papermill Creek this season.

There were 37 anglers along the banks of Papermill one day last week and 6 fish were caught. Two anglers who took 4 of the 6 fish used, surprisingly enough, No. 8 hooks and single eggs and it was the first time they had fished Papermill. Maybe something new has been added for next year.

THE NEW fishing regulations which went into effect March 1 say that the Russian River will remain open for steelhead through March and April this year. There has always been talk of the late runs in the Russian so the extended season will provide some of the answers. The shad fishermen who have always had to release any steelhead taken while shad fishing should be happy with the new regulations.

NOTES: It is legal to keep a steelhead caught in Tomales Bay, San Francisco Bay and ocean. Some anglers have thrown back the fish only to discover later after reading regulations that they were perfectly legal to keep, and that really hurts.

The Department of Fish and Game has reported 75,000 yearling silver salmon are being stocked throughout the Russian River and some tributaries this month. Many of these fish will return as grilse next year in October and November and weigh approximately two pounds. Fishing could be great.

Set Days Planned For Indy Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The Memorial Day 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be either on Saturdays or Mondays beginning in 1971 because of a new federal and state law.

Gov. Edgar D. Whitcomb signed a bill yesterday, conforming with a federal law, which will establish four holidays as falling annually on Mondays beginning in 1971. Memorial Day will be the last Monday in May.

Al Bloemker, public relations director for the Speedway, said yesterday the 500 will be either on the new Memorial Day, Monday, or the preceding Saturday, depending on which management decides "is best for the average race fan."

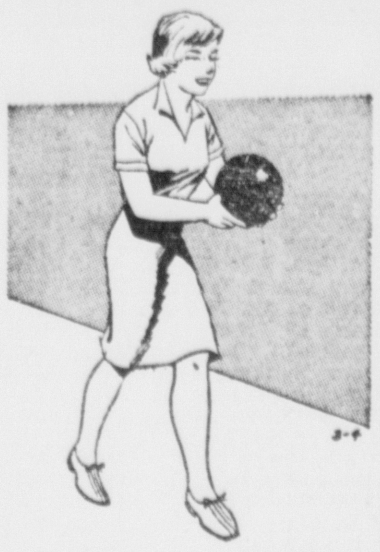
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



It's good advice to follow: steady the ball with the left hand for as long as possible. Today's bowler is completing the second step, and her left hand is still helping hold the ball. Right after this she'll slide the left hand out from under and the ball will start its drop into the backswing.

Free Sailing School Opens On March 12

A free course in sailboat handling and safety will be held by the Coast Guard Auxiliary starting March 12, 7:30 p.m., at San Clemente School in Corte Madera.

Sponsored by Flotilla 54 of the auxiliary, the public education course will be directed by Barry Binns, auxiliary member, Palo Alto teacher and sailboat expert.

The eight-lesson course will run each Wednesday night for eight weeks. The course will include such subjects as maneuvering, seamanship, aids to navigation, charts and compass, sailing, wind and weather, and rules of the road.

In addition to classroom training, instruction will be held in boats on the water. Interested persons should go to San Clemente School March 12 for the first class, said the auxiliary.

Horse's Career May Be Finished

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — X rays dispel fears that champion filly Dark Mirage has a broken bone.

The speedy thoroughbred suffered what could have been a career-ending fracture in last Saturday's $100,000 Santa Margarita Handicap at Santa Anita. But X-rays showed yesterday the filly suffered a dislocated sesamond bone with damage to tendons and ligaments.

It was generally felt by track officials that the injury occurred after the start of the race when Dark Mirage was bumped.

Dark Mirage was favored in the race but pulled up shortly after the injury and Princessnesian won the added-money event.

Dog Betting Gains

DENVER (AP) — Wagering at Colorado's four greyhound racing tracks jumped to $52.6 million last year from $28.5 million in 1956.

Novato Pair Places 1-2 In Scoring

Steve McNally and Ed Herrnberger, both seniors and both members of Novato High School's runnerup Marin County Athletic League basketball team, finished one-two in the final league scoring statistics.

McNally, the elusive Hornet guard, won the individual scoring crown with 282 points for a nice 20.1 average, the only 20-plus average in the league.

Indicative of the high scoring this season was that 17 players wound up in double-figure averages.

FOUR POINTS

McNally edge out Herrnberger by four points. Herrnberger, in turn, nipped San Marin hot-shot Gary Howard by a point. Herrnberger had 278 points (19.9), Howard 277 (19.8) and Jerry Piro, from champion Redwood High School, 271 points and a 19.3 average.

McNally also had the best free-throw percentage in the league, making 80 of 102 shots.

Team-wise, Redwood's 20.9 advantage over opponents through the league season was tops, with Novato next, holding a 10.7 edge.

A ROARING DEBUT FOR SEARS POINT RACEWAY

Double A Fuel Dragsters such as this Gotelli Special of San Francisco will help dedicate the new multi-million dollar Sears Point International Raceway Saturday and Sunday in the National Open Drag Races sponsored by the National Hot Rod Association. Jack Cameron of Napa, drag strip manager for the motor sports complex at highways 37 and 121 in Southern Sonoma County, expects 700 entries for the inaugural event. First sports car races are scheduled March 29-30, said Sears, vice president and general manager James Coleman. (Alfred M. Arn photo)

MARIN HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Case Of The Missing Track Stars

This may be the year of the missing person in track.

Some of the Marin County Athletic League high school track teams, in particular that of Tamalpais, have lost some good personnel simply because the boy moved out of the area, lock, stock and team point.

Tamalpais, for instance, lost its only discus man when Class B star Gary Soderstrom moved. Also from the Mill Valley schools lineup missing is a promising and talented speedster Bonner Buehler, fastest freshman on the squad last year. He hasn't reported . . .yet.

At Redwood High, they're bemoaning the loss of distance ace Wayne Horuchi, who also moved away. A Class B star at the Larkspur school last year, he had a 4:31.7 mile to his credit in addition to being a super 880 runner.

ROBERT TROPPMANN, head football coach at Redwood, considered the dean of grid coaches in the MCAL, has come out with a book on football defenses that has received high praise from Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty.

The name of the book is "Football's Master Defense Guide," and it's a pack of master defenses designed to stop just about any offense.

Here's what Duffy said in the introduction, in part:

"Bob Troppmann has come up with the complete answer in setting defenses for any opponent. His Master Defense system combines the number and color calls and has evolved into a fullproof way of using the right defense for any offensive formation."

The book has a flip section which allows the matching of any of his color-coded defenses to any of the possible offenses on the same page. Parker Publishing Company, Inc., of New York is putting out the book.

SPEAKING OF football coaches, Tom Burt of Los Altos High School and Don Brown of Mira Loma High School in Fresno have been selected to coach the North team at the 18th annual Shrine North-South Football Classic set for July 23 in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

NOVATO HIGH School's golf team will be down this year. It will be difficult to replace Ray Leach, the fabulous young golfer now making a name for himself as a freshman at Brigham Young University in Utah.

But coach Al Scott reports that Mike Ahern may turn out to be one of the top golfers in the league.

"He's not in the same class as Ray but he gave Ray a run for his money last year," Scott said. "He's a long ball hitter, a real good one."

EVER NOTICE how some fellows seem to excell in just about any sport they handle?

Take a prime example at Redwood where Jim Peters does his stuff. Peters was starting quarterback on Redwood's football team, a key man on Redwood's championship basketball team and, as soon as the Giants wind up their work in this week's High School Tournament of Champions, at Oakland Coliseum, will toil as a pitcher and catcher on Redwood's baseball team.

The new Novato school doesn't have a pool as yet and is hoping to use everybody else's . . . somehow, sometime.

Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs played all of his team's National League games during 1968, extending his consecutive game streak to 819.

Market On Plus Side At The Close

NEW YORK (UPI) — Advances topped declines by more than 2-to-1 on Wall Street today in fairly heavy tunrover.

Traders were inspired by the sharp rise in late-February automobile sales, increased construction spending in January and last week's continued high rate of steel production.

The Dow Jones Average of 30 blue chip industrials showed a gain of 8.95 at 917.58 near the close. Volume climbed toward the 9,000,000 share mark.

Steels moved forward, as did motors, both reflecting bright industry news. Building materials also tended higher.

Du Pont and Eastman Kodak led the mostly firmer chemicals, with gains of a point or better after three hours.

Sinclair and Atlantic Richfield were delayed in opening after the government granted qualified approval to their merger. Cities Service and Pennzoil gained, the latter responding to a bright earnings forecast.

Northwest Industries, a holding company created by the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, and Penn Central were impressive rails late in the session.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Income Preferred To Stock Growth

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I'm 77 and recently received 411 of Lowe's subordinated debentures 6⅞s of 1993 and 664 12-year warrants in exchange for 664 shares of Lorillard. Each warrant is good for purchasing one share of Loew's common. I'd appreciate your opinion. — M. H.

Q. I'm past 83 and care nothing for growth, only reasonable safety and high return. Should I hold or sell the 16 Loew's debentures I received for my Lorillard? — W. W.

A. For the present I'd hold the debentures for income, waiting to see how the comapny's total situation is resolved. Since taking over Lorillard, Loew's appears to be planning further acquisition moves and the one involving Goodrich has created litigation with Loew's as the defendant.

Long term, Loew's common is considered worth holding for its speculative potential, but you're both at an age where speculative growth has lost its appeal. I recommend selling the warrants, traded on the American Exchange, and reinvesting the proceeds in some of the high-rated bonds and preferred stocks which I have recommended recently to readers looking for maximum yield with safety.

Q. Please tell me if Eastman Kodak owns part of Polaroid — their advertising is so similar. Which would you consider the better investment? — E. F.

A. Since you tell me nothing about yourself or your investment objectives, I can only say that if you tend toward conservatism, you should buy Eastman. If you like the excitement of holding a lively performer, Polaroid should continue to provide this.

I have no reason to believe that Eastman owns any part of Polaroid, though both companies own subsidiaries outside the United States. Their advertising is similar because certain of their products are similar and competitive, especially their lower-priced cameras — Polaroid's Swinger and Eastman's Instamatic.

Polaroid's shares recently came under selling pressure, after the company announced plans to raise working capital through a rights offering. Adding over a million new shares to capitalization will lead to an earnings dilution of around 3 per cent.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Nothing Definite To Giant Bon Air Shopping Center Plans

Work has been going ahead on long range plans to expand the Bon Air Shopping Center in Greenbrae into a regional shopping center — but despite all rumors there are still no major tenants named.

The proposed development calls for construction of a "covered climate-controlled mall containing approximately 160,000 square feet of fashion shops, anchored by two major department stores — each with an area of 160,000 square feet."

Specualtion has been running rampant on who will occupy those two major department stores, but apparently nothing has been signed and no one admits to be about to take pen in hand.

What is new is that the Bon Air Development Co. has appointed Winmar Co., Inc. of San Francisco as leasing agent for the expansion, so at least is now ready to get down to serious talk with prospective tenants.

Present schedule calls for completion and opening of the regional center in the fall of 1971, but I am told it may be still farther removed.

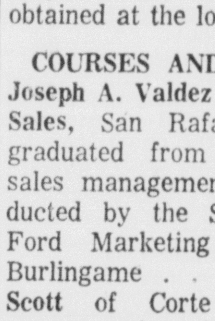
THERE HAS BEEN a change in ownership at Whitey's Stationery, 907 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

The last owners, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald McLarty, are retiring and have sold to Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Sainsbury of Novato. Before coming to Marin they were East Bay residents. He was formerly with Norcross, Inc., a greeting card firm, for a number of years.

INSURANCE. William R. Leathers of Greenbrae and Kenneth F. Lewis of San Rafael have been named members of John Hancock Mutual Life's President's Honor Club. Both are with the T. Jack Anttonen general agency in San Francisco. . . . An Allstate Insurance sales contest has resulted in an $820 contribution to Guide Dogs for the Blind as a consequence of San Francisco and Marin County agents making their quotas during the campaign.

ANOTHER STORE to undergo a change of proprietorship recently is called Ruth's Stationery and Gifts at 1585 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, near the San Anselmo line.

Owner Mrs. Ruth Honigman and her husband, Alex, who moved to Marin last summer from Madison, Wisc., have bought the greeting card business formerly operated by Andrew Isetta of the adjoining Don's Market. The Honigmans added office and stationery supplies, party goods and gifts and have extended the lines of greeting cards.



Wetterman

Miss Bennett

TWO MARINITES have received new appointments at Security Pacific National Bank.

Charles R. Wetterman of Tiburon has been appointed credit officer at the San Francisco main office. A former trust investment officer here, he began his banking career when he moved to California from Kansas City in 1941.

Miss Margaret Bennett of Mill Valley has been promoted from assistant secretary to marketing officer at the bank's Northern California headquarters in San Francisco. She began her banking career as a secretary in 1927.

MANAGER MARCIA PETTIJOHN of the San Rafael office of Manpower, Inc., reports that her company is again awarding 15 $300 scholarships to sons and daughters of temporary employees of the firm this year.

Competition is open to high school seniors who are January or June graduates this year, are under 21 and without previous college or university enrollment. They must be children of Manpower temporary employees who will have worked at least 100 hours between Jan. 1 and May 1, 1969. Other details can be obtained at the local office.

COURSES AND MEETINGS. Joseph A. Valdez of Ames Ford Sales, San Rafael has been graduated from the advance sales management course conducted by the San Francisco Ford Marketing Institute at Burlingame . . . Richard A. Scott of Corte Madera, a representative of Kaemper and Barrett, San Francisco wholesale appliance firm, recently participated in a seminar conducted by Amana Refrigerations, Inc. in Iowa.

THE PENNEY STORY

"This dress? I picked it up at Penney's."

By ROBERTA NASH

Once upon a time, women wanted their friends to think all their dresses came from the expensive stores with fancy labels.

But today it seems to be part of the fun to say, "I picked it up at Penney's."

The editor of a famous women's magazine believes today's woman is more certain of her own good taste when she goes shopping. She knows quality and style and she knows what's right for her—and she doesn't need the reassurance of a hefty price tag.

Hooray for today's woman!
